RUSS CHILDREN ROUTED HOME

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 4.—Red Cross workers here are preparing for the arrival early this week of nearly 800 Russian children en route from Vladivostok to Petrograd, where, it is hoped, they may be returned to their parents or relatives.

When the revolution moved toward its height in Russia many fathers and mothers of Petrograd gathered their children into groups of 20 to a 100, with nurses and teachers and sent them into the peaceful, rich acres of Siberia "for a few months; until the trouble has blown over."

Time came for the little wanderers to return to their parents. But in the meantime a barrier of fire had risen between them; a dead line formed of the entire battle fronts of the opposed Bolshevik and Czech armies. When hunger and war terrors confronted the wanderers the American Red Cross took over group after group, established colonies in western Siberia and apparently solved the problem of feeding and housing its young charges. But as the battle line swayed and the Bolshevik captured town after town where American Red Cross activities were in full operation the children were moved to Vladivostok, thousands of miles away. Thence they were taken to Russian Island. Here they were taken to the Yumel Maru for San Francisco.

The colony had a dental clinic, a hospital, and primary school classes. Thirteen of the larger girls took a course of training fitting themselves to become nurses aids in the American Red Cross hospital.

Some of the children included in the group have exceptional qualities of temperament and ability. Several have fine voices. One little girl, whose mother is a professional dancer, has a marked gift for the stage. Still another paints beautifully. The genius for mechanics possessed by many of the boys is shown in their toys, whittled out of bits of wood with whatever sharp edged tool they can find.

LABOR ONLY 50 PER CENT EFFICIENT, SAYS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—Labor is about 50 per cent as efficient as it was in former times, according to the annual report of John A. Griffin, city engineer of Los Angeles, filed recently. This comment appeared in the report in explanation of the high costs of inspections of public improvements.

37 MILLIONS IN GOODS CROSSED LINE

NOGALES, Arizona, Aug. 4.—The total value of exports and imports passing through the Mexican order ports of Arizona in the fiscal year ending June 30 was $37,733,522. Exports were $13,616,772; imports $25,116,760. The figures were announced by H. E. Berner, deputy customs collector at the Port of Nogales. More than one half of the total business of the Arizona district was handled through the office here, he said.

Collections for the year on customs at this port as duties were $201,399.17.

Commission men in both Nogales, Arizona, and Nogales, Sonora, said the total business of the port would have been much greater had not the strike on the Southern Pacific de Mexico railway lines occurred at a time when vast crop movements were under way from the Mexican West Coast into the United States. This strike was settled by the then Governor of Sonora, de la Huerta, now president of Mexico.

A London food truck opposing a strike carried this sign: "The driver of this lorry is a prize fighter. If anyone thinks he can take his place he is welcome to try."

Good Baking

From Mother to Daughter

From the good cooks of the past generation, our good cooks of today learned the "secret" of successful baking with OLYMPIC Flour. Its satisfaction goes back thirty years. It has reason to be even better today.

Try This Berry Pie

CAUST: 2 cups OLYMPIC flour; 1/2 cup shortening; pinch of salt; water.

Work shortening well into the flour and salt; add enough cold water to hold together (about one-fourth of a cup). Roll crust out on one. Place in pan.

FILLING: Sprinkle a half-cup of sugar on bottom crust. Add berries enough to fill pan; sprinkle with one cup sugar; use butter size of walnut sliced over berries. Put on top crust and bake in moderate oven.

Waffles that melt in your mouth are made from OLYMPIC Pancake Flour.

You will enjoy OLYMPIC Waffles, too.

Your grocer will tell you so. He sells it in 10, 24 and 49 pound sacks.

SUGAR WORKERS STRIKE IS OVER

HONOLULU, T. H., July 31. (By Mail).—The strike of sugar plantation laborers, principally Japanese and Filipinos, which began January 19 last, was declared over July 1, following a conference between a committee of laborers and John Waterhouse, president of the Hawaii Sugar Planters' association. Immediately the striking laborers began pouring back to the plantations and it was expected that early this month all the approximately 5,000 men still out would have returned to the fields and mills.

Upwards of 8,000 workers originally joined the strike, but of these about 2,000 Filipinos returned to work before the walkout was declared over, while several hundred Japanese also came back.

Officials of the Hawaiian Laborers' association, successor to the Federation of Japanese labor which called the strike, in telling the members of the organization to return to work, are reported as having claimed victory for the workers. This view was also taken in reports of the strike's end printed in Japanese papers of Honolulu, which intimated that certain concessions, presumably as to wages, bonus rates and working hours had been obtained from the planters.

President Waterhouse, of the planters' association, however, emphatically announced that the association in dealing with the committee of laborers had not been dealing with the laborers' federation, but with the workers themselves, and that no concessions had been made by the planters' associations, and that the strikers would have to apply for work on the status of new hands.

In Japanese circles confidence is expressed that there will be a readjustment of wages and other details in the autumn.

The planters' association has made no announcement as to the loss in sugar, if any, caused by the strike. Estimates in sugar and Japanese circles place the loss to the Japanese strikers at upwards of $4,000,000. This does not include the losses suffered by the Filipinos and strikers of other nationalities.

Federal Trade Commissioner Colver calls the high cost of living the price of the ticket from the cradle to the grave and says that when labor strikes or capital takes fictitious toll the price is increased.
