DRIVERS MUST HAVE SPECIAL LICENSE CARD

(Portland Oregonian)

And now, autoists, get ready for one more grief, almost as bad as the two-gallon gasoline limit.

Have you heard about your driving license yet? Well, here goes!

At the special session of the legislature there was passed a measure providing that every driver must carry a special driving license, without which driving is forbidden. Said license is in the form of a card declaring that the driver is mentally and physically fit to drive a car and is experienced for the job. Every motor owner will receive the necessary blanks this week.

That's easy, you say. But, beware, ye reckless!

There are teeth in this measure. At the discretion of the secretary of state the driving license may be sussended or even taken up altogether. No license, no driving!

Everyone who drives must have a license by July 1. The cost is 25 cents.

On the basis there will be 100,000 cars in Oregon this year—the total is close to 90,000 now—and on the assumption an average of two persons drive, more or less, each car, 200,000 driving licenses will be required.

More speculation—That should result in $50,000 for the state highway fund, less, of course, the cost of administration, which will be extra help in the secretary of state's office and three field deputies at $150 per month each, which with printing, postage and incidentals, will probably run up the expense to $20,000 a year, thus—a problematical—$30,000 a year for the highway fund.

The bill was introduced by Senator Orton at the request of the Portland branch of the national safety commission. It was designed to curb traffic accidents and reckless driving, but what worries police officials is that the measure makes no provision for the number of convictions that shall result in a license suspension. The whole thing is up to the secretary of state.

Thus some individual might outscore Sorenson, as one automobile authority expressed it, and by the use of influential friends retain his driving license.

The law provides for no examination. The driver must file a statement that he has driven for five days, is experienced and is physically and mentally sound. There is another provision that gives the mained and those with deficient members a special permit at the option of the secretary of state.

WISCONSIN FREIGHT WRECK DISASTROUS

ELLENSBURG, Wisconsin, June 16.—One man was killed, two injured, 48 loaded freight cars totally destroyed and extensive damage done to main lines and switches resulted when an east bound Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul freight got beyond control early today near Boylston tunnel and ran wild for 17 miles. The accident is attributed to over generation of current on an electric locomotive.
