NEW EXTENSION DIRECTOR, O. A. C.

CORVALLIS, May 7.—Paul V. Maris, for the last five years state leader of county agent and farm bureau work in Oregon, has been named as director of the agricultural college extension service. He succeeds O. D. Center, who resigned last October.

Under Mr. Maris' leadership one of the most powerful organizations of agricultural interests now shaping the new agriculture in Oregon has developed through the county agent and the farm bureau. The organized farmer is fast coming to be a factor not only in agricultural production but in profitable production and marketing.

The old agriculture produced abundantly, took what the crop enemies left to the farmer, and sold it at precisely what the other man told him he could have. Co-operation, farm accounts, and a voice in marketing, were exceedingly rare.

The farm bureau agriculture as developed in Oregon bases production on profit—since the war—goes out and kills the crop enemies whether insects, diseases or rodents, and asserts its right to assist in determining what the surplus shall bring. It gives farm management, records and business a big place in the farm program.

Mr. Maris has directed this movement for lowering production costs and marketing on the basis of that cost. Also for bringing farmers to act together on community problems thereby enriching the rural life as well as the farmer purse.

Mr. Maris is prepared as extension director to give all the people of the state the same high type of service that distinguished his administration of county agent work—O. A. C. Press Bulletins.

"PIDGIN" ENGLISH BARRED

HONOLULU, T. H., April 17. (By Mail).—"Pidgin English" in the schools of Hawaii must be eliminated, and at once, Vaughan MacCaughy, superintendent of public instruction for the territory, said recently.

The "pidgin English evil" in the schools, according to officials, has grown up on account of the easy means of communication in offers between the teachers and pupils drawn from a dozen different nationalities.

Out of 836 professions and trades followed in the Netherlands nearly half are practised by women.

A woman—Joan of Arc—saved France from becoming part of Britain, and another woman, Catherine the Great, set Russia high among the nations.

'CATTLE DRIVES' OF 80'S AGAIN STIR IRELAND

DUBLIN, April 19. (By Mail).—Conflicts over land attended by organized "cattle drives" to intimidate land owners and compel them to sell have been added lately to Ireland's other troubles. The disturbances are a revival of conditions which prevailed 30 or more years ago when farmers and graziers were forced by similar methods to sell large land holdings.

The malcontents complain that most of the good land in the south and west of Ireland is being used for grazing purposes and that they are unable to purchase it. Consequently they have resorted to the "cattle drives" and threats of bodily harm to the owners. It is very difficult to police all the country and many of the drives have resulted in three or four farmers losing all their cattle at one swoop.

The intimidators are represented as renters who are demanding longer leases of land, small owners and a certain number of holders of comparatively large tracts who believe their neighbors' land used for grazing is more suitable for tillage than the ground they are trying to cultivate.

"It's the same story again of the eighties," said a former south of Ireland land holder. They forced us to cut up our large holdings then by use of the same methods now employed. The land troubles should not be confused with crimes resulting from the political unrest. It is separate and distinct and shows evidence of being on the increase.

Smith Woodward, naturalist of the British museum of the find who, in turn, communicated with Dr. Ameghino.

From the description of the engineers, it appeared the dinosaur was a monster, even for dinosaurs, and of a new species. The museum lacking funds, Dr. Ameghino at his own expense sent an expedition in charge of a young naturalist, Augusto Tapia, to bring the skeleton to Buenos Aires.

"The English engineers," says Dr. Ameghino, "informed Tapia on his arrival that while they were away on a trip of exploration, an unknown person had come to the place, collected all the fossils that had been unearthed, taken away those which interested him, including the dinosaur, and left the rest. Tapia found only a simple pile of bones belonging to animals of various well-known species. The great skeleton of a new species was not there." The expedition cost Dr. Ameghino 2,000 pesos.

BONES OF ANCIENT MAMMOTH STOLEN

BUENOS AIRES, April 18. (By Mail).—Who stole the great Patagonian dinosaur? This is a question the newspapers are asking and it is also a question which Dr. Carlos Ameghino, director of the Buenos Aires museum of natural history, would like to have answered.

The dinosaur, or rather its skeleton, was not stolen from the museum, it should be explained, but from the soil of Patagonia, near Neuquen, where, in a remarkable state of preservation, it was discovered by some English engineers a year ago, during the excavation of an irrigation ditch. They notified Arthur

THE PAYROLL DOLLAR

By developing Oregon's immense resources we are attracting outside manufacturers into the State.

By making our products superlatively good we are creating a demand for Oregon goods in the marts of the world.

Thus are we adding to the payroll dollars of Oregon and making Oregon the ideal place to live.
