

ACCIDENTAL DEATH SAYS DORIN JURY

Similarity of pronunciation of "Lyko" a patent medicine preparation, containing about one-fourth alcohol, and lysol, the deadly disinfectant, is believed to have resulted in the death of Jack Dorin, aged 40, Canadian overseas veteran, who for the past year and a half has been employed off and on in various logging camps in this section.

Testimony at the inquest conducted yesterday afternoon by Justice Chapman, acting coroner, showed that Fred Rodgers, companion and friend of Dorin, bought the lysol a few minutes before the tragedy at the Square Deal Drug Store. He had walked downtown with Dorin and both, he said, felt the need of a brace after consuming a quart of whiskey the night before.

Rodgers was commissioned to buy something to fix the pair up. "Get Jamaica ginger if you can. If not get Lyko," he said Dorin told him. He went to the drug store. He doesn't remember buying any boric acid for an eye wash, but Will Wood, one of the owners of the store, says he sold him some, and Mrs. Rae of the Crater cafe, said he brought boric acid to the place. Then Rodgers asked for Jamaica ginger and the salesman told him there was none in the store, having sized up Rodgers and desiring to comply with the law against the sale of preparations containing alcohol to persons who are likely to use them for beverage purposes.

Then Rodgers says he asked for Lyko. Throughout the conversation had been about Rodgers' eyes. He had a wound over his right eye and the druggist testified that he believed he asked for lysol to use as a disinfectant wash for the wound. He wrapped up a bottle of lysol and Rodgers paid and took it away.

He carried it back to the Crater cafe where he joined Dorin. "What have you?" asked Dorin. "Lyko," said Rodgers. Without removing the wrapping paper, Dorin removed the top wrapper, pulled the cork and gulped a swallow of the liquid.

About this time J. Baughman, another logger dropped in. He says the carbolic acid odor of the lysol was plain. "What are you fellows drinking?" he asked. "Lyko, have some," was the rejoinder.

"You're drinking poison," he says he told them as he ripped the wrapping from the bottle and revealed the skull and crossbones. He called Mrs. O. E. Rae, proprietor of the restaurant, and they plied Dorin with olive oil and salt and water. He went back to the lavatory. He thought Rodgers had taken some of the lysol, the latter having placed the deadly bottle to his lips.

"Goodbye, old pard," he said, grasping his friend's hands. "We're done for. We'll go over the hill to-

WARSAW ON POINT OF CAPITULATION

PARIS, Aug. 4.—Polish, British and French military experts at Warsaw telegraphed here last night, stating that Warsaw must be evacuated within two or three days. The government probably will move to Cracow. Polish experts report the Polish army along the Bug river, which is Warsaw's last line of defense, has retreated so precipitately that they did not destroy the bridges behind them.

The Polish forces are reported demoralized along the whole northern central front and are falling back. Bolshevik cavalry are playing an important part.

TO STOP W. U. CABLE LANDING

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—It is understood that President Wilson has issued orders to both the army and navy departments not to permit the Western Union to land an American cable line from the Barbadoes until permission is obtained from the state department. Construction work on the Barbadoes end is already started. The cable would land at Miami, Florida, and establish direct communication with South America, eliminating the existing relay from the Barbadoes station which is in British territory. Complaints of unnecessary delay at Barbadoes is said to be the reason for the cable construction. Application for permission to land the cable was made to the state department some time ago but was not acted upon.

BRANDS TALES AS ABSURD RUMORS

C. F. Parker, president of the central labor council, in an interview today vigorously denied rumors which he said he had heard were being circulated to the effect that there was a quarrel between himself and W. F. Kay, secretary. In the labor council office Monday afternoon, prior to the arrest of Mr. Kay.

Mr. Parker brands as absurd the story that Kay fired a shot at him. He says that their relations have always been perfectly friendly and that when he heard the shot fired, and upon investigation found the door locked and got no response to his calls to the man inside, it was a friendly impulse that caused him to seek the aid of the police. He utterly denies any difference over labor affairs existed or in any way bad bearing in the matter.

Witnesses who testified were Dr. Craver, Mrs. O. E. Rae, Fred Rodgers, Mrs. Alec Davis, C. B. Curran, manager of the Square Deal Drug store, Will Wood, J. Baughman and Manuel Rivers, cook at the Crater cafe.

The coroner's jury after brief deliberation rendered a verdict of death by accident. The jury consisted of B. S. Grigsby, D. M. Smith, J. S. Beckley, O. W. Engle, P. L. Fountain and A. C. Beale.

Both Rodgers and Mrs. Alge Davis, at whose house the men roomed, said Dorin had shown no suicidal tendencies. He had just come from the Saddle Mountain company's logging camp on Sprague river and in a day or two was going to Bend, where he had a cousin, Richard Dorin.

Dorin's father lives at Shanty Bay, Province of Ontario, Canada. Instructions have been received to bury the body here. The family is well known to John Brett of the K. K. K. store, whose home was in the same town in Ontario, and they are well esteemed there.

The funeral of Dorin will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock from Whitlock's chapel, the Rev. Father N. J. Marshall officiating.

PELICAN BAY CO. BUYS TIMBER

Exercising an option which expired August 2, the Pelican Bay Lumber company has purchased from the Soper-Wheeler company, of Portland, 7,000 acres of standing timber near Mt. Scott in the northern part of the county. This is according to a statement by H. D. Mortenson, president of the Pelican Bay company, today.

It is estimated that the tract contains about 160,000,000 feet of timber. It is covered with a fine stand of trees, all white pine.

The tract is in the Klamath Indian reservation and adjoins the government forest area now being logged by the company. Mr. Mortenson stated that the purchase was made to supply a reserve of timber and lengthen the manufacturing operations of the company. The lumber will be manufactured at the plant here. To get it to the mill it will eventually be necessary to extend the present logging road 16 or 17 miles but the program of logging will cover a period of years.

SMALL ARMY TO SQUELCH CANTU

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 4.—Mobilization of only 3,000 men for the campaign against Esteban Cantu, insurgent governor of Lower California, has been ordered by the government, according to a statement issued by General Calles, secretary of war. He declared more troops will be sent to Lower California if necessary, but indicated that the government does not consider the rebellion there of great importance. It is believed many Carranza adherents have joined Cantu.

WOULD HARNESS VOLCANIC POWER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Industrial Italy, forced by the enormous prices for imported coal, is turning attention toward the utilization of the latent power of the country's volcanic area, according to advices received by the Italian embassy.

This idea of exploiting the natural heat emitted from the soil in the volcanic regions seemed a dream at first thought, but already it has been developed to considerable importance. Successful experiments have been conducted in the past and today at Larderello in Tuscany a heating plant of 16,000 horse power is operating without interruption and distributing electric current to Florence, Livorno and Grosseto. Its capacity, it is planned, will be increased.

First experiments with volcanic power were made some years before the war by Prince Ginori-Conti at Larderello, near the salt mines of Volterra, a region extensively covered with volcanic vents emitting powerful jets of hot steam containing boric salts and various gases used in the extraction of boric acid.

Instead of limiting the use of these steam-jets to extracting the salts contained in the exhalations of these natural vapor-vents, the ejection of the steam is stimulated by boring holes. In this way it has been possible to obtain jets at a pressure of 30 to 45 pounds per square inch and in some instances as high as 75 pounds a square inch, the temperature varying from 150 to 185 degrees centigrade.

In 1905, Prince Ginori-Conti applied this natural steam to a 40 horse power engine, using only a small section of the Nenella fissure, the ejected steam from which has a pressure of 75 pounds per square inch. Seven years later another experiment was successful with a 300-horsepower turbine-alternator, and later the Larderello heating plant was started with three turbine-alternators of 3,000 kilowatts each, these being fed by boilers at low pressure heated by the natural steam, superheated to 185 degrees centigrade.

The natural steam has been used thus far only for heating because it contains substances, among them sulphuric acid, which corrode metals, particularly iron.

TIMBERMAN'S EDITOR EXTENDS INVITATION

George M. Cornwall, publisher of the Timberman, left this morning for Portland after a day's visit among the mills and with friends here. In speaking to a Herald representative he said that he regretted that he was unable to see all the mill men and deliver the message personally, but falling ill, he desired to extend through the newspaper an invitation to each of them to attend the 11th annual session of the Pacific Loggers' congress, convening this fall in Vancouver, B. C. The exact date has not been fixed.

A special feature of the convention will be a discussion by experts of trucks, trailers and tractors and their use in the lumber industry, a subject in which Mr. Cornwall believes that every local operator is vitally interested.

SAKIN TAKEN EAST TO FACE GRAVE CHARGES

Charles W. Sakin, former book-keeper of the Klamath Packing company, arrested here two weeks ago on charges of violation of the Mann act and larceny, started on his return trip to Norfolk, Virginia, this morning in custody of Joseph W. Pugh, chief of police of Norfolk, accompanied by R. W. Debnam, of the local wealth attorney's office. The officer arrived last night, armed with extradition papers issued by the governor of Virginia and countersigned by Governor Oldcott.

On the Mann act violation charge, Sakin is accused by W. L. James of eloping with Mrs. James, wife of the complainant and leaving four motherless children behind. James put the children in charge of his parents, who live in North Carolina, and took the trail of Sakin, locating him in this city where he caused his arrest July 22.

On the larceny charge it is alleged that Sakin while president of the Southern Candy & Fruit company took $616.68 from the company's fund to finance his elopement. Further defalcations have been discovered on the books, officers allege, one involving $1500 and another $1600, since his departure from Norfolk and the investigation of his accounts is not yet ended.

Mrs. James did not leave Norfolk with Sakin, her husband said when he was here, but two days behind him. Sakin was arrested in Chicago on the larceny charge but managed to get away and fled westward. Either between Chicago and San Francisco, or in San Francisco the husband said Mrs. James joined him. Sakin made the rounds of commission houses looking for a position and there learned of the job here, so the couple, alleges the husband, came here together early in June and lived here as man and wife.

Shortly after they arrived here, James said, his wife left Sakin and returned to him in Norfolk for a few days, but again left him. She said, he affirmed, that she must go back to Klamath Falls and see Sakin because he "owed her money and that was the only way she could get it." He says he apparently acquiesced in her decision, but followed shortly afterward, and caused Sakin's arrest.

It is believed by the sheriff that Sakin was only awaiting a good opportunity to flee from Klamath Falls, and that the Klamath Packing company is fortunate if they have not been victimized. No trace of loss has been found in the local concern's office, however. The sheriff's conclusion is based on the fact that Mrs. James had gone ahead to San Francisco and he believes Sakin was only awaiting an opportunity to get funds for a getaway and join her there for further flight. If there was such a plan it was nipped by the arrival of James. When she learned of Sakin's arrest the woman came immediately from California and a reconciliation was effected with her husband. They left at once for Norfolk.

James is a salesman for the Cadbury company of Chicago, distributing their confectionery products throughout the south. Sakin was also employed in the same line. This led to the promotion of the Southern Fruit & Candy company, Sakin taking charge of the office in Norfolk as president of the corporation, and James taking the road as sales manager in all the southern territory. During his absence, he asserts, Sakin took the opportunity to alienate his wife's affections and decamp with the corporation funds.

When confronted by the officers this morning Sakin was nervous and shaken and apparently did not enjoy the prospect of the eastern trip.
