KING WINS HARD

in his place, but when Allen heard of the arrangement he raised a cry that he was unfairly treated and said he was willing to go through with his agreement. The commission, despite Allen's previous refusal to meet Allen, relented and the fight was rearranged. Then, according to their statement, at the eleventh hour; on the specious plea that Eaton had backed out-and in the face of testimony of Eaton's friends that the lateness of the train detained him-Allen quit and changed from his fighting togs into his street clothes.

When he saw Eaton, who came direct from the train to the hall, enter the building, he immediately left it, it is claimed, and left it forever the commission assert as far as his appearance in any ring event is concerned.

Blackburn of Grants Pass ended within half a minute after it's start.

Blackburn started with a wild rush and labbed Moore two or three times.

The local boy got his long arms into action and repelled the onrush, flooring Blackburn. The fallen fighter got to his feet and was almost immediately put down again. He rose slowly and raised his hands in surrender. While the fight ended quickly it was a hammer and tongs

The Bearcat's reputation as a man that the card, while trimmed considerably from schedule, was one of the quality of fighting displayed in the main event and no dissatisfaction was over the unavoidable ommission of affair while it lasted.

The play was produced by the same organization waich was responsible for "Eyes of Youth," which is sufficient guarantee of its quality, and under the supervision of Harry Garson, easily the foremost of the independent creators.

It is the story of romance and intrigue, of love and hate, of joy and sorow, all interwoven in a delightful continuity as the autobiographical tale of a highly tempermental prima donna coquette-who steps dangerously near destruction through her inshility to flirt seriously-or take seriously the appeal of her heart.

Gripping, poignant, full of surprises and unusual dramatic vigor-"The Forbidden Woman" is bound to please. Be sure and see it. This big production will be at The Liberty on Sunday only.

It is an historical masterpiece as well as a thrilling motion picture that David Wark Griffith set about creating when he produced "Scarlet Days," his new production which is coming to the Star Theatre Sunday. He aimed to tell the glowing story of the old California of the days of '49, portraying on the screen what Bret Harte has so entertainingly told in fiction. With this view, Mr. Griffith journeyed with his company to old Toulumne, a deserted mining town which in its palmy days was two miles of miners' huts, saloons and dance halls. Amid the ruins the eminent producer recreated the old village and the characters in "Scar let Days" are the red-blooded folk who used to live there in the days of the gold rush. Rosy Nell, a dance-hall woman and Alvarez, the mild-mannered. dashing bandit, at once the terror of the shortffs and the best friend of the poor, are the central figures, both authentic personages of California history, and a thrilling story is said to have been woven about them.

Kryptoks Have Ended the Eyeglass Troubles of Thousands and Thousands of People.

Thousands and thousands of people whose eyes need help for both near and far vision are wearing Kryptok (pro-nounced Crip-tock) Glasses today with perfect satisfaction.

(RYPTOK

If you know the bother of fuss ing with two pairs of glasses, one for near vision and one for far vision; if you know the bother and inconvenience of peering and scowling over reading glasses, or removing them, when you want to see at a distance; if you know the embarrassment of wearing ordinary conspicuous bifocals -- then Kryptoks are just the glasses for you, too. Let us explain them to you.

They are the only invisible bifocals.
