DEALERS DENY SHOES WILL BE LOWER PRICE

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Means of stimulating production of the necessities of life, as a step toward the cure of American economic and social ills, will be the sole topic of discussion at the Eighth annual conference of the United States Chamber of Commerce which will open in Atlantic City next Monday and continue until Thursday.

Holding that the responsibility for increased production rests equally upon capital, labor and agricultural interests, the program committee, it is announced here today, has arranged to have representatives of each present their views on the question.

While the conference will deal primarily with material methods of increasing production, such as introduction of modern machinery, elimination of waste and the increased efficiency of distribution, the Chamber is prepared, it was learned today, to follow with a nationwide effort to stir individual Americans to their duty to aid the movement in every line of endeavor.

Industrial unrest reported by members of the Chamber is without exception ascribed as the basic cause for the high prices the average worker has to pay for everything he purchases. Against this, however, is reported an apparent disposition on the part of the worker to reduce his effort during working hours or to lay off a part of each week or month. The convention will endeavor to work out a program by means of which both the manufacturer and the employe will be shown the necessity of augmenting output for the common good rather than as a method of increasing immediate profits.

"Work alone offers a cure for many of the ills left by war," said Homer L. Ferguson, president of the Chamber. "Increased production means a larger share of the necessities and comforts for our own people; it means more for Europe, where people are dying for lack of food and clothes. In it lies the only means of making up the wastage of war.

"The duty of America is to produce. The responsibility lies on all alike, the merchant, the farmer, the worker. The contribution of each of these will be laid before our meeting."

The relation between railroads and national production, anti-trust law "restrictions," the evils of standardization, improved methods of taxation and foreign commerce will be among the topics discussed. Increased production abroad must be fostered, officials of the Chamber say, so that "goods, not notes," can be exchanged for the produce of the United States. In this connection an effort may be made to revive the proposal for an international financial conference with a view to finding some equitable remedy for the foreign exchange situation.

W. D. Simmons, of St. Louis, and R. W. Belcher, of Washington, D. C., will address the conference on the subject of "Domestic Distribution," and Secretary Alexander, of the Department of Commerce, is expected to indicate how far the government can go to co-operate in the movement. Other speakers will be George A. Post and William Fellows Morgan of New York.

The farmer, for the first time in the history of the Chamber will be represented as a distinct and important part of the nation's industrial machinery. J. R. Howard, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Clemons, Ia., and Secretary Meredith of the Department of Agriculture will attend the conference.

First prize to Alice Louise Secher, factory worker, 23 years old; manufacturer, Hazel Yopp, 21, was second, $2,500, and Mary O'Neil, 21, sales girl, was third, $1,000.

COSTS TO FEED PIG PARASITES

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Apr. 27.—The cost of feeding lice on pigs runs from $1 to $2.94 for every 100 pounds of pork produced—maybe more.

Not that anybody wants to feed lice. Oh no. But since lice often go in company or as company with hogs they have to be fed unless got rid of.

The lice feed costs on a lot of Berkshires fed by the O. A. C. animal husbandry department were a dollar for each 100 pounds of pork produced. On cross-bred animals of larger type the added lice cost was $1.50. On a mixed lot of Durocs, Poland Chinas and Hampshires it was $2.84. And these hogs in all the tests are said to have made a better showing than they would have made under average farm conditions.

The lousy pigs were uneasy and restless and spent most of their time when not eating in scratching their backs and running around. The lice-free animals were contented and quiet.

More protein was required by the louse infested animals, and this is a very expensive food. Its increased use is said to have indicated that the lice sucked blood to the extent that the pigs craved additional protein to make good the loss.

Lice control would have been cheaper.

"Sale of garden left-overs this spring—cabbage, kale and mustard greens, turnips, parsnips, etc.—may often quickly be made by a little 'want ad' in the Evening Herald," says the O. A. C. press bulletins. "This would give your neighbor something mighty good for him, cut at the high cost of living, and supply the kiddies with a pretty penny."

of remembering nor of hearing the question.

A practice that all agreed must be stopped, which rises from the increased prices, is the custom of householders who have cars to load their accumulation of cans and rubbish in the tonneau when starting on a trip and dumping the lot along the roadside at the first convenient place. The roads around the city in every direction are being made unsightly by this practice, it was said.

Dr. A. A. Soule, health officer, suggested a municipal incinerator close in, to consume all garbage that would burn. The residue could be dumped in the lake, killing two birds with one stone as it were by filling in a building site and disposing of rubbish at the same time.

There was no objection to any one hauling their own garbage on his part, said Mr. Grennon. The city attorney said there was no legal objection, providing that the man who owned the garbage also owned the vehicle in which he hauled it, and the man who drove the vehicle was either the owner or some one regularly employed to drive the vehicle.

There has been a question as to this, which seems to have deterred some stores from hauling their garbage in their own trucks.

Barn Declared Nuisance

By resolution duly passed the barn at Eighth and Oak streets, complaint against which was made two weeks ago, was declared a nuisance to public health and the owner, M. L. Miller, ordered to clean up and abate the nuisance within 10 days. According to the resolution persons live on the premises which are entirely without sewer connections.

Complain of Others

Judge George T. Baldwin presented a petition signed by some 10 citizens, a majority of the residents of the neighborhood, he said, asking that the Mammoth barn at Main street and Payne alley and another barn at the foot of Payne alley on Klamath avenue be declared nuisances and dealt with accordingly. The barns are a menace to public health and safety, the petitioners declared. The matter was referred to the health board for report next week.

Must Clean Alley

Property owners along the alley south of Main between Sixth and Seventh streets must fill in the low places and clean up, the council decreed. In the winter the water runs from the roofs and makes a mudhole of the alley and it is full of decaying matter and noxious odors, it was said. It has never been dedicated to the city.

As a capstone for the sanitary program the council started an ordinance designed to keep public thoroughfares and buildings clean toward final passage. It was read twice and laid over until next week for vote upon its adoption.

It prohibits the washing of automobiles on the streets, said to be a common practice especially in good weather. It also prohibits expectoration, throwing of cigar or cigarette stubs, fruit peelings and bits of paper on the sidewalks, or in any public building or vehicle, together with other provisions for the maintenance of clean and healthful conditions in public places.

But when they are wrong—trouble begins. At first it is only a sensation of tiredness after work. After a time your eyes will ache or smart occasionally. Then you probably will have "unaccounted for" headaches.

CHINESE-AMERICAN BANKS FORMING

SHANGHAI, April 27. (By Mail).

A system of Chinese-American banks with proposed branches in the United States is now being put into operation in a number of Chinese cities. The new institution, the Chinese-American Commercial and Industrial bank of China, has grown out of a recent interchange of visits to America and China of leading American and Chinese financiers. Following the opening in February of the main bank of the system in China at Peking steps were taken in March to open a branch bank at Shanghai and others, it is said, will be started without delay in Canton, Hankow, Tientsin and Chengtu.

J. A. Thomas, formerly managing director of the British-American Tobacco company in Shanghai, and Hsu En-yuan, a Chinese financier, are vice presidents of the institution. Mr. Thomas said the new system would be in complete operation by May 10.

Male Quartet Opens Chautauqua

Two Programs on the First Day of Genuine Music and Entertainment

Four young men who not only sing well, but who know the art of stage presentation and "put over" their programs with snap and vim, make up the Williams Male Quartet, the musical attraction on the opening day of Chautauqua. Headed by the versatile musical entertainer, Eddie Williams, these talented young singers present a program of male quartet music thoroughly good. They enter upon their work with enthusiasm and good humor, and audiences soon find themselves in accord with the mood of the singers. The program of quartet numbers is interspersed with individual solos, musical readings, instrumental solos, pianologues and costumed selections.
