SUMMONS FOR PUBLICATION
No. 1185 Equity

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Klamath County.
Fred L. Gordon, Plaintiff, vs. Daniel L. Gordon and Nellie Gordon, husband and wife, C. N. Gordon and Lucy I. Gordon, husband and wife, Rebecca Jane Gordon-Pratt, widow, Laura Sherman-Hess, and A. H. Hess, wife and husband, Sykes Hamaker and Ethel Hamaker, husband and wife, George Sherman and Leonard Sherman, husband and wife, Leonard Sherman and Fannie Sherman, husband and wife, heirs at law of Sarah A. Gordon, deceased; and the Unknown Heirs at Law of Sarah A. Gordon, deceased. Defendants.

In the name of the State of Oregon: To Daniel L. Gordon, Nellie Gordon, C. N. Gordon, Lucy I. Gordon, Rebecca Jane Gordon-Pratt, Laura Sherman-Hess, A. H. Hess, George Sherman and Leonard Sherman, his wife, Leonard Sherman, and Fannie Sherman; and to the unknown heirs at law of Sarah A. Gordon, deceased: You and each of you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit, on or before July 30, 1932, that being the last day of the time prescribed in the order for publication of this summons. And if you fail so to answer or appear, or want thereof, the plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief prayed for in his complaint on file herein, to-wit:

First. That the defendants and each and all of them be required to set forth the nature of their respective claims to the hereinafter described property and each and all of their said claims, if any they have, and that all adverse claims of the defendants, and each of them, be determined by a decree of this Court.

Second. That by a decree of this Court it be adjudged and determined that the defendants and each and all of them have no right, title, interest, or estate in and to the said premises or any part or parcel of said premises adverse to the title of plaintiff herein, and that the plaintiff be decreed to have a good and valid title in and to said described real property, to-wit:

Lot Five (5) in Block Thirty-nine (39) of the City of Klamath Falls (formerly Linkville), Klamath County, State of Oregon, according to the duly recorded plat thereof; and that plaintiff have good and valid title in and to said premises as against the said named and unnamed defendants and each and all of them.

Third. That by a decree of this Court it be adjudged and determined that the defendants and each and all of them be forever enjoined and barred from in any manner asserting any claim or claims whatsoever in or to the said premises hereinafter described, or in or to any part or portion thereof, adverse to the plaintiff, and for such other and further relief as to this Court may seem meet and equitable, and for his costs and disbursements herein.

This summons is served by publication thereof, in the Evening Herald, a daily newspaper, printed, published and of general circulation in Klamath County, Oregon, by order of Honorable D. V. Kuykendall, Judge of the above entitled court, made and filed June 11th, 1932, which said order requires that this summons be published at least once a week for six consecutive weeks, beginning on the 12th day of June, 1932.

AMERICANS WANT
CLUB, BUENOS AIRES

BUENOS AIRES, June 25.—The American Club here of nearly 300 members is trying to lease or buy a home in order to fulfill a long felt want for an American social center in the Argentine capital. There are a number of English clubs to which some Americans belong, but there is no place where Americans can get together and "talk freely" as one of the promoters put it.

The Board of Governors point out that if it is to be a real American Club it must be "the best," which means a good deal in this city of fashionable clubs, among them a luxurious German club. The organization has a "nest egg" of $20,000 to begin with.

It is proposed to admit women to privileges and make the club a center of all American patriotic activities. The American Club at present holds a weekly luncheon at a hotel when the members listen to addresses by prominent visitors or Argentines.

USED BY ANCIENT PHYSICIAN

Græco-Roman Medical and Surgical Instruments of Bronze Now in Johns Hopkins University.

William H. Barker, who served on the staff of the American embassy in London during the war, has presented to the Archeologist museum of Johns Hopkins university, of which he was a former trustee, a set of ancient Græco-Roman medical and surgical instruments found two years ago near Kolophon, in Asia Minor.

The collection was on exhibition in London and was formerly in the possession of the late Alfred O. Van Lennep, Dutch vice consul in Smyrna, who owned a large estate near Kolophon and was well acquainted with the excavations and discoveries in that vicinity.

The instruments, 36 in number, are all of bronze, with but one exception. They were probably the property of some Roman physician living in Asia Minor in the first or second century A. D., and the fact that they were all found in one place is doubtless explained, in the opinion of experts, by the ancient custom of burying a person's worldly possessions with him.

The set includes surgical knives and elevators, forceps, tennacula (sharp hooks), a unique drill bow, for use in injuries and diseases of the skull, scoops, probes and a cautery.

The drill bow is, from the point of view of the archeologist, perhaps the most interesting object. It is like a tool used by carpenters.

SHEPHERD BECAME A PRINCE

Emir Feisal of Arabia Seemed an Almost Negligible Object in His Early Life.

Emir Feisal of Arabia began life as a dirty little shepherd boy. His mother was an Arabian girl of Mecca and a cousin of his father. When Feisal was still a baby Sherief Hussein sent him into the desert to live with a Bedouin tribe, because it is considered more wholesome for a boy to grow up in the open desert country than in a city or village. In Constantinople Feisal contracted consumption, writes Lowell Thomas in Asia, but since then the desert has taken it out of him, although he is still very thin and has a waist only 21 inches in circumference. He smokes cigarettes day and night and eats sparingly. Among the tribes he is celebrated as an unusually fine shot and a good horseman and camel rider. Feisal is enlightened and thoroughly modern in his views. His people follow him, not through fear, but because they love him. He is much too kind and liberal-minded to rule as an oriental despot of the old school and he may be depended upon to usher in an entirely new order of things for his people.

Wouldn't Wash.

Chatting with Sir Ernest Shackleton, the famous antarctic explorer, he told me that one of the best stories he has heard concerns a famous artist.

He was showing a lady visitor over his studio one day and produced a charming little landscape, indicating that there was a story behind it. "I was out in the forest," he explained. "I had all my materials with me except an empty canvas. I came upon a subject that enchanted me, and felt I must record it. I was determined not to be baffled, so I took out my handkerchief, stretched it across my easel, and painted on that." The lady looked at the handkerchief and then turned a shocked face to the artist. "You'll never be able to wash that paint out," she said.—London Tit-Bits.

Encourage the Swallow.

If you want to free the neighborhood of mosquitoes encourage swallows to make themselves at home, says the American Forestry association of Washington. These birds feed almost entirely upon obnoxious insects and they will do much toward protecting orchards and other trees from insect pests. No better investment can be made, therefore, than some houses set out for martins and other swallows. Of the blue swallows the purple martin is the largest, the male being entirely blue above and below, while the female is blue above with a gray breast. Swallows are highly migratory, most of them spending the winter in South America.

Scientific Triumph.

Students of the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh placed a radio transmitter in Central hall to send out the music of an orchestra playing in the hall to scores of radio students in the district listening in. Professor Rath, hearing the music in the experiment station of the university, half a mile away, succeeded by the use of a magnavox—an instrument to increase the sound from a radio receiver—and two strings of electric wires, in passing it on a half-mile to the Helms house, where students danced to it.

The Press Agent's Work.

The old-time press agent is now known as a "publicity expert" and his business has greatly developed in recent years. Outside of the regular theatrical press agents, every American city has a small army of men who find lucrative employment in giving publicity to financial and industrial enterprises, philanthropic and educational institutions, hotels and restaurants, and a wide variety of other things that depend for their success upon the patronage of the public.

Concerning Reading.

It was said of Edmund Burke, who was a great reader and a great thinker also, that he read every book as if he were never to see it a second time, and thus made it his own, a possession for life. Were his example limited, much time would be saved that is spent in recalling things half remembered, and in taking up the stitches of lost thoughts. A greater loss than that of time would be avoided—the loss of the dignity and power which are possessed by him who keeps his mind tense, active, and wakeful. It is very common to give the rule thus: "Whatever is worth reading at all is worth reading well." If by "well" is intended with the utmost stretch of attention, it is not literally true; for here are books which serve for pastime and amusement, books which can be run through.—From "Books and Reading," by Nona Porter.

Tattooing Made an Art.

Tattooing is an art so old that its origin is lost to historical records having been practiced when the cavemen went out to club their fellows in the Marquesas Islands, the most distant and most mysterious of South sea archipelagos, tattooing reached its highest development, and there it was the most beautiful form of art known.

For a man in the Marquesas to lack the tattooed Stars of Terror upon his face, and to have a bare countenance, was to be a pariah and despised by the tribe. Frederick O'Brien says in the Century Magazine that to achieve a fairly complete picture on one's body meant many months of intense suffering and the expenditure of much wealth.

Another Crafty Fox.

A reader of the Companion tells us the following story of a clever American fox to match a recently published anecdote of a clever English fox. On a November day, he says, a neighbor of his saw a flock of ducks on the opposite side of a small creek that runs into Shinnecock bay.

While trying to get nearer to the ducks, meaning while keeping himself well hidden and watching them very cautiously through the grass, he was amazed to see a fox that had waded out about forty feet from shore. It was attracting the ducks by gently waving its tail. In a few minutes it would unquestionably have caught a duck had the man not shot it.—Youth's Companion.

Optimism.

Old Lute Lathers is a great fellow to look on the bright side of things, said a gaunt Missourian, whom the Forecaster notes. He was riding to a town on a load of hay the other day when the roads were so muddy that one wheel dropped into a chuck hole. The hay stuck, and Lute rolled off and landed on his head in a deep puddle. "Well, sir," said he, when they had dragged him out, "there's a real road does. If that had been a hard surfaced road, it would have plumb broke my neck."—Youth's Companion.

Rush-Pith Lens Cleaner.

Almost any ordinary medium that can be used is likely to smear and even scratch a lens in the cleaning. A very perfect lens cleaner can be made by using the medulla or pith of such plants as sunflower, rush or elder, says the Scientific American. Strips of the dry pith are cut and these are fastened with an adhesive to a piece of cork. The pith may be arranged in rows with small spaces in between. The lens is rubbed gently with the novel cleaner and all marks disappear.

Mexico's Fashionable Drive.

The parade ground of Mexico City is the Avenida de San Francisco. This short street extends from the Mexican White House to the Alameda and is only about 24 feet from curb to curb. Here, at the approach of twilight, every smart equipage in the capital comes. Down the one side of the street and up the other side moves a procession at a slow walk, while everybody looks at everybody else.

ATTORNEY SWORN IN MYSTERIOUS PAINS
BY BUDDHIST FAITH AND ACHES

Make Life Hard to Bear For Many Klamath Falls Women.

BUENOS AIRES, June 12. (By Mail.)—Permission to swear by Buddha instead of God and the Holy Apostles was granted by the Superior Court of Cordoba the other day to a young law student of agnostic belief when he took oath of membership in the Argentine bar. He sought first to take the oath "by my country and my honor," but the court informed him that he would be obliged to take a "religious oath."

The student, it is related, thereupon went to a library and began a profound study of the world's religions, on which he spent several days. He then returned to the court and informed the learned judges he had found that the Buddhist religion was "the most moral and most complete" and asked permission to take oath upon it. The judges consulted musty tomes of Argentine law and decided there was nothing to exclude him from taking such an oath.

Too many women mistake their pains and aches for troubles peculiar to the sex. More often disordered kidneys are causing the aching back, dizzy spells, headaches and irregular menstruation. Kidney weakness becomes dangerous if neglected. Use a time-tested kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills. Posts of people testify to their merit. Read a Klamath Falls case: Mrs. Lee Cornish, 1429 Oregon Ave., says: "My kidneys were out of order about a year ago and I suffered a lot with dull, nagging backaches. My work tired me and I had frequent dizzy headaches. My kidneys didn't act right and I knew they were the cause of the trouble. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and used them as directed. Two boxes relieved me of the aches and pains and put my kidneys in good order."
