PAPER PULP SUPPLY

The national forests of Alaska contain 100,000,000 cords of timber suitable for the manufacture of paper, according to estimates made by the forest service. Under careful management these forests can produce 2,000,000 cords of pulpwood annually for all time, or enough to manufacture one-third of the pulp products now consumed in the United States.

POT POURRI

By LONE STAR

Someone asked Doc Powell the other day why he didn't settle down and take a wife. Doc said he would but that he didn't know whose wife to take.

Do you know that there are two kinds of people that make foolish marriages—well there are. Who are they? Why men and women, of course.

A good story is told on the Rev. Trimble, the genial, affable and broad-minded pastor of the Christian church here.

Brother Trimble is always ready to lend a helping hand to one in need, and as he was passing along Pine street not very long ago, he saw a small boy trying to reach up to a doorbell.

"Here, my little man" said Trimble "let me ring that door-bell for you."

"All right—if you will be so kind" said the kid with a grin all over his face.

Trimble rang the bell.

"Now run like the devil, mister," said the kid as he took to his heels.

Another one on Trimble: He received a call some time ago to another pastorate, and on arriving at the new charge, noticed a sign in front of his new house, which read—"PASTORIUM."

Trimble looked at the sign in alarm.

"Before I preach a word to this congregation," said he "that sign comes down. It sounds too much like PANTATORIUM."

The sign came down and Trimble preached.

Patrick O'Toole was up before the court the other day for stealing Mrs. O'Hoolihan's pig.

"Patrick, did you shtale that widdler's pig?" asked the bench, "and if you did, phwat did ye do wid it?"

"Killed it and ate it yer honner." "Oh, Patrick, phwen ye are brought face to face wid that widdler and her pig on the judgment day phwat account will ye be able to give of yerself phwen she accuses ye of shtaling her pig?"

"Did ye say the pig would be there too?" asked Pat.

"To be sure Oi did."

"Well, then I'll say 'Mrs. O'Hoolihan there's yer pig.'"

Lone Star was attending the Methodist church last Sunday and in the seat ahead of him was a bald headed old codger who kept scratching the fringe of hair on one side of his head.

This he kept up for about half an hour till Lone Star could stand it no longer.

So he leaned over, and, tapping the old fellow on the shoulder, said: "You'll never catch him there pardner: why don't you run him out into the open?"

All sorts and kinds of humans (?) meet at the boarding house table. In a local place the other day one of those fresh sort of birds blew in. You know the kind I mean. The sort that wears peg-top pants, smokes cigarettes and fixes his hair pompadour style. This dandy sat down at the same table as Fred Westerfeld, and, in a loud voice explained "pass the COW up this way please."

Doc Westerfeld looked at him a moment, and then in that dry way of his said, "Walter take this cow down to where the CALF is bleating."

Lone Star has a habit of getting into arguments and on one occasion not long ago got into a mix-up with Rev. Chaney. The question at issue was whether Bunyon wrote the Pilgrim's Progress. Chaney swore up and down that he did while the Lone Star was just as emphatic in his statements that he did not.

"Well—what makes you think that he didn't?" asked Brother Chaney.

"Because" replied the Lone Star "it is impossible for a BUNION to contribute to ANY pilgrim's progress."

Someone asked Lee Merritt the other day if his new baby had begun to talk yet.

"No" replied Merritt. "he don't need to talk. All he has to do is let out a yell and he gets everything in the house anyhow."

"Sweets to the sweet" the poet said. Poet and verse alike are dead. For sugar's moved so high these days.

"Sweets to the wealthy" is the phrase.

Did you ever stop to think what would happen if a profiteer were to accidentally sneak into heaven? We're afraid it would be "Good-bye" to those streets of gold.

Lone Star's landlord came to him the other day and said:

"Mr. So-and-So, I'm going to raise the rent this month."

"Good" I told him, "I'm glad you are: I can't raise it."

Poor Lot's wife turned to salt, alas. Her fate was most unkind.

No doubt she only wished to see How hung her skirt behind.

Mickey: didn't Oi tell ye to feed that cat a pound o' mate a day until she was fat? She's nothing but a skeleton. Shure Oi think it's a'lyin to me that ye are whin ye say that ye fid her. Bring me the scales and the cat."

(The cat turns the scales at exactly one pound.)

"There—didn't Oi tell ye that she had aten a pound o' mate this mornin'?"

"All right me bhoy: There's yer pound of mate, but where the divlie's the cat."

If silence gives consent, my dear.

When next to call I come,

'Twould give me true delight to hear That you were deaf and dumb.

We take pleasure in announcing that the two latest suspects of being the Lone Star, are:—Fred Fleet and Wm. F. Kay. Both are very competent men we admit—but not the Lone Star.

STRAW BALLOT OF CLERGY FOR HARDING

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, July 20.—A straw vote of the delegates to the synod of Oregon on the coming presidential election, showed that the Presbyterian clergy are strongly in favor of the Republican nominee. Harding received 32 votes out of the 44 cast. In spite of arguments to the effect that Cox was a "wet," the Democratic nominee received nine votes. Reverend W. H. Nugent, of Portland, who engineered the election, neglected to mention the third party candidate, Christensen, but proposed the name of Debs, with the result that the Socialist candidate received three votes.

The purchaser is the former county superintendent of schools in this county, who is now superintendent of the Klamath Falls schools. Mr. Wells made the purchase as an investment and for a future home. Medford Mail-Tribune.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

DRUGGIST SAYS LADIES ARE USING RECIPE OF SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmothers made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture, improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.
