EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if bladder bothers you

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney diseases.

It is being suggested in several quarters that Chinese coolie labor be imported into the United States to stabilize the mining industry. "I am wholly opposed to any importation into America of coolie labor," says Herbert Hoover. "It would involve an undesirable mixture of races. An American motorist, stopped by a Scotch constable for speeding, hinted broadly that he might pay to be let off.

"Well, sir" cried the constable, "Dae ye suggest that I wld take a bribe? Dae ye mean tae insult me sir?"

"Oh, excuse me" said the American "I really—"

"But now" put in the constable "supposin' I was that kind of a man, how much wad ye be inclined to gie me?"

DeWeese asked us not so long ago what we would take "political economy" to mean.

We replied that we should say that it meant not paying any more for votes than one had to.

But DeWeese wouldn't have it that way. He said that it was the science which teaches us to get the greatest amount of benefit with the least possible amount of honest labor.

Not long ago a traveling salesman visited a small town and sold the proprietor of the general store an order of jewelry. When the jewelry arrived, it was not as represented, and the merchant consequently returned it. But the wholesale house nevertheless attempted to collect the bill, and drew a sight draft on the merchant through the local bank which returned the draft unhonored.

The wholesaler then wrote the postmaster about the financial standing of the merchant, and the postmaster laconically replied that it was O. K.

By return mail the wholesalers requested him to collect the account and they received the following reply:

"The undersigned is the merchant on whom you attempted to palm off your worthless goods. The undersigned is the owner and president of the bank to which you sent your draft. The undersigned is the postmaster to whom you wrote, and the undersigned is the lawyer whose services you sought to obtain for your nefarious business. If the undersigned were not also pastor of the church here, he would tell you to go to hell."

In a certain Sunday school on a Sunday afternoon one of the teachers became somewhat faint, and was placed upon a form while the usual restoratives were applied.

Suddenly a little girl stood up and persistently called "teacher—teacher" in order to attract the attention of one of those who were attending to the unfortunate invalid.

At last the little one was heard, and the teacher, turning round asked somewhat hastily: "Well—what is it?"

"Please teacher" replied the child, "my father makes coffins."

Lone Star dreamed that he died the other night and it was a hot dream too.

It woke me up in a sweat. I dreamed that I was standing at the entrance to the pearly gates, and old Pete came strutting along to meet me.

"How do do Pete" we greeted him. "How do do Lone Star" replied he. "Well come on—open the gate" we told him.

"No—your place is down below" he said.

"What—are you going to fire me out of heaven?" we asked him.

"Yep" replied Pete, "we haven't any furnace here."

the name Maibohm was first stamped on the sill of a fine carriage. Four years ago this seal, which, through the years had come to mean business integrity and uniform worth of product, made another impression—this time on a motor car. For over a quarter century Maibohm has stood for the exceptional—in design, skilled manufacture and universal value. Its motor car of today stands pre-eminent as the masterpiece of a successful business career.

Don't know just where some of the Klamath Falls female element got the idea that Lone Star was an information bureau, but they seem to have gotten it all right. We received a letter this morning from a lady in Mills Addition, asking us if we knew how to keep cheese from moulding. We told her to eat it.

Then another lady on Crescent Ave. wrote to us and asked us how to prevent the odor of cooking onions in the house. We told her to cook them in the barn.

A single young girl wrote to us yesterday too, and wanted to know if it would bring her hard luck to get married on her birthday. We told her yes—or any other day.

A girl wrote us also the other day, and said a man wanted to marry her, but he drank. And she wanted to know what she should do.

We told her to be thankful he drank—the sober ones generally get away.

Then we received a letter from Commodore Nozler stating that his hair was falling out, and asking us what was a good thing to keep hair in. We told him a cigar box.

Because of "the disgrace accorded Supt. E. C. Chadsey," the National Educational Association compelled the withdrawal of Chicago from the list of cities eligible for the 1921 convention. Mr. Chadsey was appointed superintendent of Chicago schools, giving up a good position to take the work. Then Chicago politicians got busy and ousted him out of his new place, and the teachers resent the action.

SEAL CENSUS TO BE TAKEN

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 3.—

Dallas Hanna, member of the staff of the California Academy of Sciences, has just left here for Alaska where he will make a census of the fur seals on the Pribilof Islands under direction of the United States bureau of fisheries.

Dr. Hanna has been connected with this work each year since 1913. In 1919 it was reported that there were 540,000 animals in the herd. In 1910 when the government first took over the operation of the island industry there were less than 200,000. During the time when this increase was taking place enough surplus and useless males have been killed and their skins sold at auction to provide the national treasury with $3,500,000 above all expenses, according to W. W. Sargent, secretary of the California Academy of Sciences.

The purpose of the census is chiefly to determine how many animals can be safely removed each year and still provide for a maximum percentage of increase of the herd. If the increase in 1920 continues as heretofore, it is said that there should be about 600,000 of these amphibious fur bearers, by far the largest herd in existence, as well as a surplus of about 30,000 males which can be killed for their skins. At current prices of these furs they will be valued at about $3,000,000.

"Since the cost of operation will be less than $200,000 it is quite evident that this industry is one of the best if not the best financial enterprise the government has," said Mr. Sargent, "and it is capable of almost unlimited expansion provided the females are protected at sea and the surplus males are removed from the herd. The fighting of such males on the crowded rookeries causes a large mortality among the females and young."

"The carcasses of the animals killed were formerly allowed to waste but last year a by-products plant was put into operation by means of which it is expected a very superior oil and animal meal will be placed on the market. The census which will be taken in 1920 will enable a close approximation to be made of the quantities of these products which will be available in the immediate future."

WEARS U. S. UNIFORM BUT HAS NEVER SEEN THE U. S.

PEKIN, China, July 2.—The only U. S. marine in the world who has never seen the United States is on duty at the American legation here. He is Private C. W. F. Childress, who was born of American parents in China. When he became of age a few weeks ago he decided to join the marines and enlisted at the legation.

Childress is a tall, good looking lad who can speak the Chinese language like a native. His services as an interpreter are especially valuable to the marines. Through association with his parents and other American residents of China he became thoroughly familiar with the traditions and customs of the United States. He is looking forward to the day when he will see the country whose flag he serves.
