JAPANESE PRINCE COMING

HONOLULU, T. H., May 19. ## BOMBING OF MARASH SCHOOL DELIBERATE ACT

The following Associated Press account of the destruction of Marash, from the lips of an eye witness, should be of local interest as the Rev. W. E. Rambo, former pastor of the local Christian church, and Mrs. Rambo, workers of the Near East Relief committee, were stationed there during the bombardment and took part in the 70 mile flight to Islahie.—Ed.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The Turkish nationalist forces in besieging Marash, Syria, last January deliberately and continuously fired on the American college and Near East Relief hospital and orphanage there, according to Dr. Mabel Elliott, of Benton Harbor, Mich., who was in charge of the hospital during the three weeks' attack.

Dr. Elliott, who has now returned to this country, with Mrs. Mabel Power, of North Hero, Vt., Miss Helen Shultz, of Reading, Pa., and Miss Minnie Dougherty, of Holyoke, Mass., told an eye-witness story of the attack, directed against the Armenian population.

The slaughter of men, women and children was horrible, she said, and the pillage of houses barbaric. In one Armenian church 2,500 persons were killed—only 22 surviving the attack on it—she said.

Of a fleeing column of 5,000 Armenians, mostly women and children driven from the besieged city, Dr. Elliott said only 2,200 reached their objective, Islahie, but 75 miles away.

"The whole three weeks of the siege the firing from house-tops and windows never ceased," she said. "The Turks fired many buildings all over the town, and from our windows we could see columns of smoke rising first from one part of the city and then another, every hour of the day and night.

"The largest Armenian church at first sheltered some 2,500 Armenians of the better class, shop keepers, business men and merchants and their families. They had arms, and they put up a good fight. But the Turks finally fired the church and forced them out. Only 22 escaped with their lives.

"A communication trench was dug from French headquarters to the hospital by which the French wounded were brought in to us. They were all Senegalese and Moroccans. The Senegalese blacks suffered frightfully from the cold. We had 900 cases of wounded and frozen feet—mostly frozen feet.

"All over town, the Armenians would gather in the nearest churches for protection, largely because by being concentrated they were in greater force, and also because the church buildings are of stone, and surrounded by high walls, and thus made the best means of defense. It wasn't possible to live a day in a private house, as the Turks would fire the house and drive the inhabitants out, killing them as they ran for shelter. We could see that going on everywhere.

"There were about 5,000 Armenians who joined the column and tried to make the march over the mountains to Islahie, 75 miles from Marash, when the French troops evacuated the city.

"There was no food for anyone, and only a few carts. Practically everybody had to walk the whole way.

"It was a ghastly incredible nightmare. The worst blizzard that Marash had ever known caught us.

"Most of the fugitives were women and children. The men stayed behind to fight and cover our retreat.

"They died like flies. Every 50 yards or so someone would drop in the snow. There was no use trying to do anything. It was all anybody could do to keep going.

"We had to cross many streams, which were frozen at first, but the ice was broken by the French trains and artillery, and when we came along we had to wade in the icy water, and then walk on in the snow. I saw the French general in command wading the streams on foot.

"Out of the 5,000 who started only 2,200 ever got there.

"Mrs. Mabel Power, of North Hero, Vt., and Miss Helen Shultz, of Reading, Pa., who came out with me went to Adana in a French hospital train."

low hum of a steady motor under the hood; the singing of the tires as they grip and let go of the oil-coated pavement; the spiteful tapping of bits of gravel as they are flung against the underside of the mud guards—all these are indications of the willingness of the Maibohm to give everything it has when its owner makes a demand for the car's reserve power.

FEELS LIKE A DIFFERENT MAN

Los Angeles Resident Was Hardly Able to Get About—Feels Fine Since Tanlac Built Him Up.

"I am so thoroughly satisfied with the benefits I have received from Tanlac it is a real pleasure for me to recommend it," said Silas P. Gates, 639 East Avenue 60, Los Angeles, Cal., recently. Mr. Gates is a valued employe of the Security Building, corner Fifth and Spring streets, and is known to a large number of people.

For the past three years I had been in a badly rundown condition, and in spite of everything I could do I just couldn't get myself right again."

"During the past year I got a great deal worse and lost so much weight and was so weak I could scarcely get about at all. I had no appetite and the little I did manage to eat did not seem to do me any good, for I had a heavy, miserable feeling in my stomach all the time. I also suffered from catarrh of the head and stomach something awful. My nerves were in such bad condition I could get but little sleep and I nearly always got up feeling about as bad as I did when I went to bed. It was all I could do to get to the car line to go to work, and when I got down town it was an effort for me to finish out the day. I went home every evening so completely fagged out I could not eat anything but went right straight to bed where I would pass another night of misery.

"I tried nearly every kind of medicine I could hear of, but nothing seemed to do me any good. One day after reading a testimonial praising Tanlac from a man whose condition had been similar to mine, I decided to try it. Before I had finished the first bottle I felt like a different person and began to pick up right along. My appetite has improved so I eat three hearty meals a day now and I eat anything I want without having that heavy feeling in my stomach or suffering from other bad after effects. I am not bothered with catarrh any more and have regained my strength until I can get about and do as much work as I ever could, and I never have that tired, sluggish feeling any more. My nerves are in fine condition. I sleep all night long without ever waking up and always get up feeling good and ready for work. I am glad to tell what Tanlac has done for me, hoping some one else will be benefited as I was by it."

Tanlac is sold in Klamath Falls by the Star Drug Co., in Lorella by the James Merc. Co., and in Merrill by the Southern Oregon Drug Co. Adv.

AT THE THEATERS

In "A Broadway Saint," the latest World picture, starring Montagu Love, the hero's old uncle receives a large fortune by the death of a relative, and wishing his nephew to have the wild time he himself did not have because of his lack of money he gives him a big allowance on the condition that he won't send a single cent of it sensibly.

Can you imagine the riotous time this money would give a young fellow full of line and fun?

See "A Broadway Saint" and find out just what happened to all of this money.

It's a corking story, full of speedy action, and will prove a real treat for everyone who takes it in.

Many are the times that the motion picture fans sit in the theatre utterly astonished at the antics that actors are enabled to do on the screen—such as walking on ceilings, skipping lightly over seas of water and the like. Mack Sennett and his assistants have perfected the most of these "tricks" as they are called and in his latest big five reel comedy, "Down on the Farm," which will be at the Liberty Theatre on Saturday, he has gone the limit. In all this work the camera is of principal concern. Fred Jackson, who is credited as the greatest of all cameramen and who can make it do everything but talk, is "the man behind the guns" for Sennett.
