MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush kidneys if back hurts or bladder bothers

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you get rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

CITIZENSHIP IS CHEAP IN LEVANT

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 24. (By Mail.)—Citizenship is a commercial commodity which is hawked about in the cities of the Levant with an indifference which makes Westerners wonder whether the mixed commercial populations of Near Eastern cities are capable of patriotism and devotion to any country.

An American business man in Constantinople who was recently employing some agents asked many applicants what their citizenship was. Without exception the men produced passports from most of the Balkan states and expressed a willingness to forego any citizenship which might be necessary and to change as circumstances might demand. When the American expressed surprise they reassured him it was very easy to get papers fixed up for a consideration. Most of the Levantines who had German and Austrian citizenship have very speedily taken Czechoslovak papers or say they have become Jugo-Slavs. It is just as easy for them to change their nationality as it is for the chameleon to change his colors.

Many Levantine firms have shuffled the citizenship of their members in such a manner as to have no difficulty in meeting any business emergencies which may arise, and make claims on the various consular and diplomatic representatives for assistance in their commercial operations. The fashion in citizenship changes in Constantinople and other Near Eastern ports just as the styles in hats. Greek citizenship has recently become popular because of the good treatment Greece had at the hands of the peace conference and the general belief that Great Britain is definitely behind Greek commercial interests and expects to do its business largely through Greek intermediaries.

CHEROKEE VETERAN FOUGHT IN 1812

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., July 6.—Cherokee Bill, veteran of the plains and soldier in the war of 1812, has just celebrated his 123rd birthday at the county home here.

Cherokee Bill is the only name he knows. In the early days of the country he fought with a bow and arrow with the aborigines and even used that primitive weapon, he says, when he fought the British in 1812, enlisting in the army when he was 15 years old. He was born June 6, 1797, and was twice listed in the United States census as the oldest native of America.

The aged Indian recently made a cap for himself out of the down of cat-tails and wears this proudly when he hobbles along the streets occasionally with the aid of a cane he has owned since the Civil war. He is getting feeble, though he still has a good appetite.

The English pound is no longer a "pound," having been "slipped" from time to time to meet financial exigencies.

POT POURRI

By LONE STAR

Lone Star blew into the barber shop yesterday, and as usual got in Harry Thrasher's chair. "What will you have today" asked Harry, "a hair cut?" "No" replied he, "I guess we will have them all cut."

Brother Parker of the dance pavilion and Lone Star were talking about where we would go to when we died. Lone Star happened to remark that whichever place he went to would be mighty lonesome. Parker couldn't understand that, and asked us why. We told him because there wasn't a blessed soul in hell, nor a damned soul in heaven.

Now don't go and get up in the air you good folks—that aint what we meant at all. Or rather you can take it any way you want to.

William F. Kay, the genial secretary of the Central Labor council, was trying to make a unionist out of the Lone Star last Sunday, and was having a heck of a time to convince the Star that money was the root of all evil. When Kay got to the end of his rope, which took quite a little while, we asked him what he thought about Rockefeller's money. "Why, it's tainted" replied Brother Kay. "It's tainted two ways." "Well how do you make that out?" we asked him. "Taint yours and taint mine" he replied as he wended his weary way up to his den over Sugarman's.

Kay told us not long ago that he could get drunk on water if he wanted to.

We asked him how he figured that out. "Well" replied Bro. K. "I don't see why a man can't get drunk on water as well as on land."

A tramp was hauled up before Al. Leavitt yesterday on a charge of picking pockets. Al. fined him $20, but when they searched him they found that he had only $16 in his pocket.

"Turn him loose on Main street till he gets the other four" said Al.

Jesse Turner was shaving a thin faced tramp not long ago, and put his finger into his mouth to push out the hollow of the tramp's cheek. The razor slipped and cut through the tramp's face. "Dam your lantern jaws" said Jesse "I've cut my finger."

What do you say if we change the great Commoner's name from William Jennings Bryan to William Chinnings Bryan.

Gray hair may be becoming—but not when it's becoming gray. A woman will tell you if it's her own.

A Democratic administration kept us out of war—then it kept us out of peace, and if we don't look out it will keep us out of prosperity too.

There's one good thing about the railroads going back to private ownership again anyhow—a fellow can speak his mind to the station agent without feeling that maybe he'll be criticized for showing lack of respect to a Government official.

Gus Krause was walking thro his box factory yesterday, and saw one of the cut-off machines idle, and asked the man on the next machine where Bill was.

An item of information comes to us which states that candles were used in England in the days of King Edgar.

Lone Star wonders what they used during the nights.

A lady friend of ours came up to us the other evening, and said:

"I need your advice. I have only $5.00 and I want to buy my cousin a wedding present. I want to buy her something that looks twice as much as it is."

"Well" we replied "in consideration of the high cost of living, I would buy her five dollars worth of rice, and boil it."

Father (upstairs)—It is time for that young man to go home.

Young man:—Your father is a crank.

Father (overhearing)—Well when you don't have a self-starter a crank comes in mighty handy.

We have saved the best one till last tonight. Here it is.

Brother Callahan, the general local boss of the Mc Fee was caught in the NET of the law last week, and fined for speeding. POOR FISH.

MILITARISM IS BLOCKED

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Official advices received here state that the Allied Military Control commission with Marshal Foch as its supreme directing head, ex-officio, constitutes now the keynote of allied relations with Germany. It is declared that so long as the commission continues to function, revival of German militarism is impossible.

According to these advices, the military control commission exceeds in importance even the reparations commission since former President Poincare resigned from the reparations body because the allies had decided to limit its authority and since the naval and air commissions have been relegated to positions of secondary importance.

The military control commission began to function as soon as the treaty of Versailles became effective.

Presided over by General Nollet of the French army with headquarters in Berlin and reporting to Marshal Foch, the commission, in addition to its supervision of German disarmament, has taken an active interest in the political-military developments in Germany. Reports of the recrudescence of Prussian militarism in east Prussia and Pomerania first emanated from reports of the commission to the supreme council.

A sub-committee of the Commission was sent into the Ruhr district for investigation under command of the French Major Graff and it was the report of this mission to official advices, which formed the basis for French contentions at San Remo of German duplicity.

The work of the commission is divided into two general subjects; effectives and armaments. The sub-committee devoted to the subject of effectives is concerned with the size and organization of the German army while the sub-committee on armaments is concerned chiefly with maintaining a proper reduction of stocks of guns and ammunition in Germany. No place in Germany is exempt from investigation by representatives of these committees as authority of the supreme council in the past has been invoked several times to obtain execution of the commission's demands.

The two sub-committees, in an effort to maintain strict police over political German militarism, have organized numerous agents into district sub-committees throughout Germany. Such district committees on effectives are presided over by French officers in Pomerania and Schleswig, east Prussia, Bavaria and Silesia; by British in Berlin and Saxony; by an Italian in Baden and Wurtenburg; and a Belgian in Westphalia and Hanover. Similarly, sub-committees on armaments have as their heads, French officers in Pomerania and Schleswig, Frankfurt, Hanover and Saxony; British, in east Prussia, Westphalia, Hanover, Cologne and Silesia; Italian, in Berlin and Bavaria; and Belgian in Baden and Wurtenburg.

The work of these committees consists chiefly in visiting garrisons, supply depots, military schools and training camps, in sending out agents to make inquiries incidentally, in keeping in touch with the political-military tide of affairs.

MINNESOTA CROPS GOOD

ST. PAUL, July 6.—Crops in Minnesota are reported in excellent condition, a recent survey by Minneapolis St. Paul newspapers declaring the grain crop "the best in years." In some sections small grains and potatoes have suffered from unusually heavy rains, but the generally favorable condition offset these minor losses. The potato crop was especially affected.
