AT THE THEATERS

Playgoers who believe that the limit has been reached in photoplay realism are due for an awakening when they witness 'The Great Air Robbery,' the wonderful Universal feature starring Lieutenant O. L. Locklear, who changes from plane to plane in mid-air, which will be shown at the Liberty Theatre tomorrow.

The story of 'The Great Air Robbery' is not only up-to-the-minute, but a few years in advance for it concerns Larry Cassidy, crack pilot of the American trans-continental mail service, and his fearless, daredevil feats in bringing to an end the exploits of a band of air pirates and winning the girl he loves.

Wallie Mason, a young aviator in the U. S. Mail service, and a friend of Larry Cassidy, becomes enmeshed in the schemes of the air pirates, through his attempt to secure his Croix de Guerre, which he has sent to his sweetheart, but which falls into the hands of the leader of the Black Squadron, Larry Cassidy trying to save his friend from his own folly and also to protect the registered mail.

Aside from its amazing scenes 5,000 feet in mid-air, 'The Great Air Robbery' tells a dramatic story with a punch in every scene. The story was written and directed by Jacques Jaccard and assisting Lieut. Locklear are Francella Ripley, Carmen Phillips and several other screen favorites.

In the new World picture, 'You Never Know Your Luck,' some remarkable scenes showing the running of the English Derby, the premier event in the world of horse racing, are featured. Far and wide the Derby is known to people who are not the least bit interested in horse racing as a sport, as a great event. In the story Kerry, the hero, loses his fortune in gambling and takes a flyer on the Derby trusting to luck to help him get his money back.

Another unique scene in this production shows Brooks, in London, the most famous gentleman's gambling club in the world. Brooks is well known to every sportsman, and has figures in almost every book of fashionable life in England ever written.

'You Never Know Your Luck,' with House Peters in the stellar role, comes to the Liberty Theatre tonight.

CHICO, July 12.—Frank Silva and H. W. Conger of Sacramento have sold their 678-acre farm northeast of Briggs to C. P. Stone.

REMAINED SLAVE OF CUSTOM

Augusta Housewife was 'Set' in Her Ways, and Nothing Was Going to Change Her.

A man in an Augusta car seat talking to another man who appears to be his friend:

'Persistent! Say, my wife is that and some more. She is the most tenacious to habit of any person I ever saw. Once that woman has become addicted to a habit there's no breaking her. Honest, I think that if my wife should ever by accident start sweeping with the wrong end of a broom she'd never sweep any other way, and no law of heaven and earth could change her habit.'

'Some persistent, I'll say,' agreed the other. 'You bet,' said the first speaker. 'Why, here last summer I put a bay window on the front room of our house. There was a week while we were doing it that the whole end of the house was open as a bay field in August; there wasn't a single thing to prevent man or animal entering our house at any hour of daylight or darkness. Fact! But what do you think? I couldn't make my wife understand that it was, under those conditions, a waste of time to lock the doors. Every night and every time she went down street she made a complete circuit of the house, carefully locking doors and windows, so's to keep the wicked folks out.'

ETHEL'S MEMORY WAS GOOD

Sweet Child Remembered Only Too Well Remark That Her Mother Had Let Drop.

Cousin Robert from the country, had come to dinner, and little Ethel had been allowed to sit up as a great treat.

Now, Ethel is one of those children one meets nowadays who hear a great deal too much for their years, and moreover, who don't believe in the saying about children not being heard. You can't stay near dear little Ethel without hearing quite a lot.

Which all gets on with the story of the night when Cousin Robert came to supper.

'Do have another helping of the potato, Robert!' said Ethel's mother, after Robert had already caused two platefuls to disappear.

'Well, Cousin Mary, I think I will, since you are so pressing,' replied the guest.

'You win, mother!' exclaimed Ethel suddenly; and mother, caught napping, turned to her with a smile and asked:

'Win, dear?'

'Yes, I heard you say to father this morning that you bet a dollar that Cousin Robert behaved like a pig!'

Individual Airplanes

Whether or not the average citizen welcomes the idea of individual airplanes jaunting about in the air over his head, the inventors are busy enough trying to invent them. Several small planes are already more or less on the way to such use in England, Italy and France. One reads of planes already perfected, and that 'small and light, and capable of being landed at low speed, they are just the type for flitting about the country, from one club to another.'

Peanut Oil Gaining Favor

The production of peanut oil, including both the cold-pressed and the hot-pressed, in the United States has increased from 454,000 pounds in 1912 to 95,534,000 pounds in 1918, an increase of more than 21,000 per cent. The importation of peanut oil increased from 7,620,000 pounds in 1912 to 68,400,000 pounds in 1918. Practically all the imported peanut oil is hot-pressed. Complete statistics for 1919 are not yet available.

It is apparent, say specialists, that cold-pressed peanut oil is winning for itself a place on the American table. Justified by its flavor, nutritive value and digestibility.

Nothing There

Before the consolidation I held an agency for one of the old express companies. One day several patrons were in the office when the superintendent and two other officials of the company came in unexpectedly. A woman had just asked for a package, and evidently the unexpected visit of the officials flustered me, for, after looking over the on-hand register and not finding anything listed for her, I returned to the counter, took down the receiver from the telephone, and said: 'Hello, there is nothing here for you.' My customer was standing right near the telephone, and every one laughed.—Chicago Tribune.

TO PRISON FOR WITCHCRAFT

Canadian Authorities Revive Ancient Statute That Will Appear Absurd to Modern Understanding.

It has been a little more than 200 years since anyone was convicted of witchcraft on this continent, says the Columbus Dispatch, and we supposed that there would never again be any more convictions. But it seems that such prosecutions have been revived, for here comes a report from a Canadian court to the effect that a young woman over there has lately been sentenced to prison for 'practicing witchcraft' for all the world like the accusations that used to be filed against people in this country.

The young woman in this case claimed to be able to tell who committed a certain theft in her neighborhood. She said a farmer's oats had been stolen by a man and a boy; that they drove a bay mare, and proceeded westward after the robbery, and that they would be found at a certain place, about 40 miles away. The officers found her story to be true, and arrested the parties who robbed the farmer, but as the young woman who gave the information was in no position to know the facts she related except through communing with 'the spirits,' people began talking about her being a witch, with the result that an ancient statute was invoked and the girl prosecuted and sent to jail for her pains in aiding the officers of the law. If it were not all duly recorded in the newspapers we could not believe it.

'Rent Free' Houses

At Llewellyn, Pa., there are 60 empty houses, which for years have stood untenanted, a veritable deserted village in the beautiful valley of the West Branch of Chester creek. Even the war with its demands, failed to re-people the town. About a month ago some of the houses were rented and a Jitney line was established between the town and Chester. Still there remained 60 houses that were fast going into decay by reason of not being occupied. The owners conceived the idea of having 'the properties fixed up by giving them rent free to workmen who would repair them and take care of them. The only stipulations made in selecting tenants are that they be respectable and thrifty people who will take pride in maintaining and improving the houses and that they agree to make all repairs at their own expense.

Perfumed Petrol

Will motorists in the future perfume our streets with the scent of attar of roses instead of the evil-smelling mixture which offends our nostrils as they pass?

The question is suggested by the statement that a quarter of a million gallons of motor spirit can be produced in the Hyderabad state of India by distilling the flowers of the mowra tree.

Mowra flowers are very rich in sugar, and a ton of the dried flowers produces as much as 90 gallons of 95 per cent pure spirit. They have long been in use for the preparation of a native alcoholic liquor; but only a small proportion of the trees available is needed for this purpose.

Resourceful Prevaricator

A Lancashire man, who was afraid of his wife, arranged to go to the races with some friends, and explained to her that he was going fishing. On his way he called at a fish shop and asked the proprietor to send some fish home. Fish was very scarce that day, and a lot of cods' heads were delivered. When hubby returned home, after an enjoyable time, he said to his wife: 'Well, lass, did you get the fish I sent you?' 'I got a lot of cods' heads,' was her reply.

'Quite right,' was the retort. 'You never saw such fish in your life as we had to tackle today. Before you could land 'em, you had to pull their blooming heads off!'—London Answers.

EXPLAINS ORIGIN OF 'JAZZ'

At Last the Secret (?) is Given to the World, and by an Englishman, Too.

Writing about the jazz reminds me that the subject is of such importance that a long telegram was recently sent from London concerning the origin of the word. According to the telegram, the secret is out, and it is an Englishman who gives us the valuable information.

He tells us that, while Englishmen should not be held responsible for the vernacular of their brethren in the Western continent, the word jazz, he admits, is now as much a household word in England as in America. And then he goes on to say that the word came from the South and from the negroes. Now in the South, he tells us, there is a term known as the hookworm, which affects all true southerners. Some unkind employers call it 'hookeritis.' The white employer, according to the erudite Englishman, in the South has many thousands of negroes working for him, and consequently many overseers. So, not being able to remember the names of all his foremen, he generally names each man 'Jasper,' which, according to this Englishman, is a term of the highest esteem. Through the very human love of abbreviation, Jasper became 'Jas,' and as the overseer's principal means of getting work out of his underlings is through harsh and abusive tongue, he was often requested to 'jazz up' the work. The Southern drawl makes 'Jazz' sound like 'Jazz.' And there we have the word itself. And jazz music, no matter what classic-loving critics may say about it, at least inspires energy. Hence the derivation. —Medical America.
