ANCIENT LAND

PATENTS ON FILE

MISSOULA, Mont., August 2.—Grants of land bearing dates running back to between 1793 and 1840 are described in documents presented to the library of the University of Montana by Mrs. Mannett Rodd of this city, who received them from her ancestors, to whom some of the grants were made.

They cover land along the Ohio river and were made by the state of Virginia. Several of them are signed by Patrick Henry.

After November 2 next there will be an Ohioan who will be Governor and President-elect of one who will be United States Senator and President-elect. This recalls the fact that forty years ago another distinguished son of the Buckeye state, James A. Garfield, was a Representative in Congress, a United States Senator-elect, and President-elect, all at the same time.

POT POURRI

(By LONE STAR)

A friend who is not in need is a friend indeed.

William Chinnings Brine says that John Barleycorn is in his coffin. Well, Lone Star won't dispute that but there seems to be a leak in the coffin.

We never object to being forced to sit back in the gallery at the movies. The best love scenes are not always shown on the screen.

Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow there will be another raise in the cost of love—look out there Lone Star—you mean living.

A million rays of sunlight,
Resplendent on the green;
A million tiny blossoms,
Like minted gold in sheen;
A very pretty picture
For the artistic eye—
Yet none the less I must confess
I'd gladly pass it by.

My taste for things aesthetic
Beyond my daily task
Is quite as well developed
As anyone might ask.
But though I cherish greatly
The beautiful and fine,
In every case there is a place
Where one must draw the line.

For like a conquering army
Across my lawn they sweep;
Their golden-crested heads held high,
Their proud feet planted deep.
The do not pause for argument;
They will not brook delay;
With haughty tread they march
Ahead,
And when they come they stay.

And vain is all endeavor
To stem their swift advance;
No matter how I labor
I never stand a chance.
I dig them with a chisel,
I dig them with a rake;
I stoop and bend, world without end
Till my muscles ache.

I squirt some coal-oil at their roots,
I fill the holes with clover,
At last, I say with prayerful thanks
"My troubles are all over."
When lo, from off my neighbor's lawn,
Where undisturbed they reign,
New regiments are quickly sent
To capture mine again!

TRAVEL IN FAR EAST CONGESTED

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 12. (By Mail.)—Travel in the Levant has become so difficult that hotels in nearly all the larger cities are crowded with persons waiting for steamer and railway accommodations. Strikes in Bulgaria, Serbia and Italy, together with the lack of through trains and the impossibility of getting checked baggage through because of theft, have forced travelers to rely chiefly on steamers to French ports. The steamer lines have also been badly disorganized by labor troubles and most ships are many days behind their schedules.

Although the United States Shipping Board has many ships into Constantinople and the other large Near Eastern ports, it has no regular passenger sailings and women are not permitted to travel on most Shipping Board boats unless they are in government service. Consequently Americans have great difficulty in getting through sailing to America. Major E. E. Booth, who was formerly with the Shipping Board in Paris, has been transferred to Constantinople as director of shipping board affairs in the Near East and is endeavoring to get changes effected which will make travel easier to and from America.

F. C. Tobey, representing the Harriman Line, which is about to establish sailings to the Black Sea, was in Constantinople recently and said it is likely that line will establish monthly passenger sailings from New York to the Levant.

In the election of 1906 eight national tickets were submitted to the voters—Republican, Democrat, Prohibitionist, Social Democrat, Populist, Socialist-Labor, Union Reform and United Christian.

EXILE CEASES TO BE OF INTEREST

DOORN, Holland, July 11. (By Mail.)—Doorn has already begun to display the same lack of interest about the former Emperor William or his doings as was displayed at Amerongen.

Only the village busybodies, who like to gossip about everything, speak of him at all, and they, try to make mysteries of everything they hear, whispering the stories which, usually, are children of their own fancy.

This makes it doubly hard for anyone to find out what really is going on, and at the same time accounts for the numerous rumors that come from Doorn now and then. William's immediate staff is so close-mouthed that few real facts slip out, and the few gossips so prolific, on the other hand, that almost anything might be true, or anything false.

The Dutch police, who guard the House of Doorn and all of its approaches, are very zealous and nearly every foreigner who dares to approach the gates, is either arrested or sharply questioned.

An odd way of testing carpet to see if it is a true Persian product is in vogue in Persia. A piece of red-hot charcoal is dropped upon it, which leaves a round singed spot. If the carpet is of the first quality the singed wool can be brushed off with the hand without leaving a trace of the burn discernible.

Almost everyone makes mistakes for which some satisfactory explanation can be made, but the road-maker must always make good. No excuse is valid for a road's shortcomings; so, when a road is to be improved, tests, past experience and merit will dictate that it should be paved with
