

EIGHTH STREET OWNERS WAR ON WARREN BROS.

Ordinances of various descriptions occupied the attention of the city council last night. There was considerable discussion of matters relating to the public welfare and consideration of a large budget of building and other permits. All in all the council had a busy session.

Protests were received from J. J. Parker and others regarding the Eighth street improvement just started by Warren Bros. Construction company. Dirt from the grading, without a retaining wall to hold it, is rolling over the lower edge of the street onto the lawns of the residents. The construction company claims that it is not in the plans and specifications that they build the retaining wall. The council thinks the company should build the wall before laying the sidewalk. On motion of Councilman Upp the city engineer was instructed to notify Warren Bros. that the sidewalk grade must be permanent and substantial and finished in such fashion that it would not inconvenience abutting property owners before the sidewalk was laid upon it.

Expectoration Tabooed

Councilman Brandenburg put through a motion that pedestrians be given notice of the new city ordinance prohibiting expectoration on sidewalks or in public buildings, also the complementary provisions against spitting and other rubbish promiscuously about. Arrests will follow continued violation of the ordinance.

Reports on Barns

The mayor filed the health board's report on barns which have been protested by citizens as nuisances. The barn at Klamath avenue and Payne alley and the barn at Klamath avenue and Ninth streets were given a clean report. The Mammoth stable was condemned as insanitary and will be taken down by the owners. The Arant barn was reported as clean as far as the interior was concerned but the corral is insanitary. Installation of the fly light bins required by the city ordinance was recommended, in which the refuse now piled on the premises must be enclosed.

Dedicate Alley

A deed was received from Mrs. Sanderson and children deeding to the city the alley running from Tenth to Eleventh between Pine and High streets, and accepted by the council. Property owners on Lincoln street asked for a change of sidewalk grade and the establishment of a uniform grade. It was moved by Councilman Brandenburg, and carried, that the property owners pay all costs of change of grades that may be approved by the city engineer.

He had lived in America for 11 years. He had a logging contract with the Saddle Mountain Lumber company when he was taken ill and was brought to the local hospital about three days before his death. He had no relatives in this country. A sister lives in Sweden.

CHAUTAUQUA OPENED WITH BIG ATTENDANCE

The big brown tent on Klamath avenue was practically filled to capacity last night when the Williams male quartet and Evelyn Bargett opened Klamath Falls' annual Chautauqua. If the opening day's program can be taken as a criterion, Chautauqua this year promises to be of a very high standard.

Charles J. Roberts, president of the Klamath Falls Chautauqua association, opened the sessions with a short talk introducing H. M. McFadden, the director in charge. Mr. McFadden thanked the large audience for the enthusiastic support given the local association in making the Chautauqua a success.

The Williams male quartet were then presented. Every selection given was received with an enthusiastic demand for more. The quartet sang well together—their entertainment features were especially attractive. The bass solo work of Frank Biddle was an outstanding feature.

Miss Evelyn Bargett, the cartoonist entertainer, gave the last half of the program. Miss Bargett is exceedingly clever as an entertainer and combined with her rapid sketches of scenes and faces familiar to all made her portion of the evening a very enjoyable one.

Tonight the New York artists' trio furnish the music as a prelude to a lecture by President James A. Burns of Onida institute or "Burns of the Mountains" as he is nationally known.

FEDERAL HEALTH OFFICER HERE TO FIGHT PLAGUE

The nation-wide campaign of the United States public health service to stamp out the so-called "social disease" is being brought to the attention of Klamath Falls this week with the presence here of Dr. J. M. Murphy, acting assistant surgeon of the United States health service and venereal disease control officer for the state of Oregon.

Dr. Murphy's visit here does not signify any effort toward a moral clean-up and no attack will be made at his instigation upon any houses in this community that are known to be the sort of places from which the diseases aimed at are spread.

His mission is entirely educational and directed toward awakening the community to the danger of disregarding the question of social disease. Dr. Murphy appeared last night before the city council and explained his errand and the purposes of the national crusade and asked the council's co-operation and approval. He asked that the council go on record by resolution as supporting the campaign. No formal resolution was passed last night but Dr. Murphy received assurance of the council's co-operation and a resolution to this effect will be drafted at once.

The purpose of the campaign is to stamp out by clinical methods, working through the local health authorities, the source of infection as far as possible. To this end all known places from which the disease may be spread are visited and the inmates examined. Seven examinations were made by Dr. Murphy yesterday, acting as deputy city health officer under appointment of Dr. A. A. Soule, and tests will be made to determine if disease be present. Six of the women were found in the house on the lake front, the other was a negro in a house on Main street near the bridge.

Provision is made for dealing with outside sources of disease through the local physicians, who are required by law to keep a record of all cases and obtain as complete a history as possible. When the evidence places the responsibility upon some individual the authorities are empowered to make an examination.

All proved infected individuals are subject to isolation and quarantine until it is shown by competent medical testimony that a cure is effected.

Oregon had the smallest percentage of infection of any state, it was shown by examinations of drafted men at the beginning of the war. The public health service is making every effort to reduce the cases to nothing. Upon the attitude of the general public and its community representatives is dependent the success of the outcome.

With the moral side of the matter the health department does not deal. That is up to the state and local authorities under the abatement laws plentifully provided. The health service takes only the responsibility of safeguarding the public health as far as is possible from the diseases that spring from moral transgression, attacking it as it would an outbreak of smallpox or other virulent plague by the use of isolation for known cases.

Practically all pharmacists of the state, on request of the health service, have agreed to stop the sale of quick prescriptions and patent medicines for the treatment of venereal disease and nearly all the newspapers of the state have agreed to cease advertising these preparations, says Dr. Murphy.

SCHOOL DISPLAY IN STORE ATTRACTS MUCH ATTENTION

Baldwin's Hardware store windows this week hold an interesting display of articles fabricated by the manual training and domestic science classes of the Klamath grade schools which attracted so much comment when it was exhibited at the school a week ago. The display in the store window is very complete in both sections and its excellence halts practically every passing pedestrian for a few minute's inspection.

The exhibit was first placed in Sugarman's, then moved to the present location. In the domestic science section are aprons, dresses, embroidery and crocheting, some of the articles being highly finished specimens of needlecraft. The manual training exhibit contains chairs, tables, book cases, and even the plans and framework for a six-room bungalow. The bungalow is modeled in miniature of course but is quite complete.

"This is only an outline of the sort of life many of us are leading these days. We all follow about the same system in which much is left to chance but it really has kept many of us out of jail for intervals at least."

This informant said nothing would suit him but an Irish republic and he would fight for it as long as he lived.

STREET IMPROVEMENT GETTING UNDER WAY

Grading started on the Esplanade street improvement, under construction by the Warren Bros. company, this morning. The grading on Eighth street is also under way and the excavations are made for the curbing. It is expected that the Eighth street grade will be ready for rock laying in about a week.

The city council last night, in the absence of any protests against proceeding with the improvements, passed to second reading an ordinance directing the police judge to issue a call for bids on the paving of Conger avenue, Pine street from Eighth to Eleventh, Washington from First to Third and Klamath avenue from Eighth to Eleventh.

BACK FROM VISIT IN SOUTHERN CAL.

Marshall Orr has returned from a three months' sojourn in California. During his absence he visited Tia Juana, Mexico, Imperial, San Diego, Los Angeles and other California cities and on his way home dropped over to Reno, Nevada, for a brief visit with his brother, Judge Orr. Mr. Orr says that there is a greater building activity in Klamath Falls than any other city he visited and that everywhere he went he was met with inquiries about this city and its possibilities. Notwithstanding he had a fine time and enjoyed the balmy climate of the south, he is glad once more to get back to Klamath and its bracing atmosphere.

The reformatory school system originated in France.

TRUCK CRUSHES LOGGER BADLY

Surgeons at the Warren Hunt hospital, after consultation this morning, held out very little hope for the recovery of Fred Snyder, employee of the Pucket Bros. logging camp, who was brought to the hospital yesterday suffering from injuries received when he was thrown from the seat of a truck and the heavy wheels of the machine passed over his abdomen. He apparently received internal injuries.

The accident happened at the camp on the west side of the Upper lake, while the crew were returning to their work in the woods after the noon meal. The truck on which Snyder was riding struck a stump, throwing him beneath the wheels of the five ton vehicle. His escape from instant death is considered miraculous.

The victim of the accident is unmarried. His brother and sister who live at Ashland were notified and started for this city by automobile but lost the road in the woods near Jenny Creek last night and did not arrive until 8 o'clock this morning.
