WHEAT GROWERS RECEIVE CARS

TOPEKA, Kan., July 31.—An increase in the number of cars made available for the shipment of wheat to market is affording some relief to Kansas farmers in the problem of marketing their grain, according to state officials and bankers interested in the wheat movement.

Although there are not yet enough cars to move all the wheat, and many cars promised by the interstate commerce commission have not arrived, and railroad officials are unable to give any definite assurance as to when they will arrive, the car shortage is not so desperate now as it has been in past years.

Officials of the state board of agriculture estimate that there are still stored on Kansas farms 22,000,000 bushels of last year's wheat crop, and an additional 8,000,000 bushels of last year's wheat in Kansas elevators. A perceptible movement of this "hold-over crop" is now reported by the state board of agriculture.

There remains, however, the vastly greater problem of moving this year's wheat crop, variously estimated at 110,000,000 to 135,000,000 bushels to the great milling and export centers.

Bankers are vitally concerned in the wheat movement problem. According to J. R. Anspaugh, secretary of the Kansas State Bankers' association, bankers have $45,000,000 tied up in loans on crops which await marketing. Many of these loans are long over-due and the prospects are that the amount involved in crop loans will easily reach $100,000,000 with the ripening of the present wheat crop.

Some relief has been obtained, Mr. Anspaugh said, from the recent announcement of the federal reserve board that it favored extension of crop loans, and the fact that federal reserve banks had been authorized to accept wheat paper from member banks or from other banks through correspondents.

Railroad officials have warned farmers of their inability to move the new wheat crop promptly and urged them to make arrangements to hold it on farms properly stacked or in bins.

FORMER WEALTHY CITIZENS IN NEED

BERLIN, July 12. (By Mail).—How the erstwhile well-to-do live in present day Germany is described in the Allgemeine Zeitung by an elderly high state functionary, a married man with a family, who says that although he belongs to the upper 20,000 in Prussia, according to the income tax schedule, his style of living is reduced to that of a plain laborer.

"I own a fine mansion in a fashionable Berlin suburb," he writes, "but we have been obliged to let four rooms, furnished, and will have to restrict our own apartments still further."

"Before the war, we breakfasted on eggs and bacon, white bread and butter, and tea with cream and sugar; now we have to content ourselves with thin gruel, black bread, no butter or sugar, and the nondescript 'official' jam."

"Only once or twice a week does meat appear on the dinner table; never a joint. Wine has been abolished. Supper consists of porridge, herrings or cheese. Before the war, the family used seven pints of milk daily; now a quarter of a pint is the allowance."

"Clothes are worn threadbare; my son mends my shoes and my daughter cuts my hair."

"Letter writing has become too expensive. I tear off unused half sheets of letters received and use old envelopes, inside out. Baths are cut down to one-half."

"We can no longer afford to entertain company to meals; we meet our friends after supper."

The present lean times, the writer confesses, have not impaired his health very much, although he says he has become "somewhat spare in body."

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify, and freshen the entire alimentary tract before eating more food.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is sign you have been eating too much meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have a backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad-Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad-Salts is a life-saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

CALLS U'REN'S PLAN FREAKISH AND FANTASTIC

(From the Oregon Voter.)
Probably no more fantastic governmental structure ever was evolved by human brain, outside of Russia, than that now submitted formally by W. S. U'Ren, father of the Oregon system of government; Otto R. Hartwig, President of the State Federation of Labor; C. H. Chapman, former President of the University of Oregon, former editorial writer on both the Oregonian and Journal and now editor of a Non-partisan League paper in Idaho; George M. O'Fon, a Portland politician; O. D. Teel, the big irrigation pioneer of western Yamhill county and father of the Teel irrigation project; D. E. Nickerson, Arthur Brock and W. E. Kinsey.

The basic idea of the new U'Ren freak is for a legislature that is representative of all business and professional occupations, and that is practically surmountable over the executive branch of State government.

Insofar as it seeks to confine voting power to people engaged in occupations (including housewives and personal servants), it supplies recognition of the fact that every hobo, leech, lazy rich and parasite loafer should not have a vote. Thus a distinct step in progress is proposed by these reformers.

The U'Ren freak plan also includes the idea of a seven-year legislature, which may be dissolved, it is true, by the Governor or by The People, but which nevertheless has the seven-year term. This is a return by the reformers to the older idea that legislative terms should be long instead of short. The tendency for many decades among reformers has been either toward abolition of the legislature or reduction of its term and powers. The U'Ren plan evidently recognizes the merit in the older idea that reformers have fought—viz: that longer tenure in office tends to impart a stability that is of advantage to the public.

Another concession from the reformers is in the matter of salaries and mileage for the legislators. The great complaint for years has been against paying 10 cents a mile to get legislators to and from the State Capitol, and against paying them any more than $3 a day while they were there, and with the $3 a day limited to forty days of a regular session. The U'Ren plan proposes the full 10 cents a mile, a salary of $500 a year for all legislative members and certain special fees as high as $7 a day while as candidates they are engaged in canvassing election returns.

The other idea—the big idea—is that the lawyers run the government of Oregon. More truth than poetry in it, for half the State Senate are lawyers and nearly a third of the Lower House. And as the U'Ren manifesto correctly implies, some of these lawyers are servants of private and special interests, whose welfare they have ever in mind while they are legislating. It is common knowledge among those who haunt legislative lobbies that the modern correct manner of influencing legislation is to have a corporate friend retain an attorney who is a member. Of course he is not retained on any matter that relates to his duties or vote as a legislator, but is retained on something outside of these duties. Once retained, he is amenable to reason on a legislative issue—that is if he was retained in time.

This discussion of the predominance of the lawyers in our present Legislature invites examination into the makeup of the U'Ren freak legislature. It would be a one-house body, of 100 members. These members would be elected by the different occupations of the State, and would have to be actual members of the occupation which elected them. All citizens engaged in occupations would be required to register under those occupations, and none could vote for any legislator who was not a member of his own occupation.

By taking the 1910 census as a basis, the U'Ren committee has figured out that a legislature would be constituted somewhat as follows:

Farmers	14
Farm housewives	14
Farm laborers	5
Tenant workers	3
Merchants	4
Manufacturers	2
Railroad and other transportation workers	7
Male clerks and salesmen	3
Loggers and sawmill workers	5
Professional men—lawyers, capitalists, doctors, bankers, priests and editors	3
Town-dwelling housewives	20
Women factory workers	2
