

EXERCISES TO MARK SAILING OF PILGRIMS

PLYMOUTH, Eng., July 30, (By Mail).—A civic reception and concert in guildhall here will begin the eight days' round of festivities with which Plymouth will celebrate the Tercentenary of the sailing of the Pilgrim Fathers from this port.

On Saturday, September 4, there will be a literary and historical conference under the auspices of the Mayflower council. During the afternoon there will be a historical procession while 350 guests of the Lord Mayor will be taken on a steamer trip through the harbor.

On Monday the British and Foreign Sailors' society will open the Sailors' Hostel, the English Speaking union will give a luncheon to the mayor, corporation officials and 600 delegates, and the foundation stone of the Mayflower hall being erected by the Salvation Army will be laid.

Tuesday's program includes a motor trip for 200 guests of the mayor to Princeton, Ashburton, Newton Abbot, Totnes and Torquay—neighboring places of historic interest and noted for their scenic beauties.

A luncheon and garden party will be given Thursday by the Women's section of the Free Church council. A visit to the government naval establishments will be at Edgcombe, the home of the earl and countess of Edgcombe, and a theatrical gala will complete this day's program.

A charabanc excursion for 400 guests to Burrator, the artificial lake which supplies Plymouth with water, and tea at Buckland Abbey where Lady Seaton will be hostess have been arranged for Friday.

NOTES OF SPORTSDOM

Vermont university boasts one of the best varsity nines in its history.

University of Kentucky will erect a modern stadium on its Lexington field.

Why not let Sir Thomas have the cup? We have nothing with which to fill it now.

Georges Carpenter has a valet and secretary, and Dempsey has a lawyer and bondsmen.

Eastern intercollegiate golf championships will take place on the Nassau Country club's Long Island links, June 22 to 26.

Matters appear to be pretty quiet in the ranks of the heavies these days. Must be that Fred Fulton has knocked all of the near-champion crop cold.

Boston high school regimental in-door carnival held recently attracted a total of 1,018 contestants. Athletes were permitted to compete in only one field event.

The footballists are beginning preparations thus early for next fall's campaign. They evidently believe in the old aphorism: "In times of peace prepare for war."

Patriots who expect to pay a wartime price at the Dempsey-Carpenter fight should be guided by the French champion's tip that he will need only six rounds to knock the American out.

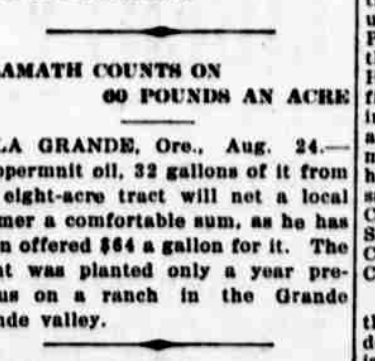

Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletics of America is composed of 32 colleges, University of Cincinnati, Williams, Holy Cross and Boston college having joined the organization this year.

Arthur Kennett of Eastbourne, England, has accepted a position as professional at the Fond du Lac (Wis.) Country club. The course is a new one and Kennett will be in charge of the construction work.
