♦ ♦ ♦

Ethel Clayton's new picture, "More Deadly Than the Male," is said to have all the earmarks of a grim melodrama until just before the finale when a few revelations turn it abruptly into a delightful comedy drama.

The central figure is a capable, high-spirited girl in love with a wealthy clubman who is used to searching in queer corners of the globe for excitement and adventure. When she urges him to settle down to useful occupation, he retorts that there are no thrills in modern civilization. Whereupon she sets out to prove him mistaken.

All sorts of hair-raising incidents in a mountain camp follow. The conservatory has been transformed into an African jungle, he fights a fatal duel with the girl's supposed husband, a dam bursts with nearly disastrous results, and finally there is a rip-snorting setto with the harbor police, at the end of which the harassed hero is brought to, informed of the real state of affairs, and agrees to stay close to the family fireside thereafter.

The story was adapted from a novelette appearing in a popular fiction magazine recently. "More Deadly Than the Male" will be the attraction at the Star Theatre tonight.

Miss Miranda Steele, 24 years old, has been employed for 27 years in the same mill in Claremont, N. J.

SAVINGS AND LOAN BRANCH PLANNED

D. W. C. Nelson, general agent of the Union Savings & Loan association of Portland, is in the city for the purpose of establishing a branch of the association here. He will be here for a week. He is seeking to interest local persons in the organization of the branch, headquarters requiring that at least 10 local investors take stock before the branch is formed in any community.

Mr. Nelson states that he is meeting with encouragement and will easily get the local stockholders. If the association is established a local man will be chosen for agent.

"This city's rapid growth makes it necessary, if it is to be a community where citizens own their own homes, that there be organizations of this kind to finance them. At the rate Klamath Falls is growing there is room here for a dozen savings and loan associations. They take care of a class of loans, small long term loans, that the banks are not always able, and never anxious, to handle. I have seen all of the local bankers and have received much encouragement from them regarding the entrance of the Union Savings & Loan association into Klamath Falls."

About 1/2 price. See ad on other page. Gertrude & Co. 6-7
