AND CURRY COUNTY FAIR

MYRTLE POINT, OREGON and ROUNDUP MYRTLE POINT, OREGON

SEPTEMBER 15-16-17-18, 1920

This will be the biggest Fair and Round-up ever held in Southwestern Oregon. A large number of the participants will take part in the Pendleton Round-up immediately following the Myrtle Point events. Riders of five different states will be present and will bring a string of the hardest bucking animals in the world to handle. A $100 prize for the best rider is offered by the Association and the winner must ride the famous outlaw, White Cloud. Races including a special relay race will be held the last three days of the Fair. Many horsemen claim this to be the fastest track in Oregon. In addition to the Round-up features the finest assemblage of livestock ever assembled in Oregon outside of the State Fair and Livestock Exposition will be seen here. If you want to see the best little Fair and Round-up in Oregon don't miss the one at Myrtle Point, Sept. 15th to 18th. A wild and woolly town for four days. Many prizes and amusements too numerous to mention in this space.

BIGGEST AND BEST

NO LABOR FOR WHEAT HARVEST

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Shortage of labor in the agricultural states is resulting in a reduction of acreage which threatens America's food supply according to the findings of Percy F. Walker, dean of the Kansas University engineering school, made public today at national headquarters of the American Society of National Engineers. The Dean is head of a research committee of the Mid-Continent Section of that society. Dean Walker found population at a standstill or declining in agricultural sections, pointing out that 16 of the 195 counties in Kansas prevented that state from decreasing in population in a decade, the increases all being in industrial sections. "The same thing holds good in Iowa and doubtless in other states for the same period," the Dean reported. Many farmers cannot pay their 1919 debts because the railroads are unable to move their wheat harvest, and they are paring down production, he said. As a remedy, Dean Walker suggested a study by engineers of the economics of transportation and production with a view to systematizing a national fitting of enterprises to localities. This, he thought, would work out better distribution of population where needed and would prevent continued inability of the transportation systems to meet the demands upon them.

These two girls met in the big city; the first, poor and discouraged, and the other enjoying all the material comforts and luxuries. What happens to Mary Horton and Hilda West will be shown in "Sinners," starring Alice Brady, which comes to the Liberty theater Tuesday. Do not fail to see it.

WEATHER RECORD

Hereafter the Herald will publish the mean and maximum temperatures and precipitation record as taken by the U. S. Reclamation service station. Publication will cover the day previous to the paper's issue, up to 5 o'clock of that day.

AT THE THEATERS

Youth and high spirits are the predominant notes in the Thomas H. Ince production, "Mary's Ankle," which is coming to the Star theater for two days commencing tomorrow. Douglas MacLean and Doris May, who made such an auspicious debut as co-stars in "Twenty-Three and a Half Hours' Leave," are the featured players. The picture is an adaptation of May Tully's hilarious stage play of the same name.

The story is about a Doc Hampton, young and impetuous, who meets a girl on Tag Day and falls in love with her. In order to claim an inheritance from his rich uncle, Doc has fake wedding announcements sent out. His bluff is called, the uncle informing him that he will be on hand to inspect the bride and take them on a honeymoon to Honolulu. In the emergency, fate throws the Tag Day girl across Doc's path. He persuades her to pose as his bride, and later, of course, she makes good the deception by falling in love with her pretended husband.

Lloyd Ingraham directed the picture, and, besides Mr. MacLean and Miss May, the cast includes Victor Potel, Neal Burns, James Gordon, Lizette Thorne and Ida Lewis. It is a Paramount Arctcraft picture.

Mary Horton was just the kind of a girl one would expect to find in a little country place like Ponset Point—just as pure and fresh as the winds that swept over the Ponset hills.

There was another girl, Hilda West, who once lived in Ponset Point, but she had gone to the city, and the villagers never spoke of her without a shake of the head—the men usually winked knowingly.

These two girls met in the big city; the first, poor and discouraged, and the other enjoying all the material comforts and luxuries. What happens to Mary Horton and Hilda West will be shown in "Sinners," starring Alice Brady, which comes to the Liberty theater Tuesday. Do not fail to see it.

"12:10" starring Marie Doro is a mystery picture that will baffle any one to solve its problem. The story itself, its treatment and the whole idea of the situations gives no clue as to the ending of the tale. No one but a Brenon could have done it. It could not be made in America and that is why Brenon took Miss Doro and a company to Paris and rural London to make it so that we on this side of the water could have a new sensation and a new thrill. A lonely castle, a wail of a girl, at midnight's witching hour, strange noises, creaking doors, a moving figure on a bed are but a few of the puzzling elements that make of this super feature the one big outstanding booking of the year at the Liberty theater. It will be seen here on Wednesday.

ENTITLED TO HIS PENSION

Intelligent Dog Well Earned the Gratitude of His Master—Action Saved Child's Life.

Teddy, age twenty-two, is, his owner declares, the oldest dog in Ohio. He is now resting on his laurels, for he recently saved the life of one of the children of his master, Onias G. Swander, a farmer, near Toledo, Ohio.

It has been Teddy's duty and joy to accompany the Swander children to school, a mile distant, and bring them home again, daily. He has never been late on the job. On the way home from school recently, one of the little Swanders became ill suddenly and fell by the roadside. Teddy immediately started at his fastest pace for home and made such a fuss that members of the family accompanied him back along the road.

They found the child, unconscious, and extremely cold. He was hurried home and restored to health. The Swanders believe that Teddy's prompt action saved the child's life.

Mr. Swander immediately bought a dog license for his faithful dog. "I'll have no dog catcher chasing him. If anything should happen to that dog, my family would grieve as much as if he were one of them," declared Mr. Swander.

Teddy is half coyote and half Indian dog. He was bought from a band of Comanche Indians in Oklahoma 16 years ago.—Charles A. Hagedorn, in Our Dumb Animals.

COMFORT IN AIRPLANE CABIN

Great Contrast in Flights in Inclosed and Open Machines; as Described by Passenger.

I recently had the opportunity of making two airplane flights in the same day, the first in one of the completely inclosed transport machines, the second in a fighting machine which was developed in America during the last few months of the war and which has a speed of about 135 miles an hour. The force exerted by the air against any exposed surface is about three times as great at this speed as it is at 90 miles an hour.

During the first of these two trips the only complaint that could have been raised against conditions in the pilot's compartment would have been that it was rather close and we finally had to open a window in the side of the body to secure a little ventilation. One of the occupants of the cabin was wearing a soft felt hat, and not the slightest rattle of air disturbed the brim.

In the second flight, on the other hand, it was only with difficulty that I could lift my head far enough out of the gunner's cockpit to look over the side at the ground. The instant my head was raised above the top line of the airplane body, so that the wind got a chance at it, my hair threatened to be torn out by the roots.—Edward P. Warner in Yale Review.

Chorus Girl Worked as Housemaid

A Parisian housekeeper who had long been without a servant succeeded the other day in engaging one who seemed very promising indeed. She entered upon her duties in the morning, and worked to her mistress' complete satisfaction. An early dinner was cooked and served excellently, but at 8:30 the new maid appeared in the drawing room with her hat on, and explained that she had to go out, as she was in the chorus at a music hall and was sure to be fined if she arrived late. Apparently she was quite prepared to continue her two jobs without regarding them as incongruous. Owing to a lack of modernity in the mistress' ideas, this interesting experiment was not continued.—From the Continental Edition of the London Mail.

Cures Wrought by "Sleep-Baths"

Among the many wonderful cures which the war has produced is the "sleep-bath."

It is to be had on the thousand-acre estate at Enham, Hampshire, where many of the disabled men are being treated. Practically every kind of bath is available there, but the big "sedative bath" has worked the most miracles.

The patients lie in hammocks, while water flows over them. The hammocks are immersed, and the water is kept about the temperature of the body. The gentle flowing motion has a most soothing effect upon the nerves. Provided the man has not been pronounced incurable, any disabled ex-soldier may apply for treatment through his local pension committee.

SHREWDNESS BORN IN HIM

Successful Man's Ability as Trader Was Shown at an Extremely Early Age.

From day to day proof is forthcoming that genius is spontaneous and not a slow growth—that it is of the type of Minerva who sprang full-armed from the head of Zeus. This is evidently as true of the genius of the mart as it is properly supposed to be of the more esthetic forms of genius.

An instance in substantiation of this opinion was recently related by a veteran business man as a side light on the why of the success of a well-known industrial leader.

"I remember him," it was related, "when he was a lad of six years. He wanted to trade a lantern for one owned by a playmate, which he admired. Coming to his father, he asked counsel about the matter and was informed that he should use his own judgment. 'Well, dad,' said the boy, 'I believe I'll trade; but wouldn't you take the oil out first?'"—Wall Street Journal.

Made Thorough Job of It.

The domestic happiness of an innkeeper in a village in the Jura has been shattered by the action of a jealous wife. Ten years ago the innkeeper, who is French brought home from America a buxom woman of Austrian birth named Sophie. Sophie is now fat and forty, and the affections of her husband have decreased. Sophie resolved to revenge herself, and, when her husband was absent, she smashed all the furniture and then turned on all the taps of the wine barrels. Finally she soaked the wreckage with petroleum and set it alight. When the husband appeared his wife threw on the fire a number of bank notes which represented their savings. While the neighbors were busy trying to extinguish the flames Sophie hanged herself from the branch of a tree.—From the Continental Edition of the New York Herald.

He Knew Its Use.

An Indianapolis family a few years ago took a boy from an orphanage. Now, of course, everything at the new home was different from the place he had just left. Still he tried to make himself at home and help all he could. One day the woman of the house told her grown daughter to go upstairs after a box. The orphanage youngster offered to go instead. "But you don't know where to find it," protested the woman. "Oh, yes, I do," the little boy insisted. He had gone to her closet before after things and had seen the boxes. "They are in the little pantry that you keep your clothes in."

Alloy Stronger Than Steel.

An Italian engineer has discovered a new alloy of zinc and copper which is stronger than steel and less corrosive than copper, says the Scientific American. The most important characteristics of the new alloy, which has been named "Black Metal," are the highest known breaking point, the highest limit of elasticity, perfect homogeneity and higher resistance to both heating and chemical action. It has been stated that it can successfully be cast, machined, rolled, forged, drawn and stamped. It is expected that it will prove an acceptable substitute for steel, brass and aluminum.

Human Fly Says It's Safe.

Polley, the human fly, who climbed the 37 stories of the Woolworth building in New York, says climbing tall buildings is just a trick of balance. It took him nine years to acquire it, but now that he has it he believes his way of making a living is as safe as any other. He recently told a reporter for Capper's Weekly he had never fallen, except on one occasion when a "fly" above him fell and knocked Polley to the ground. Polley doesn't smoke, drink or indulge in any habits that might injure his health. He declares he takes no foolish chances and that he never becomes dizzy.

Breaks.

"Hi, there, sir!" shouted a Florida landlord to a departing guest who was rushing for the train, "you've dropped your pocket book."

"All right," shouted back the guest without stopping, "I've no further use for it."—Boston Transcript.
