DISCUSSION LEADS TO UNDERSTANDING

Upper Lake. He believed that a great deal of discussion and criticism relative to the Lake storage situation had arisen through a lack of knowledge of the many conditions connected with such control, and the great number of interests affected, and, in order to arrive at an intelligent understanding of the question it was necessary to know the reason for Lake Control, and what would be accomplished thereby.

With this end in view, reference was made to the Commission appointed by former Secretary of Interior Franklin K. Lane, in 1916, to consider and report on the granting of a permit to the California-Oregon Power Company for lake control. The membership of this board consisted of F. E. Weymuth, chief of construction U. S. R. S., D. C. Heney, consulting engineer; J. G. Camp, Jas. P. Chiswick, former State Water Commissioner, and R. E. Bradbury.

Particular stress was laid upon that section of the contract which limited the use of water for irrigation by the United States to 1200 S. F., pointing out the fact that the contract failed to provide for an estimated 75,000 acres of Indian Lands, all of the Upper Marsh Land, except that portion in private ownerships, which had acquired a water right; all of the lower marsh, estimated at 87,000 acres, and that part of the pump lands and Tule Lake in excess of the amount that could be irrigated by 1200 second feet, as delivered through the main canal.

Another point of criticism was the failure to carry out the recommendations of the Board regarding the protection of lands in private and public ownership, the navigation of the Lake and established industries, as represented by the logging and milling, placing the burden of proof of damage by reason of the fluctuation of Lake levels upon the individual rather than requiring the Company to protect these interests, as they, under the permit, would enjoy the major benefit from the use of the lake as a Power Reservoir.

Reference was made to that portion of the report setting forth the finding of the Commission relative to the amount of storage necessary in the Lake to afford a water supply for the lands remaining tributary to the lake, pointing out that if all of these lands were reclaimed there would be a very small amount of storage available for power developed at Copco, even though the Lake level was raised to the maximum elevation.

Reference was also made to that part of the Commission report which stated that the Reclamation Service had no plans for the reclamation of the marsh lands tributary to the lake. Mr. Bradbury stated that in his opinion the lake leasing proposition was not the result of a plan to reclaim these lands, on the part of the Government, but rather the lack of a plan, and indefensible.

Mr. Bradbury endorsed the stand taken by the American Legion relating to the lease and conservation of a water supply for the remainder of the public lands tributary to Klamath Lake, affirming his belief in the rights of the people of self-determination, and if the former Service men and women of Klamath wished to acquire these lands, and thereby aid in the development of the country, it was the duty of every citizen to aid them in their purpose.

In conclusion, Mr. Bradbury stated that he was not opposed to construction of any dikes or a dam at the head of Link River, that might be necessary for the storage and utilization of water for irrigation and reclamation, but that he was opposed to the use and control of the Lake for any purpose that did not contemplate the fullest use of the Lake as a community asset, and he believed that the condition could best be attained by reversion of the whole question to the original plan of Reclamation provided by the United States Reclamation Service.

MERRILL RODEO MARCH 17-18

March 17 and 18 will be red letter dates at Merrill, being the days for the rodeo and wild west celebration promoted by "Slim" Christian and Guy Merrill. A track and enclosure has been built for the races and outdoor sports, which include roping, broncho-riding, bull-dogging and bull-riding, relay races, trick riding, and range pastimes of all kinds.

"We mean to make this a real rodeo, which for skillful performance of daredevil feats will be on a par with any similar exhibition in the West," said Mr. Christian today.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Not since I have been in business in Klamath Falls have I been so fortunate in securing for my store a finer line of furniture than that purchased by me on my recent trip to San Francisco. For beauty of design, perfection of workmanship and elegance of finish, it cannot be surpassed. This furniture is just beginning to arrive, and some of it is now on display. A cordial invitation is extended to the discriminating buyer to call and inspect these new arrivals, for I am particularly proud of what I have purchased.

What is true of the furniture is also true of the line of beautiful draperies that I purchased. It would seem that the designers and manufacturers spared no effort or expense in producing draperies that are the last word in weave, pattern, colorings, workmanship. If you are looking for something exclusive and elegant, yet at the same time within the reach of the moderate pocketbook, I am sure you will be delighted with what you will find at my store. In addition to these lines of new and beautiful furniture and draperies, you will also find the "old reliables" that have made the Johnstone Furniture Store a household word in practically every home in this county.

while in this city arranging final details.

"We have the promise of attendance of some of the best riders and ropers in the west, and the ranges have been scoured to secure stock for the contests. We have corralled some of the most notorious outlaw horses of Oregon, famed for their twisting proclivities, and have nine head of bucking bulls on which the boys can exercise their skill. In addition we have five bucking mules and a number of steers for the roping contests.

"Riders from many points of northern California and southern Oregon have been interested in the rodeo and will be there to exhibit their accomplishments, including some well-known feminine riders.

It is just one hundred years since the manufacture of quinine was begun in Philadelphia.

AT THE THEATERS

An industry that cuts wages below the living level, that refuses to re-employ former service men who return for their old jobs and an industry that permits the working conditions to be unsafe and unhealthful, cannot survive.

This is one of the points driven home in "The Right to Happiness," a photoplay of the hour which is to be seen Sunday at the Liberty Theatre.

"The Right to Happiness" is not a propaganda picture, neither is it a mealy-mouthed smoothing over of a bad situation. It is a forceful, smashing exposure of certain existing conditions with the solution pointed out clearly and dramatically.

Even were it not for the picture's own merit the name of the star would assure it success.

Dorothy Phillips, whose work in "The Heart of Humanity" and "Destiny" was epochal, stars in "The Right to Happiness." She depicts a dual role: a pampered child of society and a child of the Russian soviet.

Allen Holubar, who produced "The Heart of Humanity," directed this latest Universal starring vehicle of Miss Phillips.

A notable Universal cast of favorable players supports the star. The cast is made up of: "William Stowell, Robert Anderson, Hector Sarno, Henry Barrows, Winter Hall, Margaret Mann, Stanhope Wheatcroft and Alma Bennett.

William Stowell, who has supported the star in many of her Universal successes, including "The Heart of Humanity," also plays opposite her in "The Right to Happiness."
