There's nothing so good as a cup of Folger's Golden Gate—strong but not rank or bitter.

Different in taste from other coffee and better.

AT THE THEATERS

Cheyenne Harry Buford went to Chicago in an attempt to swerve John Merritt from his foul purpose of robbing the western cattlepuncher of his ranch. Cheyenne's net result was undeserved humiliation at the hands of the packer's fashionable daughter.

Stinging with the hurt and vowing vengeance Cheyenne went back to Wyoming to nurse his sorrow at losing the ranch that had come to his father, without a dollar payment from the clever packer. Then came Cheyenne's opportunity. Mary Merritt went west, accompanied by a "Bah-joing" fortune hunter, and Cheyenne "collected." When he was wounded, something prompted the girl to throw her sobbing form on the man who had "collected" her and protect him from her father's men. And when he came out of his delirium and looked out through the bars of his bed, he thought he was in prison. He was—for life.

Harry Carey will be seen at the Liberty Theatre tonight in "A Gun Fightin' Gentleman," his newest western. Kathleen O'Connor plays the role of Mary Merritt. Carey wrote the story while on his recent personal appearance tour.

One of the biggest adventures a timid little country girl can have is to dine in a fashionable restaurant of New York. Vitagraph's latest picture, "The Midnight Bride," in which Gladys Leslie is star, presents as one of its chief episodes, such an adventure.

"The Midnight Bride" will be shown at the Mondale Theatre on Friday and Saturday.

Miss Leslie plays the role of Jeanne Sterling, a beautiful young girl from the rural town of Cliffside, who comes to New York to visit a girl friend. On discovering that her friend has unexpectedly left the city, Jeanne wanders to the park. Here she makes the chance acquaintance of Forrest Chenoweth, a wealthy young architect.

While waiting for her train time, Jeanne passes the afternoon with the gentlemanly young fellow, and dines with him in an ultra fashionable restaurant. Jeanne's tremendous struggle to act at ease and with good manners in the grand surroundings of the restaurant provide high human interest.

The picture from that point weaves its way through a series of remarkable happenings, and ends with an unusual climax.

"Soldiers of Fortune," probably the most popular of Richard Harding Davis' novels, lends itself so admirably to photodramatization on account of brimming over with action, has been pictured for the Mayflower Picture Corporation by Allan Dwan, director of "Panther,"

"David Harum," "Cheating Cheaters" and other screen successes.

The role of Clay, created in the dramatic version of Robert Edeson is played in the film version by Norman Kerry.

"Soldiers of Fortune" will be seen at the Liberty Theatre next Sunday.

CLOSED SEASON FOR ALLIGATORS

NEW ORLEANS, June 4.—Because everyone seems to want to make a suitcase of him, the alligator is becoming comparatively scarce in Louisiana and protective measures are being framed by the conservation commission.

Statistics compiled by port authorities here show that practically all of the alligator skins exported from the United States go through this port. One concern alone is exporting an average of 10,000 hides each month throughout the year.

HAD SUFFERED TWENTY YEARS

Theatrical Man Says His Nerves Were Upset, He Lost Weight and Felt Wretched Until He Started Taking Tanlac.

"I had taken but a few doses of Tanlac when I realized I had found the medicine I needed," said O. R. Martin, 5915 East Ninth street, Kansas City, Mo., an actor with "Annie Butler Review."

"Before I started taking Tanlac I had suffered from stomach trouble and nervous indigestion for the past twenty years, which gradually grew worse until for the last four or five years I had been in a terribly bad condition. I had no appetite, and when I did manage to eat a little something it began to sour almost at once and gas would form on my stomach until I was in perfect misery. My head ached just about all the time and I often had such bad dizzy spells I could hardly keep from falling. My nerves became so badly upset it was impossible for me to get a good night's sleep and I always got up in the mornings feeling wretched. I lost so much weight and finally became so weak and run-down I had to lay off from work, a great deal of the time.

"My brother-in-law here in Kansas City had taken Tanlac with such good results he advised me to try it, which I did and I began to improve almost at once. I now have a splendid appetite and eat just anything I want without being troubled with gas or in any other way afterward. I have not had a headache or dizzy spell since I started taking Tanlac and my nerves are in such good condition I can sleep all night long without ever waking up. I have gained several pounds in weight, have regained my strength and, in fact, feel better in every way than I have in years. I am still taking Tanlac, for I want to make sure that my troubles will not return, and as I spent hundreds of dollars for other medicines without getting any benefit from them and never had anything do me any good until I started taking Tanlac, I can't say too much for it. I am glad of the opportunity to tell others about what it has done for me so they may profit by my experience."

Tanlac is sold in Klamath Falls by the Star Drug Co., in Lorella by the James Merc. Co., and in Merrill by the Southern Oregon Drug Co. Adv.

BOSTON "TECH" WILL FINE FLUNKERS

BOSTON, June 4.—Massachusetts Institute of Technology has placed a tax on scholastic failures. Hereafter students who fail or show a deficiency in a study must pay $5 for each shortcoming. The rule has aroused protest from the undergraduates, who are supported by some members of the faculty.

Leonard M. Passano, professor of mathematics, taking the side of the students, wrote a formal communication to the executive committee in which he argued that professor and student are jointly involved in such failures. He suggested that instructors be fined with students for each failure in their classes, if the rule is to hold.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

NOBODY CAN TELL WHEN YOU DARKEN GRAY, FADED HAIR WITH SAGE TEA

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients all ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.
