ENTIRE NATION NEEDS HOUSES

NEW YORK, April 27.—Delay in relieving the housing shortage all over the country is greater than any other form of building construction, according to a review of contracts issued today by the W. F. Dodge company. Public works, industrial buildings and public utilities are being constructed much faster than residences and are less affected by high prices, high wages and shortage of material.

Contracts awarded for residential buildings in the first three months this year vary from 14 to 29 percent of total building contracts in different sections of the country. Normally residences account for about 30 percent of the contracts, and in view of existing needs, the review says, residences should represent about 40 percent of the total construction.

In New York state and northern New Jersey 14 percent of the contracts in the first quarter of the year represented residential buildings, "a matter of serious concern," says the review, "as it is probable that the housing shortage is more acute in this territory than elsewhere."

In the territory east of the Missouri river and north of the Ohio residential construction was 19 percent of the total, in New England 23 percent, in the district of Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington 28 percent; in the Pittsburgh district 19 percent, in the central west 18 percent and in the northwest 29 percent.

In no district is contemplated building construction as high as 30 percent.

In some parts of Central Africa it is considered respectful to turn the back to a superior.

D'ANNUNZIO HOLDS GORGEOUS COURT

FIUME, April 3. (By Mail).—"This is the most interesting court in Europe," said one of d'Annunzio's secretaries, at the luncheon tendered the poet on St. Gabriel's day, when the "liberator" of Fiume acted his part with courtiers, soldiers and "king's guards" and the populace acted theirs.

Fanfares of trumpets, the rush to arms of the "king's guard" announced every entrance and exit. He is always accompanied by a long line of aides and functionaries and wears a happy countenance himself. At meals all the courtiers center their attention upon him and listen to the stories he tells, laughing sometimes and crying at others.

D'Annunzio's wishes in food are always complied with and religious zeal marks the efforts of the entourage to please him. His uniform is always epic-and-span. There is not a blemish on his clothing from heel to crown. His long Italian cape sometimes calls to mind the familiar garb of the fallen William II in his German military cape.

On public occasions in theaters, his place is reserved with much attention and when he enters cheers are given by the men and women who follow him. When he gives a concert in the palace, his place in the front row is respected with the reverence due to a religious chief. His apartments are bedecked with all sorts of presents from the townspeople. Italian and Dalmatian flags make up the color scheme. On his name day, he was the recipient of bowers of flowers from admirers in the city. The royal march greets him when he makes his appearance on the balcony of the palace.

Harold Cuthill, Boston University star miler, will run a three-mile race against E. H. Montague, the Oxford crack runner, at the Penn relay carnival in Philadelphia May 1.

AT THE THEATERS

To everyone who has ever gone to college Bryant Washburn's new Paramount-Artcraft picture, "It Pays to Advertise," from the successful farce by Roi Cooper Megrue and Walter Hackett, and which will be shown at the Star Theatre today, will recall amusing memories of life and experiences at those institutions of learning. One of the first scenes in the picture shows Washburn as Rodney Martin, and several of his college pals, in a box at a girl show. During the performance, at the appearance on the stage of an effeminate-looking leading man, the boys proceed to shower him with eggs and cause so much disturbance, generally, that they are forcibly ejected and almost arrested.

The story centers around the pampered son of a millionaire, who, when he returns home from college, refuses to go to work in one of his father's soap factories, reasoning that his father already has more money than they can both spend. Then father resorts to strategy and promises a fat bonus to his secretary if she will, by her wiles, persuade sonny to go to work.

The outcome of this is that son and secretary fall in love. This angers the father, who is determined that his son shall not marry a stenographer and orders him out of the home. How the boy stakes all of his money and possessions on a scheme to build up a trademark on soap and finally selling the trademark to his father for a large sum of money, and then marrying the stenographer, is said to form one of the best plots in which the star has yet appeared.

Mary Miles Minter will be seen in what is said to be one of the most captivating roles of her screen career when she is presented at the Liberty tonight in her new American feature, "A Bachelor's Wife."

This is a delightfully refreshing comedy-drama, especially written for the star by Joseph Franklin Poland, well-known writer for the screen. The production, which was directed by Emmett J. Flynn, is among the most ambitious recently undertaken by the "Flying A," and reveals Miss Minter in a distinctly new characterization.

The story has to do with the amazing adventures of a fiery little colleen from Ballyhannock, Ireland, who comes to America to visit her cousin. Upon her arrival she learns that her cousin is the mother of a baby and that the husband had deserted them two years before. She sets out to effect a reunion but becomes involved with the wrong man. How she ultimately straightens out the matrimonial tangle and in the process is wooed and won by the deserter's cousin, forms the climax of this absorbing tale.

She donned the garb of a nurse to minister to the rich, and caused no end of complications and more fun than you can shake a stick at. Israel Zangwill wrote "Nurse Marjorie." It made all England laugh. Mary Miles Minter, Realist, is starred in the screen version and will make the world laugh. Be sure to see it. "Nurse Marjorie" will be shown in the Liberty Theatre Wednesday. Bring the children. They will cherish the memory of its funny situations.

LUMBERMAN DEAD

PORTLAND, Apr. 27.—Robert D. Inman, president of the Inman-Poulsen Logging company, died in a hospital here today. He was operated on last Saturday for mastoiditis which developed following an influenza attack. A widow and two daughters survive him.

Manager George Stallings of the Braves, who has announced that he will retire at the close of the season, has won 14 championships—including one world's title—during his career as a minor and major league pilot.

Many of the star heavyweight and middleweight wrestlers are preparing to quit the East, where they have had a most prosperous season, to take part in the outdoor exhibitions in the middle west and on the Pacific coast.
