

SENSATIONAL PICTURES OF THE U-BOAT WAR SHOW ALLIED SHIPS TORPEDOED !!

Motion Pictures taken aboard the German "U" Boat 35—the pet sub-sea craft of the Kaiser and showing for the first time the manner in which vessels were sent to the bottom and the hardships forced upon the boys fighting the submarines, are now in the United States and will be shown at the Liberty on Thursday.

These pictures, which were taken to show the Kaiser the way his giants of the sea were working, were captured by English sub chasers after a running fight in which the "U" 35 was captured, and it is by special permission of the British Admiralty that these marvelous mid-ocean scenes will be given to the American public.

Some time ago press dispatches to this country startled the world with the announcement of the capture of these films, especially made for the Kaiser, and American film men lost no time in sending agents to the other side to get prints of the coveted prize.

Critics claimed the submarine film to be the greatest of the war. There is nothing faked about it. The rolling of the German craft in mid-ocean, together with the actual stopping of ships and the verdict to "get off" and the search for plunder, and finally the end, are all shown in detail in the great submarine film drama.

"My European agents spared no expense in getting this great film," said Mr. Price, head of the corporation which secured the pictures. "As soon as I read the dispatches of the English critics, I decided that the American film fans would demand to see in actuality just what the 'U' boat campaign really meant.

"Throughout the war the dread of the submarine was manifested on the first page of all dailies, and harrowing were their accounts. In many instances we were inclined to believe that the stories of the sinking in mid-ocean of the largest of up-to-date craft were greatly exaggerated. Now that we have the film in our possession I am willing to admit that the accounts as received in this country were founded upon fact and not fiction.

"The film has been in New York for the past two weeks, and during that time I have had at least six naval officers look over the greatest of war motion pictures. Each and every one of these American officers traveled the high seas in search of the German sub. These officers declared the film to be the most sensational and startling evidence of the U-boat methods.

"One of the officers told me that a tale went the rounds that the Kaiser had equipped his 'U' boats with motion picture machines so that he could gloat over the manner in which they worked. It was a standing order to bring the film to some port every so many weeks and that the prints were rushed to the Kaiser."

The "U" 35, which was dubbed the flagship of the Kaiser's largest squadron of submarines, had one of the best-known German manufactured motion picture machines at the helm. The commander saw to it that there would be no action until the man at the camera should give the word ready. In this way the great submarine film was born.

The "U" 35 was commanded by Lieutenant-Commander Arnauld de la Periere, the son of a French officer captured during the Franco-Prussian war. At the end of the war he remained in Germany, became a naturalized citizen and married a German woman. Altogether Periere is believed to have been responsible for the sinking of about 300 ships with a tonnage of 510,000. The cruise in which the pictorial record was secured was made in April, 1917. The film shows that Periere sank ships in a very workman-like way. He was a great believer in his 22-pounder gun, and generally opened fire at 6,000 yards. When the ship had surrendered, in one case after a fight of six hours, she was sunk either by gunfire or by a bomb. Some of the ships went down in less than two minutes.

Attacks on a number of ships are shown and every one of them went to the bottom. The captains of some of the sunken ships are seen on board the submarine taking exercise on the deck, but there is nothing to show what happened to the crews.

Everything is done to show that life aboard a submarine pirate is not without its happy moments. The crew of the U-35 are seen swimming in the Mediterranean, and evidently much cruising was done on the surface. When the schooner "Miss Morris" was sunk some of her cargo of turtles was secured to augment the submarine's larder. One scene shows the commander of the U-35 selecting from a copy of Lloyd's Register the names of the boats sunk. The U-35 is last seen returning in triumph to her base at Trieste.

LOOKING FOR SITE FOR PALACE HOME

EDMONTON, Alta., Apr. 13.—Trying to find a place in which to establish a home worthy of a fortune of some $40,000,000, Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell of Scotland have left Edmonton for Prince Rupert. Then they jump to California.

The tale of the Campbell's reads like fiction. Leaving their Scottish homes years ago they went out to Java. Here they acquired large plantations and other holdings. Then during the war, opportunity came their way and they sold out all their interests.

SUGAR MILLS RUN DESPITE STRIKERS

HONOLULU, T. H., Apr. 2. (By Mail).—Despite the fact that the Japanese federation of labor stands firmly by its walkout order, issued late in January in an attempt to force up plantation labor wages, the sugar mills on the six islands of Oahu plantations affected are increasing their grinding time.

Kahuku mill recently was reported on full time, 24 hours daily, while the others are running from 12 to 15 hours. The planters say they have more than 2,000 strikebreakers in the fields, exclusive of another 2,000 Filipinos who have returned to work and the hands who refused to walk out when the Japanese federation and the Filipino union declared a strike.

At the time the general strike on Oahu was called it was estimated that approximately 8,000 men quit work.

Former Emperor, to Whom Regent Is Said to Have Offered Throne of Hungary, and Little Son Who Would Be Crown Prince

Former Emperor Charles and Crown Prince Otto

Dispatches from Geneva, Switzerland, state that Admiral Horthy, Regent of Hungary, has secretly but officially offered the Hungarian throne to former Emperor Charles, with the assurance that everything had been arranged for the return of the Hapsburg monarchy with the consent of the majority of the population. Admiral Horthy, it is declared, has invited the former ruler to come to Budapest as soon as possible, adding that the question with the allies in connection with the move could best be arranged from the Hungarian capital. The former emperor, who is living in Prangins, Switzerland, is said to be apparently hesitating as to his course and has not left Prangins. Charles succeeded his great-uncle, Franz Josef I, late in 1916, as emperor of Austria and king of Hungary.

It is calculated that 26 of every 100 brides hover between the ages of 20 and 25, whilst only 13 out of every hundred are between 15 and 20. From which it would appear that around "sweet 16" is not, after all, the age at which the fascination of women is most irresistible.

SAYS "YANKEE" IS OF CHINESE ORIGIN

CHICAGO, April 12.—The name "Yankee" came from a Chinese phrase "Yang Jung," by way of East India, where the words were corrupted to "Yang Gee," according to Teh Yi Hsieh, Chinese labor leader who recently arrived here to establish relations with the American Federation of Labor. "Yang Gee" means "you are a young foreigner."

Mr. Teh believes the word Yankee was first applied to New Englanders by English or Dutch sailors who had learned the phrase in the orient.
