Sugar, as such, is not to be purchased in a Central African village, but the people do not need it, for they have fruit all the year round, and the children have sugar cane to suck and the sweet stalks of the maize plant to chew.

Clocks have been made within recent years which seem almost to solve the problem of perpetual motion. For instance, there is a clock which has already gone 15 years with one winding, and its inventor claims it will run for fifty.
