WILL DESIGNATE PUBLIC LANDS

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 27. (Special to The Herald).—Congressman Nick Sinnott has been assured by Dr. George Otis Smith, director, U. S. geological survey, that his bureau plans to have an examination made of all pending cases of designations under the stockraising homestead act before the end of the present field season. The eastern Oregon congressman has time and again, of late, called to the attention of Director Smith the complaints of settlers that no action had been taken on the matter of designating their lands. He made a vigorous personal appeal to Director Smith a few days ago stating that many of his constituents complained that their applications had not been acted upon for three years. He told the director that many of these worthy people on the frontier of the government lands in Oregon had been put to a great inconvenience because of the delay; that they were reluctant to leave the lands they had applied for and were holding on for dear life, but had almost given up hope, and insistently urged Director Smith to do something at once for their relief.

In reply to this latest of innumerable protests to Director Smith he received this morning the following letter setting out the purposes of the bureau to hasten action and giving some interesting statistics of the lands under this act in eastern Oregon:

Washington, D. C., May 20, 1920.
Hon. N. J. Sinnott,
House of Representatives.
My dear Mr. Sinnott:
I have received and carefully noted your letter of May 14, 1920, calling my attention to the number of complaints you are receiving from stock raising applicants in Oregon.

As you know, the stock-raising homestead law was approved by the president on December 29, 1916, and since that date 78,825 individual petitions for designation have been filed. Funds for doing the necessary field and office work were not made available by congress until June 12, 1917, and from that year until the present time, work has been done in Oregon each field season. The survey has disposed of 59,861 cases. The total area designated in all states is 45,240,003 acres, in Oregon 3,531,511 acres, involving 3,224 cases.

Personally, I am proud of this record and feel sure that when you consider the figures presented you will appreciate the magnitude of the task.

On May 15, 1920, the department approved a designation for 1,749,180 acres in the Vale district, involving 227 cases and I expect to submit designation orders to the secretary for consideration for lands in The Dalles and La Grande districts before the end of this month and it is hoped that Lakeview and Burns will be disposed of during June. This action will close, so far as survey action is required, all but about 150 scattered cases in your state.

As to completion of the work of designation under the stock-raising act, examination of the individual applications is necessary in regions where profitable agricultural crops can be raised, and the completion of the work can only be accomplished when the public lands are gone or applications no longer made for them. There are large areas of this kind in your district but before the end of the present field season it is planned to have examination made of all pending cases.

Yours very cordially,
GEORGE OTIS SMITH,
Director, United States Geological Survey.

LOUISIANA TO HAVE A GREAT GAME PRESERVE

NEW ORLEANS, May 28.—If the legislature passes a bill of acceptance, Louisiana will have acquired a veritable Empire of the Wild, stretching along the Gulf of Mexico for a distance of 75 miles and comprising an area of 500 square miles.

The bill of acceptance is only a formality and the state Conservation Department already has begun to outline the work necessary to keep the tract safe for the creatures of the wild.

The property consists of Marsh Island with 78,000 acres of land purchased by Mrs. Russell Sage and given to the state as a game refuge and a tract of 85,000 acres in Vermillion and Cameron parishes on the coast given by the Rockefeller Foundation. Adjoining Marsh Island is the present state game farm on land belonging to the McIlhenny interests of 60,000 acres. Lying between the game farm and the Rockefeller tract is what is known as the Grand Chenier tract of 85,000 which the state expects to acquire in the near future.

This will give Louisiana what is believed here to be the greatest wild life refuge in the world. The great domain is patrolled by agents of the Conservation Commission and on it all sorts of game are protected and propagated.

Edward A. McIlhenny, wealthy salt mine owner, has given great tracts of lands as well as large sums of money to aid in the work.

FERTILIZER FROM FACTORY WASTE

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, May 14. (By Mail).—Among the new industries of Alaska and ones that will recover large returns from hitherto wastes are fish fertilizer factories which are being built by large canner plants. These plants are of modern type and will handle the by-products of the canneries.

As late as 1880 England had but one prominent periodical devoted exclusively to the interests of women.
