TWO MORE CARS OF GASOLINE ARRIVE

A carload of gasoline received by the Standard Oil company last night, and another car received by the Union Oil company, helped to relieve the acuteness of the gasoline shortage still further.

Strictest conservation measures, however, are still necessary, says J. T. Mortell, manager of the local Standard plant. This territory has become so highly motorized in the past year that the gasoline consumption is far beyond all previous records and increasing daily.

The industrial and agricultural users of gasoline will be taken care of first says Mr. Mortell. He says that the situation is beginning to brighten but that it will be at least 30 days before it is anywhere near normal again. In the meantime everyone is asked to co-operate to keep the wheels of industry moving.

ENTOMOLOGIST AIDING FIGHT

L. P. Rockwood, federal entomologist from the Forest Grove station, is here assisting County Agent Thomas in the grasshopper work. Saturday they made a trip over the Malheur district where the grasshopper fight is on and reported that the situation is getting well in hand.

Sunday another trip was made over the Upper Marsh district and a car of materials for fighting grasshoppers was loaded yesterday to be shipped as far as Kirk.

Mr. Rockwood comes to Klamath county upon request of the experiment station of the Oregon Agricultural college. The available assistance at the experiment station is not sufficient to care for the heavy demands made upon that department at this season of the year in fighting insect pests.

Mr. Rockwood has had experience in a number of other big grasshopper fights and Klamath county is very fortunate to have his assistance at this time. He is particularly pleased with the efficient manner in which the communities have organized in this fight and feels sure that the pest both at Tule Lake and the Upper Marsh can be controlled before much more damage is done.

COMMITTEE TO LOOK INTO Y. M. C. A. PLAN

At a meeting of the Business Men's association, held last evening at the White Pelican Hotel, U. S. Duncan, interstate industrial secretary for the Y. M. C. A., addressed those present on the question of a community center. The idea was to raise a fund of $75,000, with a guaranteed yearly maintenance of $9,000 a year, with which to build, equip and maintain an institution of that kind. A committee was appointed to investigate the proposition and report at a later date. It is understood that a somewhat similar proposition is to be presented in behalf of another welfare organization, only asking for $50,000, without any annual maintenance guarantee, but nothing definite could be gathered on this phase of the problem.

At the meeting Mr. Duncan was asked what the mill owners thought of his proposition, and he stated that they were quite enthusiastic over it until he mentioned the $75,000, when they seemed to lose their breath and did not recover it sufficiently to enter into the matter further until they learned how the business men stood on the question.

There are approximately 27,462 acres in the district, of which the Weed heirs own 21,263 acres. SHOE PRICES DROP

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—Reductions of wholesale prices of various styles of shoes from 25 cents to $2 was announced today by officials of the three largest shoe manufacturers here.

THE UNION STORE FOR THE WORKINGMAN

The Florsheim Shoe or Tan Call

to think that you must buy shoes at a certain price. The price you pay may seem economy to you, but in reality it may be false economy. Avoid shoes of doubtful quality; pay the price that will give you shoes of known value and you'll get double the amount of service with better fit, correct style and the satisfaction of knowing that your shoe money is a profitable investment and not an expense.

When you buy the next pair, try Florsheims—they cost a little more than ordinary shoes—they're well worth the difference.

G. O. P. CONVENTION IN FIRST SESSION

Senator Lodge as temporary chairman, the ruling affirming the selection. Another wave of applause greeted the senator as he stepped onto the platform. It was one minute before noon when he began speaking. The address was punctuated by cheering and applause, most loudly when he referred to the Republican party of 1860, and declared it must again come forward for like service to the country.

Rars, cheers and continued applause marked Lodge's declaration that everyone connected with the "dynasty of Woodrow Wilson must be driven from power." He continued that they must be driven out "not because they are Democrats but because Mr. Wilson's theory of government is not American." The defeat of the present administration, Lodge said, transcends every other question.

William Jennings Bryan, from his seat in the press stand, listened intently to Lodge's declaration regarding Mr. Wilson and his associates.

Senator Lodge got one first real hit with his reference to President Wilson's participation peace conference.

"He went himself," he said, "because he trusted no one else." The delegates laughed heartily, following up with applause, as they did also when the senator lambasted the Mexican policy, government operation of railroads, and the proposal to accept a mandate over Armenia. There was another burst of applause and approval, when Lodge, referring to the defeat of the treaty, said that Republican senators considered the difficult task of defeating the peace treaty their duty and "did not shrink from its fulfillment."

The first man in the convention to sit on a sack, actually rather than politically, was an Arizunan delegate, who found one in his chair. An accommodating assistant sergeant at arms removed it. The delegate told his colleagues he had come to the convention expecting a lively fight, but did not expect an attack from the rear.

W. O. W. MEETING
