SOLOMON ON VERMONT BENCH

Decision Handed Down by Judge
Some Generations Ago Remarkable for Many Reasons.

A singular compound of law, good sense and sarcasm characterized Elias Keyes, one of the early Vermont judges.

A disconsolate-looking tramp was once convicted before Judge Keyes of the larceny of the boots of United States Senator Dudley Chase. The Judge addressed him as follows:

"You are a poor creature and ought to have known better than to steal. Only rich men can take things without paying for them. And then you must steal in the great town of Windsor, and the boots of a great man like Senator Chase, the greatest man anywhere around. If you wanted to steal why didn't you steal in some little town in New Hampshire and the boots of some man who wasn't of any consequence?"

"And then you must steal from him when he was on his way to Washington and perhaps the only boots he had. You might have compelled him to wait until some shoemaker made him another pair, and shoemakers never keep their promises. And perhaps by the delay some important treaty might have failed of ratification because he was not present in the senate."

"I have got to say that you seem to know a damned deal more about stealing boots than what I do!" piped the prisoner.

"That is a sound observation," he said. "I will give you only one month in the county jail, and that not so much for stealing as for your ignorance in not knowing better than to steal the boots of a great man like Senator Dudley Chase."

Made a Mistake.

We ate that evening in the kitchen. In a bedroom, off the dining room, slept our two-year-old boy. In that room, in a drawer of the dresser was a box containing all of my jewelry.

When my husband had finished his dinner he made his way to the front part of the house and while doing so, he ran squarely into a man. He asked the man what he was doing there, and the man answered: "I don't know, sir, but I'm a piano tuner, but I think I've made a mistake."

My husband turned on the light, and there, a little satchel in his hand, bowing and apologizing, stood a slim, fair-haired, innocent-looking individual. My husband kept on berating him, and I, somewhat ashamed of him, begged him not to be so hard on a man, who had made a mistake and seemed truly sorry for it.

Finally, amidst more bowing and profuse apologies, the man took his departure. We found out later that the shabby little tuner's satchel contained the contents of my jewel case. He had left me my wedding ring because it was on my finger.—Chicago Tribune.

What is Charm?

The charming woman possesses a definite personality. She makes her entrances and exits felt, and one would rather talk with her than with many other people. She may not be anything remarkable, but she utters even commonplaces in a way of her own. She is a sympathetic listener and neither her eyes nor her interest ever wander.

Tact and charm are near akin, as both include the gift of saying the right thing at the right time. We all know the woman who quite unintentionally makes her friends as uncomfortable as the kitten with her fur rubbed the wrong way. We all know, also, her opposite, the creature from whose presence one always emerges cheered and comforted, with the agreeable sensation that one has been appreciated at last.

The charming woman never stoops to flattery. She honestly believes the best of everyone, and considers it her mission on earth to diffuse happiness around her. To spread sunshine on earth seems a divine attitude, and the charming woman usurps it as her special prerogative.

Oriental seem to be immune to the fierce heat of the fire-room of ocean steamers, and can endure for a great length of time temperatures that would speedily prostrate white men.
