FIGHTS UNDER FOUR FLAGS

WARSAW, Mar. 16. (By Mail).—Major Joseph C. Stehlin, a 23-year-old aviator of Brooklyn, N. Y., who already has fought in three armies, has gone to Riga to enlist under the Lettish flag in the war against the Russian Bolsheviks. If his services are accepted he will have served under four flags in four years. The colors of France, America, Poland and Latvia, in turn, have won his allegiance.

Since last fall Major Stehlin has been fighting in the aviation branch of the Polish army and in that service took part in the Polish drive which threw the Bolsheviks out of Dvinsk.

Stehlin, who was formerly a life guard at Sheepshead Bay, Brooklyn, went to France in January, 1917, and joined the French flying corps where he won two citations and was promoted to be sergeant for aiding fellow aviators attacked by German planes.

When the American army came over to France Stehlin transferred his allegiance to the American flag, received a commission as first lieutenant of aviators and took part in actions in the Champagne, Verdun and Soissons sectors. After the armistice he returned to the United States and is said to have joined the aviation section of the New York police as a captain.

Last September he joined the Polish forces recruited in New York, was commissioned as captain, came to Poland and was assigned to duty on the northeastern front. He spent four months with a Polish flying squadron, the only American with the Poles on that particular front, and participated in all the aviation work preceding and during the Polish attack on the Bolsheviks in the region of Dvinsk.

Stehlin has flown over parts of France, Belgium, Spain, Russia, Poland, Lithuania and the United States and has hopes soon of seeing Latvia and Riga from the air in his service with the Letts.

Major Stehlin says he has no idea what vocation he will take up if the war should end over here but he feels certain that he can never go back to the prosaic duties of a life guard at the beach. That game is not exciting enough for a man not yet 24 who has fought under four flags.

HUNGARY DID NOT WANT WAR

BUDAPEST, Apr. 8.—The allies have made not one but three Alsace-Lorraine of Hungary, declares Archduke Joseph of Hapsburg, the man who wanted to be king of Hungary but whose aspirations were thwarted by the supreme council at Paris.

"We have not deserved such treatment," he said to the Associated Press correspondent whom he received in his palace here. "We did not want the war," he continued; "we protested against taking part in it."

"The Germans felt the war was bound to come, and inasmuch as they were ready while the other nations were not, they felt it was best it came when an opportunity was presented by the murder of the Austrian crown prince, particularly as it was believed Russia was thus inviting war."

The archduke professes to be unable to understand why the allies object to him. "Of course I am a Hapsburg," he said, "but why should there be so much enmity against the Hapsburgs on the part of the allies? Is it left-over propaganda?"

His adherents argue that the people of Hungary want a king and that archduke Joseph is the best liked man in the country.

The correspondent found him working at his memoirs on his desk in the library off his palace which is resplendent in marble, tapestries and rare bronzes. He is a short man of medium weight, slow in movement, deliberate of speech, with a typical pose and pale blue eyes of the Hapsburgs. He still wore a military uniform and about his neck hung the grand cross of the Leopold order. Commenting on the Hungarian peace treaty, he said:

"The future of Hungary now, with our restricted frontiers, appears mainly agricultural, although I am sure sooner or later our lost provinces will be returned to us. Fortunately for me, I am a farmer."

The archduke formerly possessed three estates. One of these of 50,000 acres is in Transylvania which is occupied by the Rumanians. Another large farm is in the formerly Hungarian territory given to the Czechs. "I wonder if I shall ever get these farms back," he said. "I bought them with my own money many years ago. Money which I earned myself. They were not crown properties passed to me by inheritance." The archduke still retains a farm of 10,000 acres at Alsuth which he now manages, often working in the fields.

WILL INVESTIGATE BRITISH PAPERS

LONDON, Mar. 23. (By Mail).—One member of the house of commons wants an investigation of the newspaper business in England. Captain William T. Shaw asked Premier Lloyd George in the house the other day, whether he would consider appointing a committee to inquire into the profits and business methods of the "great newspaper trusts in Great Britain." He wanted the committee especially to ascertain whether the prices for newspapers and advertisements were reasonable.

Lloyd George replied that "the whole subject of trusts and their effects on prices is under careful consideration."

ENGLISH LISTENS TO GERMAN MUSIC

LONDON, March 23. (By Mail).—German music is returning to England without arousing protest or hostility. Strauss' work was heard here for the first time since 1914 when his "Don Juan" was placed last on the program in Queen's Hall recently with the idea that those who did not want to hear it need not remain. Some members of the audience left the hall when it began but there was no other manifestation of disapproval.

A wonderful example of microscopical writing is the work of a Canadian, who succeeded in transcribing Francois Coppee's novel of "Henriette," containing over 19,000 words, on the back of an ordinary cabinet photograph.

SITKA SEAL ARE MIGRATING NORTH

JUNEAU, Alaska, Mar. 23. (By Mail).—Residents of Sitka say that the herds of seal migrating northward toward Bering sea this spring are greater than they have seen in years and that the migration is three weeks ahead of its usual time. Countless thousands of the seal have been passing Sitka. Government officials say the great size of the migratory herd is evidence that the government's protective measures have been effective.

Through a powerful microscope such things as a nettle-sting, the scales on a butterfly, or the solid particles in smoke are plainly seen.

FEEDING FOR TWELVE DOZEN EGGS A YEAR

At Uncle Sam's experimental farm in Maryland, across the Potomac from Washington, D.
