The chief industry of Abruzzo is the breeding of cattle.

CENTRAL HOTEL ROOMS OPENED

The Central Hotel, Main and Ninth streets, will be opened to the public this evening. The opening of this hostelry will greatly relieve the great scarcity for rooms that has been existent here for several months.

The promoters of this enterprise have centered all of their efforts on giving to the public a clean, sanitary room, furnished with the best bed that money can buy.

The manager of the new hotel will be J. J. Keller, former owner of the Keller Cafe. His assistant will be Harry Dwyer, formerly with the First State and Savings bank.

While the rooms are all ready for the guests, the same is not true of the spacious lobby that is to be used for the convenience and comfort of the patrons.

A new industry has been introduced at Milan, Italy. It consists in the manufacture of collars, cuffs, cigarette and other boxes, carpets, purses, furniture coverings and a variety of other things from waste leather cuttings, which has hitherto been useless.

ARCADIE HOTEL IS PARTLY OPENED

The Arcadie Hotel at 1032-1034 Main street opened for business last night, when eight rooms were fitted up and immediately taken. It was said this morning that by tonight as many more rooms would be ready.

Except for a delay in plumbing the hotel would have opened Saturday night. It had advertised that intention and at least 25 applicants for rooms were turned away Saturday evening.

While there is much finishing work to be done, and while the hot water system is still to be installed, the hotel has clean, comfortable rooms to offer and during the course of the week will add a few more. When entirely open there will be 49 sleeping apartments.

To pack and keep ordinary butter in India is impossible, it becoming ruid almost from the moment it is made. To overcome this the idea was conceived of putting it in collapsible tubes, the same as tooth paste and all paints.
