FOREIGNERS CONTROL LOWER CALIFORNIA

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 10. (By Mail) —Two thirds of Lower California, equal in extent to Cuba and Porto Rica combined, and an area in Chihuahua equal to England, are held by foreign interests, according to Excelsior. The paper states it secured its information from the agricultural bureau of the department of fomento, or development.

These figures are being studied with interest because of the constitutional provision (the famous article 27) barring foreigners from holding land within 100 kilometers of the Mexican frontier and 50 kilometers from the coast line. All lower California, except for a few points in the interior, is in the prohibited area, while Chihuahua also is affected, throughout its long extent of frontier.

Congress has been asked to grant the President authority to float loans not to exceed $5,000,000 for the purpose of indemnifying foreign interest suffering from the application of the constitutional provision in regard to frontier and coast lands. Value of the property involved is enormous, especially when the rich lands adjacent to California, United States, are considered.

DISCONTINUING AID SETS 95,000 TO WORK

LONDON, Jan. 8. (By Mail) —Ninety-five thousand civilian men and women must go to work as a result of the discontinuance of the government's dole to the unemployed. This is expected to have considerable effect upon the labor market. In all 135,000 persons were receiving the government's donation but of these 40,000 were engineers, rendered idle by a strike of iron moulders. Of the other 95,000, 61,000 were men and 34,000 women. It is generally hoped that the women will again enter domestic service.

The government's unemployment dole to demobilized service men and women will continue until March 31. The government's donation however, is limited to a maximum of nine weeks at one pound a week for men and 15 shillings a week for women. The American Chamber of Commerce states that, since the armistice 3,000,000 demobilized soldiers and sailors and 1,500,000 demobilized munition workers have been reabsorbed into peace industries.

AT THE THEATERS

Tonight will see the last performances of the William Fox big special production, "Evangeline," at the Liberty Theatre. The engagement of this picture, based on the great Longfellow's classic work, has been unusually successful and the only regret of Manager Poole is that its run cannot be extended. The picture is characterized by many of the most beautiful scenes ever filmed, and Miriam Cooper has won many new admirers by her work in the title role.

"Evangeline," of course, is a poem of tremendous dramatic power—a story the moving appeal of which reaches every human heart; but that it could be translated into a motion picture without the loss of any of its poetic beauty is certainly the happening of the unexpected.

As there can be no suspense in a murder mystery when the climax is divulged, the management of the Liberty Theatre, which will present the great melodrama, "The Thirteenth Chair," for two day commencing Sunday, refuses to tell anything about the story other than that it is written by Bayard Veiller, author of "Within the Law," adapted for the screen and directed by Leonce Perret, and enacted by a splendid cast headed by Yvonne Delya and Creighton Hale and including Marie Shotwell, Christine Mayo, Marc McDermott, Walter Law, Suzanne Colbert and George Deneubourg.

To say that "The Thirteenth Chair" is a story that attempts to find the murderer of a man at a spiritualistic seance, during which the man seeking the murderer is killed in the same manner as the first, gives you some idea of the possibilities of the story for tenseness and mystification. To add greater mystery to the situation, there was someone present each time, but no actual witnesses to the deed. A young girl, who turns out to be the supposedly lost daughter of the clairvoyant, is one of the many who are suspected of the crime.

JAPAN EXPORTS TO U. S. GROWING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Despite the steady growth of imports from Japan since the signing of the armistice, officials of the Department of Commerce today declared that American markets have been but little affected by the influx of oriental goods. Imports from Japan have increased mainly in value rather than in quantity, it is said.

During the 11 months ending with November 1919, the latest available figures, America imported goods valued at $367,130,187 from Japan, compared with $264,269,502 in 1918 and $238,550,617 in 1917.

One reason for the increase in imports is the shipping facilities, now available, officials declare, though Japan's expansion in foreign trade is regarded as general. Japanese goods which are sent to this country, however, are of the cheaper grades, it is said, and do not compete with the high class American manufactures. Low grade paper and cotton goods, tea, vegetable oils, silk and bamboo manufactures are said to form the bulk of the Japanese imports. The only classes of manufactures in which Japan and the United States are a competitive footing are toys and a few novelties in which the two countries now lead the world, officials say.

The constant increase in Japan's export trade not only with the United States but with the world indicates a heavy demand will be made in the far East for American machinery and mechanical devices, experts declare, Japan, it is said, can manufacture cheaply low grade goods but must import machinery with which to do it. Trade experts seem to concede that Japan will control the trade of the far East in the cheaper lines but they believe the demand for American manufacturing machinery and office appliances will keep step with the growth of Japanese trade.

No invasion of the American markets by Japanese manufacturers is expected by trade experts of the Department of Commerce. At present Japan has the advantage over European exporters, they say, because of the unsettled conditions brought on by the war. But when the industries of Europe have readjusted themselves a return of the normal flow of imports into the United States is looked for. For the next few years Japan's progress as a manufacturing nation will be almost wholly along the lines of her peculiar domestic products and low grade manufactures, it is asserted.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 24.—Oil operators in Black canyon, about sixty miles east of Los Angeles, have announced the discovery there of what seems to be a series of hieroglyphics of ancient Indian tribes. These pictures in stone, on the walls of the canyon, indicate a possible state of high culture. All have evident meanings; some are of horses drinking and others of arrows, pointing to now dead springs.
