OREGON FARMERS
 NEED NEWSPAPER
 ADV'T. SERVICES

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Aug. 24.—Oregon farmers could market at least $300,000 worth of farm produce that now either goes to waste or is sold as common stuff while qualified for high class specials, said C. J. McIntosh, agricultural press editor of the state agricultural college, to the members of the State Editorial association at Astoria, August 14.

"The farmers need this service much more than the editors need the business of advertising," the speaker asserted. "It would add not less than $200 profit to the average farm, and greatly benefit the community by supplying the best produce in the most economical manner possible."

It was shown that as many as eight bushels, long and short, with double that number of handlings, five commissions, and often a few speculations, intervene between the Oregon grower and the Oregon consumer of potatoes. This ties up much labor, many cars and some good money, causes deterioration of commodity, and contributes to industrial unrest.

Editors were urged to go after the business in order to help the farmer market to the best advantage. Since the average newspaper serves 250 farms it should advertise $50,000 worth of stuff annually.

Three per cent of the total volume of business for advertising, the rate used before the war by big business, would bring to the average home paper an advertising revenue in farm stuff alone of $1,500 a year.

"The college is ready to help develop this business. Let's go get it," he concluded.

GOLDEN RULE
 VANNICE BROTHERS

August 23rd to 30th is National Gingham Week

WE HAVE a splendid stock of standard gighams, from which it is possible to select almost any pattern, width, or grade; so that no matter what your requirements, we feel that we can suit you.

We also have a beautiful line of Gingham House Dresses, and the prices are surprisingly reasonable. For the house, or for the "kiddie" things, there is nothing as comfortable, nor as economical, as gingham.

Below are listed some of the standard lines, and also a few of our ready-to-wear house dresses.

Ranch for Sale

Best located and best improved small ranch in county, about 48 acres, 1/4 mile south of Altamont corner. Forty acres of this tract formerly composed the Walton place, and about 8 acres purchased from the Altamont ranch.

Ideal for country home, with nearly all conveniences of the city. Fine dairy proposition. A real home, so close to Klamath Falls that it will increase in value. Might consider Klamath Falls residence as part payment.

Assured of Solitude.
 "What do you think of this rich man providing himself with a handsome tomb to sleep in after he's dead?"
 "He might have put the money into a hospital, a public park or a library."
 "Yes?"
 "People would naturally visit those places. It's a cinch they'll never resort to his tomb in large numbers."

Family Matters.
 "I shall complain to the floorwalker about you," said the irate shopper.
 "I have no doubt he will agree with everything you say," answered the saleslady, wearily.
 "Ah! Then he is acquainted with your shortcomings?"
 "He thinks he is. He's my husband."

Might Be a Mote.
 Youth (eager to gain a place on the sofa)—Permit me to remove the mote, won't you?
 Maiden—Thank you, I would, only—only—
 Youth—Only what?
 Maiden—Only I see such a beam in your eye!—Cartoons.

The Result.
 "Somebody played a joke on Jim. Sent him a barrel of what he thought were fine oysters."
 "Where was the joke?"
 "When he went to shuck them, there weren't any oysters there."
 "Then he must have been shell-shocked."

A Compliment.
 "You used to pay me many pretty compliments before we were married," said Mrs. Dibbs, with a pout.
 "You women are certainly hard to please," growled Mr. Dibbs. "Didn't I just now tell you these pork chops were done to a turn?"

A SMALL MATTER.
 "Ouch! Didn't you take off a piece of my ear that time?"
 "Don't be alarmed, sir; not enough to affect the hearing."

SALE OF TIMBER
 KLAMATH INDIAN RESERVATION
 LITTLE SPRAGUE UNIT

Sealed bids in duplicate, marked outside "Bid Little Sprague Unit," and addressed to the "Superintendent, Klamath Indian School, Klamath Agency, Oregon," will be received until 2:00 o'clock P. M., Pacific time, Wednesday, October 27, 1920, for the purchase of the merchantable timber on about 3,600 acres on Sprague River in townships 34 and 35 South, Range 8 East, Willamette Meridian. This unit is estimated at 40,000,000 feet B. M., mostly western yellow pine of which about 5,000,000 feet is on about 480 acres of approved allotments, and as to which separate approved contracts with the Indian owners may probably be made. No bid will be accepted for less than $4.00 for yellow and sugar pine and incense cedar, and $1.60 for other species during the period of the contract ending March 31, 1924. Prices subsequent to that date will be fixed by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for three-year periods. Each bid must state the rate per M that will be paid for each kind of timber during the first contract period ending March 31, 1924, and must be accompanied by a certified check on a solvent National Bank drawn in favor of the Superintendent of the Klamath Indian School in the amount of $10,000.00. The deposit will be returned to unsuccessful bidders, but retained as liquidated damages if the successful bidder shall fail to execute contract and furnish satisfactory bond for $15,000.00 within 60 days from the acceptance of his bid. The right is reserved to waive technical defects and to reject any or all bids. For copies of contract, regulations, fuller description of the area, and other information, apply to the Superintendent of the Klamath Indian School, Klamath Agency, Oregon.

AT THE THEATERS

If you want to see a gripping, dramatic picture with human problems set forth with a story-teller's art that holds you rigid with suspense, and works up your emotions to the point where you begin to go through the "What-would-I-have-done" catchment, betake yourself to the Liberty theater and see "The Valley of Tomorrow," starring William Russell.

Herein, this athletic favorite, with Mary Thurman and a whole cast of all-star caliber, puts upon the screen the tragic hesitations and soul-conflicts that harass a man when love clashes with his hereditary duty to kill his sister's betrayer—a man who proves to be not only the brother of the woman he loves, but the very man to whom he owes his escape from death. This show will be at the Liberty today.

The dancer's smile often veils a hidden sorrow. Because she is shod in satin slippers, and vapory veils flutter merrily about her, people are accustomed to regard her as happy. But Theda Bara, in "La Belle Russe," which is coming to the Liberty theater tomorrow, shows that a gay exterior often masks a tragedy.

"La Belle Russe" is the photoplay version of the famous Belasco stage success of the same name. It is the story of a dancer whose marriage to a nobleman brings upon her husband the contempt of his family. He is disinherited and she struggles with him faithfully through poverty and privation, secretly giving dancing lessons so that they may not starve. War tears the husband from her side, and she continues her struggle bravely so that her baby boy shall not suffer hardship.

The picture ends with a stirring climax, which is said to come as a tremendous surprise.
