IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is sign you have been eating too much meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have a backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

AT THE THEATERS

A bitter hard fight in the dark between a band of deep sea adventurers on one hand and a group of Secret Service men on the other, is the red-blooded climax of "Outlaws of the Deep," the second of the Chief Flynn series of eight smashing two-reelers made by the Republic Pictures, which shows at the Liberty Theatre tonight.

Herbert Rawlinson takes the role of "Lightning," Chief Flynn's best man, assigned to tract a gang of desperate men engaged in smuggling Chinese in the country Wilson Mizner, noted author of Broadway successes, including "Alias Jimmy Valentine," wrote "Outlaws of the Deep" from official material, hitherto undisclosed, given him by Chief William J. Flynn.

The rich Stuyvesant Van Allen agrees to give Dick Farrington a place in his New York office at a very nominal salary, when the young fellow returns to Betty Winthrop, Van Allen's ward, her lost mesh bag and, refusing the momentary reward she offers him, implores her aid in securing employment.

In a very short while Dick has advanced himself so rapidly and thoroughly in Van Allen's business that when it is learned that there is something wrong in the conduct of the northwest lumber camp belonging to the Van Allen interests, Dick is assigned to the position of foreman of the camp and sent out to the northwest to run down the conspirators.

But this task is not as easily accomplished as might be supposed, and Dick has a lot of brawny fist work to do before he masters the situation in the camp, but he finally succeeds and then returns to New York to denounce the director in Van Allen's own office who was co-operating with the trouble-makers in the camp.

Dick's mother was an American and his father an Englishman and the boy was born and brought up in London, but the American blood in him was always uppermost, and when his wildness in the London "white lights" prompted his father, Lord Farrington, to send him on a visit to his relatives, the Van Allens, at their estate on Long Island, Dick came willingly, and the romantic adventures which changed the fellow from a London man-about-town to a hard and serious worker are brought out with great dramatic interest in "The American Way," the absorbing photo-play just released by the World, in which the ever enjoyable Arthur Ashley plays the part of young Dick Farrington, the fascinating Dorothy Green the role of Betty Winthrop, the charming ward of the Van Allens.

This film will be on exhibition at the Liberty Theatre tonight and it is bound to please to the utmost everyone who sees it.

Margarita Fisher, dusky-eyed star of the "Flying A" forces, will be seen in a new and uproarious farce when she is presented at the Liberty Theatre on Tuesday, in "Charge It to Me," her latest American production. Written by L. V. Jefferson, the story hits a new mark in photo-play comedy, offering Miss Fisher in one of the most refreshing roles of her career.

Miss Fisher interprets the part of a young bride who sets out to earn some money in order that she may purchase a smoking jacket as a surprise birthday gift. She assumes the role of a charming chauffeur and unwittingly attracts the various men who had been her passengers. How, by attempting to carry out her plan

CULINARY TRADE POPULAR, VIENNA

VIENNA, April 10. (By Mail.)—Aristocratic Vienna, once famed for its chefs, now offers small opportunities for the display of gastronomic art. Professional cooks are regarded as "superfluous" as are also an army of waiters, all jobless and forlorn.

Many hundreds of Austrians who were interned in England during the war returned here to find they could get no work to do. By far the greater number are waiters. They are in a desperate plight. Owing to the great increase in the cost of living there has been a great diminution in the number of those who were wont to patronize hotels and restaurants.

Waiters fortunate enough to get a job at their calling encounter almost insuperable difficulties in providing themselves with conventional garb. There are few second-hand dress suits in Vienna. And new dress suits now cost from $6,000 to $8,000 crowns. It has been suggested that in lieu of dress suits they should be allowed to wear white linen uniforms which could be had much more cheaply and would render it easier to distinguish between waiters and guests.

MYSTERY THEFTS

HONOLULU, T. H. Apr. 18. (By Mail.)—Mysterious thefts of jewels valued at more than $2000 and sums of money ranging from $1.75 to $100 marked the recent voyage of the army transport Great Northern from San Francisco to Honolulu, en route to Vladivostok.

Among the victims reported by the ship's officers when she reached here were Brigadier General and Mrs. George F. Scriven, who lost both money and jewelry.

The town of Westhoven, in Germany, still enforces an old ordinance which forbids any one to walk in the street with a lighted cigar.

MEDICAL CONGRESS

MANILA, P. I., Apr. 15. (By Mail.)—Plans have been started for a world congress of physicians and surgeons in Manila in connection with the International Exposition to be held here in March, 1921, to commemorate the 400th anniversary of the discovery of the Philippine Islands by Ferdinand Magellan.

It is planned to conduct meetings along all branches of medical science but special attention is to be given to tropical medicine and modern methods of treating tropical diseases.

A number of the leaders in surgery and medicine in Japan and China have already consented to attend such a congress.

In spite of the unpleasant complications that develop, she becomes involved with the police, forms the roughest climax of the story.

As "Winnie Davis," the embarrassed young bride, Margarita Fisher is at once effervescent and sympathetic, enhancing the side-splitting situations by the grave seriousness with which she invests her characterization. Emory Johnson, as the bridegroom, is Miss Fisher's leading man, and he makes a most convincingly jealous and irate husband. Others in the cast include Augustus Phillips, Buddy Post, "Bull" Montana, J. Farrel MacDonald and Sophie Todd. The production was directed by Roy Neill.

SOCIETY

honor of the Rt. Rev. Joseph F. McGrath, bishop of Baker City, who has been in the city for the past week on matters connected with the erection of the new convent and school for the parish of the Sacred Heart as well as the administration of the sacrament of confirmation. The reception was attended by a large number of members of the parish and others, who called for the purpose of paying honor to the distinguished visitor whose influence is destined to play a prominent part in the growth of this community.

Tuesday afternoon the Missionary society of the Presbyterian church held a May day party in the church parlors. The parlors were prettily decorated in boughs and pink blossoms which presented a pretty Oriental effect. A delightful program was given, Mrs. Don Zumwalt giving several instrumental and Miss Esther Haines several vocal selections, while the members told in verse the many ways in which they raised their quota for the pipe organ fund. Mrs. Fred Fleet told in a very humorous verse that she earned her quota by persuading her husband to write the dress.

verses for the other members who were claiming all these accomplishments for themselves. Mrs. A. M. Worden, who has been president of the society since its organization, was presented with a handsome pen knife by Mrs. E. S. Phillips on behalf of the society. Mrs. Emma Cogswell, who was one of the committee to buy the first organ the church owned, and who played it for years before leaving for her new home in California, sent a contribution of $10. Mrs. Don Zumwalt, the winner of the guessing contest, was presented with a pretty May day basket filled with flowers. Dainty refreshments were served.

ECCLIASTICAL BAN ON SCANTY ATTIRE

MONTEVIDEO, March 30. (By Mail.)—Roman Catholic ecclesiastical authorities of Uruguay, following a precedent set in Paris, have prohibited the entry into churches of women wearing "inadequate" costumes. This order was enforced a few days ago against a young woman forming one of a church wedding party. She was refused admission to the ceremony owing to the scantiness of her very fashionable dress.
