

EXPLORER HAS CLOSE CALL IN ICE CREVASSE

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(By Mail.)—John L. Cope, leader of the British Antarctic expedition which is setting out in June, in the course of a lecture told the following story of a thrilling experience he had while a member of the Shackleton expedition marooned on Ross island in 1916: "While leading three men over a dangerous glacier, I failed to notice a crevice which was almost covered with snow. Suddenly I felt the snow give beneath my feet, and I fell headlong. Happily my comrades saw me disappear and promptly started to pull on the sledge ropes. "These held, and I found myself suspended over a bottomless pit. I was about 20 feet down, and was being held by the sledge harness, which was round my chest and shoulders. I dangled helplessly. "About 10 feet below my feet the opening suddenly widened until I could not see the sides of the crevasse. Huge columns of ice, many of them of the weirdest shape, were sticking out, some blue in color, others of a whitish pink tinge. "I tried to look down, but below me, as far as I could see, there was nothing but ice and darkness. Now and again the roar of ice falling down the sides of the crevasse reached me, sounding like distant thunder. "After what seemed hours of waiting, I heard a voice calling me from above, and looking up saw the face of one of the men of my party. "Are you all right?" he asked, peering over the edge of the crevasse. "Yes," I replied, "but I cannot get up. I'm hung here." "Hang on, then," he shouted, "we'll make a rope ladder." And while I continued hanging there the two men on the ice above set to work to make the ladder. "While I was thus suspended my mitts fell from my hands, and very soon I was half frozen. I watched the mitts falling, glancing off columns of ice, till they disappeared from sight. At last the ladder was lowered down, but my hands were so frozen that I could feel nothing. "I swung about till my feet touched the rope, and I caught hold of it. But my sense of touch was gone, and I had to look to see if I was clutching the rope before I dared trust myself to start climbing. "Swinging backwards and for-

AN INSIDE BATH MAKES YOU LOOK AND FEEL FRESH

Says a glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast keeps illness away.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, declaring this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do. Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the alimentary canal before eating more food. Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who have bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to show the value of inside bathing.

wards over the pit. I climbed higher and higher, and, as I neared the top, the harness which had held me up fell from my shoulders. If I slipped nothing could save me from being dashed to pieces on the ice. "I shouted to the men asking them to lower the harness to reach me, for I was so cold that I could not climb further, and my legs would not stretch far enough to reach the rungs of the ladder. "They lowered the loop of my harness till I was able to push my legs through it, and, half sitting on this, and gripping the rope ladder, I was literally hauled on the ice field after I had been hanging over that bottomless pit for three and a half hours."
