ENGLAND WARY OF YANK SLANG

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(By Mail).—England is apprehensive lest the vocabularies of her youth become corrupted through incursions of American slang.

Trans-Atlantic tourists in England note with interest the frequency with which resort is made to 'Yankee talk' by British song and play-writers seeking to enliven their productions. Bands and orchestras throughout the country, when playing popular music, play American selections almost exclusively. American songs monopolize the English music-hall and musical comedy stage.

It is the sub-title of the American moving-picture film which, it is feared, constitutes the most menacing threat to vaunted English purity of speech.

"The child at the pictures is picking up a new language from the slang American films," says a critic in a contribution to the London Daily News headed "The Vulgar Tongue."

"I visited two picture theaters today for the express purpose of collecting slang phrases and of noticing the effect of the new language on the child as well as on the adult. What the villain said to the hero when the latter started to argue with him was 'Cut out that dope', and a hundred piping voices repeated the injunction. The comic man announced his marriage to the Belle of Lumbertown by saying, 'I'm hitched.'

"Of course, the American child can comprehend these things much better than the British child, who is quite unfamiliar with such phrases. Imagine a child going home to mother and asking the meaning of 'fly cop'. We may admire the terseness of the phrase 'Forget it' but does the sub-title 'The Bun's gone daffy' convey anything to a theater full of cockneys?

"In another picture a man trafficking secretly with Indians, exchanging bottles of 'fire water' for beaver skins was sub-titled 'The Bootlegger.'"

ENGLISH CHEMISTS URGE PROTECTION

LONDON, Jan. 22. (By Mail).—The need for government protection of leading British key industries was emphasized by several experts at a meeting of the Society of Chemical Industry.

One speaker who had visited the German chemical works of the Rhine Valley, described them as "one huge and highly efficient organization temporarily paralyzed but capable of supplying 80 percent of the world's needs of dyes, with the necessary raw materials and labor."

His point was that with such an organization in existence immediate steps should be taken by the British government to ensure some form of protection to British industries.

S. F. RESORTS NEARLY GONE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—Those who may come to San Francisco at the time of the democratic convention the latter part of June with the idea of experiencing a thrill by visiting the "Barbary Coast" will be disappointed.

Many of the resorts, celebrated in story and verse as the scenes of desperate adventure, where cheap boarding house operators commonly known as "crimps", freely plied their trade of shanghaiing sailors for unscrupulous sea captains, are permanently closed. Others have but the same of the places that once flamed with color, music and revelry.

Long before national prohibition was generally considered a possibility, "Barbary Coast," a section of Pacific street extending back from the bay front, a half dozen blocks to where Chinatown touches the Italian district, had been rendered innocuous by the prohibition of the sale of liquor in the long row of dance halls there.

The main artery from this district to Market Street, San Francisco's principal thoroughfare, is Kearney street, where once it is declared with in an hour enough reckless spirits could be picked up to start almost any sort of desperate enterprise. Now Kearney is one of the quietest and most respectable business streets.

VILLA'S POWER ALMOST GONE

JUAREZ, Mex., Feb. 9.—General Manuel M. Dieguez, federal commander of military operations in the state of Chihuahua and in the Laguna (Torreon) district of Coahuila, with a force of from 20,000 to 25,000 men, has driven Francisco Villa almost entirely out of Chihuahua and forced him frequently to seek refuge in Coahuila or Durango, according to a summary of the military situation in Chihuahua given to The Associated Press by General J. Gonzalo Escobar, commander of the Juarez district.

Villa now has no more than 150 men, according to General Escobar. In every fair-sized town there is a garrison of from 500 to 1,000 federals, besides, occasionally, a flying column ready upon short notice to pursue the rebels, according to the Mexican commander. There are 1,600 soldiers in the Juarez district, of which 500 are stationed in Juarez proper.

Other garrisoned towns are Chihuahua City, Santa Rosalia, Jimenez, Parral, Guerrero, Villa Ahumada, Moctezuma, Gallegos, Laguna, Horcasitas, Ortiz, Conchos, Camargo, Casas Grandes, and Ojinaga.

In most of these places the units and commanders are constantly shifting. For some time past, however, General Pablo Quiroga has acted for General Dieguez at Chihuahua City and General Isidro Cardona has been in command at Ojinaga, and Colonel Eduardo F. Porcayo at Casas Grandes. Other "jefes" are General Miguel Acosta, General Silvina Garcia, and General Joaquin Amaro. In addition to acting in the place of General Dieguez when the latter is called away from Chihuahua City, General Quiroga is the commander of the garrison at Camargo.

All these troops are well equipped and well provisioned, it is said. With the restoration of regular train service, the pacification of Chihuahua has been virtually accomplished, according to General Escobar.

LESS MEXICAN OIL.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 24. (By Mail).—Petroleum production in Mexico decreased more than thirty percent during the last two months of the year 1919, according to government statistics which assign the closing of many wells, especially by Americans objecting to legal restrictions, as the cause. Eleven of the wells which have been closed were opened during the early days of January.
