

In the soft shadings and delicate tracings of a fine rug lies its call for admiration. The maintenance of these charms is an important function of The Hoover. Rapidly its electric sweeping reveals anew the colorings dimmed by soot, and brushes straight any nap disarranged by heels. At the same time it beats out all destructive embedded grit, collects stubborn, clinging litter and thoroughly suction cleans. Only The Hoover does all this. And it is the largest selling electric cleaner in the world.

SALESWOMEN TAKE ADVANCED COURSE

The Golden Rule has sent its corsetiers, Miss Anna Metcalf and Miss Myrtle Griffin, to attend the Gossard school of corsetry at San Francisco. They have been there all during the past week and are expected to return very shortly.

This school is an innovation in that it accepts only saleswomen who have had practical experience and who are ready to take post graduate work. This corresponds to a physician or a lawyer attending a university to get his degree.

Specialized service has taken on an added importance in the modern retail store and the Golden Rule has adopted this advanced merchandising idea in every department. Realizing the important relation correct corsetry bears to the health and efficiency of women, the corset department is receiving special attention.

The Gossard school of corsetry is acknowledged to be the oldest and foremost institute of its kind in the United States and its graduates are accepted as expert authorities on modern hygienic corsetry.
