ANSWER TO JUDGE LEAVITT'S LETTER

(Due to lack of space Judge Leavitt's letter could not be published yesterday, so we submitted it to Mr. Hogue, one of the directors, for answer in this issue.)

Mr. Leavitt's question as to the plans of the school board ignores the fact that the people often play hob with the plans of the school board. We planned a new Central school away from Main street and proposed to sell the present school site and building, but the people voted it down.

The proposed new school is to supply one of the fastest growing sections of the city. The present school population of that section will now fill to overflowing the four-room building which it is proposed to build this year. It is absolutely necessary to have this additional room the coming year.

Personally I favor selling the central school building and site, if another suitable location south of Main street can be had. This would give us four building well distributed and no Central school. The future policy will depend on the new school board.

This question is not pertinent to tomorrow's election, however. You should vote for one site or the other.

C. C. HOGUE.

Evening Herald:

At your suggestion I want to call your attention to one very serious objection to the plan of the Shipington road. You say in your paper that the school site must be improved to accommodate the automobiles and to provide for the children. Why put a school on a site that is just as dangerous? Will it mean the abandonment of this school in a few years when the state highway is completed and all of the mills at Shipington will have more automobiles than are using on Main street today. There are some cars used on Main street, but we who live out here know fast they are running their machines now, because there are no policemen to watch them. Please fish this.

PARENT.

This letter answers itself. The site raised is a serious one and is named in the letters published with and Judge Leavitt's letter, which on another page.)

WISHER HERALD:

What are these sites going to? What is the need for a school there? If you are moving the school to get away from Main street, then why pick a site like it one on the Shipington road? We are going to do anything, let us do it right.

TAXPAYER.

(All these questions have been answered either on the front page or with other letters. There are two sites to be voted on.)

EDITOR HERALD:

How are we to tell on the ballot what site to vote for? Who can vote? Where can we vote? What time are the polls open? I have failed to see any explanations of these questions in your paper.

CITIZEN.

(There will be a map at the school showing clearly the location of each site and the question on the ballot will be plain enough to make it easy for you to definitely designate your choice. If you are in
