BRAZIL TO ERECT NATIONAL PANTHEON
RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 1. (By Mail).—Proposal has been made that a national pantheon for all the illustrious personages of Brazil should be erected here in connection with the celebration of the centenary of Brazilian independence in 1922.
Plans for this 100th anniversary which have been submitted to the Chamber of Deputies would cost $12,500,000. They include an exposition of fine arts, erection of a national historical museum, and composition of an historical opera and a drama.
The scheme also provides for the organization of a great university. Sports will be one feature of the celebration.

It is proposed to hold the celebration in September. Brazil separated from the Kingdom of Portugal and was proclaimed independent by Don Pedro I, the first emperor of Brazil, September 22, 1822. This proclamation took place in São Paulo and it is proposed to erect there one of the finest commemorative monuments in the new world.
SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 26. (By Mail).—One of the largest irrigation dams in the world is to be built across the Murray river, the largest in Australia. It is to be named the Hume dam and erected at Mitta Mitta on the island between Victoria and New South Wales. The irrigation scheme will benefit three states.

BIG HERRING TRADE.
CORDOVA, Alaska, Jan. 8. (By Mail).—The herring industry, centering at Latouche, on Prince William Sound, is rapidly developing and may eventually rival the salmon industry in importance, according to local officials of the United States forest service. During 1919, 11,849 barrels of cured herring were shipped out.
Figures compiled by the forest service show that in addition to the herring pack, 286,000 cases of salmon and 30,265 cases of clams were handled during the year at Prince William Sound, the entire product being valued at nearly $6,500,000.
