WAR TANKS WORK IN PEACE TASKS

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., Feb. 6.—The whippet tank, which roared and banged and clanked its way to victory in battle in the war against Germany, is putting horses and mules out of business in the great pine forests of northern Arizona.

One big lumber concern here has just put two tanks to work, having bought them from the war department. Each tank has displaced 30 horses and 14 men, according to company officials.

Using horses, it was impossible for the company to haul during the winter months on account of deep snow. The tanks, however, take no account of weather conditions.

INDIAN RACE IS INCREASING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Despite popular belief that the civilization forced upon him by the white man means his ultimate extinction, the North American Indian, reviving from a long period of decadence, has shown such substantial increase in population in recent years that he probably is scarcely less numerous today than when Columbus discovered America.

Startling as this assertion may be to those who have pictured American forests in the discoverer's time as swarming with red men, it is freely advanced by experts of the government's Indian bureau, who maintain that the Indian necessarily formed an exceedingly scant population, which probably at no period materially exceeded the total of 333,702 Indians reported by the bureau for last year.

"The Indian no longer is to be thought of as a dying race," declared Dr. Lawrence W. White, an Indian authority of the bureau. "In support of that statement it is necessary, in the first place, to disabuse the public mind of the tradition handed down by discoverers and early colonists that American forests in their day swarmed with the dusky figure of the red man. As the Indian neglected agriculture almost completely, it is highly improbable that this country, considering its latitude, could have supported more than several hundred thousand of his race."

On the other hand, Dr. White continued, the Indian in the present day, after periods of sharp decrease following as a natural reaction to sudden contact with the civilization of the white man, is seen to be making substantial gains in population.

"While many estimates or guesses of the Indian population were made during the past century," said Dr. White, "ranging from less than 100,000 to 400,000, the first reliable census was made by the Indian bureau in 1870, when the population was placed at 313,712. So figures demonstrate that in the last fifty years the Indian population has made a substantial net gain."

Pointing to statistics which show an excess of births over deaths of 1,522 in 1916, and almost as great an excess in 1917, normal years which were not affected by the epidemic of influenza, Dr. White declared these figures "fully reflected the generosity of a government that has increased its Indian health appropriation alone from $40,000 in 1911 to $350,000 in 1917 and subsequent years." They demonstrate, he said, that with the schools, hospitals and other advantages now provided for him, the Indian, he believes, is not a dying race, but rather a flourishing one. "Had he been treated as other nations have treated savage tribes," Dr. White concluded, "there probably would not be a vestige of the race within our republic today."

FLEET CORPORATION MOVES QUARTERS

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6.—The Emergency Fleet corporation, that mighty shipbuilding arm of the government which, headed by Charles M. Schwab, came here from Washington in June, 1917, will move back to the national capital on April 1.

Its present head is Judge J. B. Payne. Only about one-third of his 1,700 stenographers, clerks and accountants to Washington have expressed a willingness to go back. The chief problem in Washington is said to be housing.

MARINE WILL VISIT HOME IN AMERONGEN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Feb. 6.—Sergeant Marinus Van Asch, United States Marine Corps, who was born in Amerongen, Holland, where the Kaiser sought refuge, has re-enlisted in the Corps.

Sergt. Van Asch requested the Marine recruiting officer to have him sent to France so that he might obtain leave to visit his parents, who are still living in Amerongen. As he has completed two enlistments with an excellent record, every effort will be made, it was said, to grant his request.

"I was stationed in the Far East throughout the war," said Sergt. Van Asch, "but I now hope at least to see the man who started it."
