USEFUL CAREER COMES TO CLOSE

CORVALLIS, Or., Apr. 7.—Granny, 16 years old; is dead.

Granny, a venerable hen owned by Leaton C. Rice, North Fifteenth Street, Corvallis, ended one of the longest laying careers known here and was buried in state by the owner's family. This hen, a grade Plymouth rock, produced eggs regularly for 15 years, and successfully raised a brood almost every season. Ten of her eggs from twelve laid when she was 15 years old, hatched strong chicks. During the present spring the old hen laid 15 eggs. She was normally active and seemed possessed of abundant vitality until the last week. This hen was exhibited as a prodigy at the Benton county corn show last November, and attracted much attention there.

Granny was named because of her remarkable capacity for mothering. Apparently any young creature in feathers of fur was welcome to the protection of her wing. She permitted a kitten to rest there on one occasion. But rats and mice were her abomination. Killing mice was her common practice, and on one occasion she was discovered ending the career of a half-grown rat. Apparently she cared for rodents only as food.

From her fluffy chick days, Granny was petted and talked to, and grew up totally unafraid of people. She displayed uncommon intelligence, and learned to obey simple commands. She appeared to recognize her name, and would follow members of the family around the yard like a pet dog or cat. The children of the vicinity found great amusement in bringing her grasshoppers and other small insects, during the summer months, which she would eat from their hands.

One peculiarity of this hen was that she was never known to cackle after laying.

The family of Mr. Rice have three of Granny's progeny, which they desire to keep till it appears whether the characteristics of the mother have been transmitted to the young hens.

In the big conventions of the lumber industry held during the past few months women have had a prominent part for the first time. Their participation in the proceedings has served to direct attention to the fact that they have become an important factor in the sales and other branches of the industry.

The kitchen of one of the big hotels in New York is an acre in extent.

To drink wine undiluted by water was regarded by the Greeks as barbarism.

All the famous old liquors were invented and manufactured entirely by monks.

Chicago has a motor hospital which visits remote districts to treat patients.

More than 10,000 railroad locomotives are standing idle in Germany's repair shops.

SOLDIERS HAPPY DESPITE THE COLD

SAN FRANCISCO, Apr. 7.—With the temperature at 65 below zero, a man has to keep moving or freeze to death.

Patrick Gildea, Knights of Columbus Secretary, at Fort Gibbons, Alaska—"farthest north" of the K. C. huts—has chosen the first of the two horns of the dilemma, according to a report received by Albert G. Bagley, Director of Western Department War Activities, Knights of Columbus.

Acknowledging receipt of a shipment of school books sent to him by Director Bagley via dog sled route, Gildea wrote:

"The mercury kept a firm pace to and from between 40 degrees and 45 degrees from January 12 to February 1."

Smoking, music and lessons in the K. C. "hut" before a blazing fire, however, made the soldiers forget the bearish trend of the mercury and they beat the punching bags, literally flat.

DEATH CLAIMS TWO LAKEVIEW SHEEPMEN

Rev. Hugh J. Marshall returned last evening from Lakeview, where he was called by the serious illness of Rev. Father Brady and several of the sheepmen in that county. While he was there two sheepmen died—Frank Moynahan, who has been a resident of Lake county for the past 12 years, and Con O'Connor, who but recently arrived from Ireland. The latter is a cousin of Jerry O'Connor, who lives on the Merrill road. Father Brady was well on the road to recovery when Father Marshall left Lakeview.

TEACHERS TAKE JOB

AS FOREST LOOKOUTS

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Apr. 7.—Two school teachers, Miss Cora Crosby, Bellingham, and Miss Thompson, Everett, have been named to serve this summer at a lone fire lookout station on Sourdough mountain, north of here.

A lookout "cage" or cabin, located at an elevation of 7,000 feet, will be occupied by the girls. Steel cables, extending over the roof, anchor the cabin to the rocks so that winds will not hurl it down the mountainside.

The girls will be alone on the peak, connected with the outside world only by a telephone wire, over which they will report fires. Former occupants of the station say snow blows there in July and August and bears and ptarmigan frequently are found nearby.

Charles N. Park, forestry supervisor, engaged the girls to take the posts for two months, beginning July 1.

WALLOWA COUNTY TO

BUILD 200 SILOS

PORTLAND, Ore., Apr. 7.—Sunflowers will fill the silos of Wallowa county farmers this year, according to Oregon Agricultural college specialists, who say that farmers are planting sunflowers heavily this year for that purpose. The flowers possess an enormous food value, according to the college authorities and they say it is planned to grow them extensively just for silo purposes. Nearly 200 silos are to be built within the next year, the college authorities say.

BOYS SAVE GAME FROM STARVATION

HARRISBURG, Pa., Apr. 7.—Eighty-six boys in the schools of Lykens borough saved the game in the state game preserve in the upper end of Dauphin county by helping to get food to them during the recent heavy snow.

They volunteered to shovel snow from the road into the woodland where herds of deer and numbers of grouse, pheasants and quail, recently placed there by the Pennsylvania game commission, were in danger of starving. Though snow drifts three or four feet high were piled in the roads the boys in one afternoon cut a patch through them and enabled the keeper to save valuable game.

Look in a Mirror

Are there any lines between your eyes? If so, ask yourself the question, "Why?"

Many people have a constant scowl caused solely by eyestrain. This is often so disfiguring that it doesn't matter how attractive the person otherwise appears—the scowl spoils it all.

In most cases scowls can be "smoothed" out by relieving the eyestrain.

If you have any symptoms of eyestrain you should let us examine your eyes at once. Don't wait until ugly lines appear between the eyes.
