RETURN AFTER MANY YEARS

Tilefish Again Caught in Vast Numbers, Though They Were Believed to Have Been Wiped Out.

Tilefish are a fish with a short but remarkable history, writes a correspondent. Their discovery was dramatic. In May, 1878, Captain Kirby of the schooner Hutchings, out of Gloucester, Mass., was trawling for cod off the Nantucket banks. No cod was found, but a large fish, unknown to science, was present in great numbers. In a very short time 5,000 pounds of the new species were caught. The fish proved to be of high food value and good keeping qualities. There was a big popular demand for them, and huge quantities were caught for three years. Then the supply failed as suddenly as it had appeared. In the spring of 1882 the boats failed to catch a single tilefish. A few days later incoming boats reported having passed through miles of dead or dying tilefish. They covered an area of 5,000 square miles, and were estimated to number 1,000,000,000.

From 1882 to 1915 no trace of tilefish was found in any waters of the world, adds our correspondent. Scientific men were convinced that the fish had been suddenly and mysteriously exterminated. Then, early in 1915, a government boat, in almost the identical spot off the Nantucket banks as that in which tilefish were first taken, again caught some of the same species. Again there proved to be vast numbers of them, and new grounds were also discovered along the New Jersey coast. Since then the tilefish has been caught without interruption, but the riddle of its strange disappearance for 33 years has not yet been solved.—Manchester Guardian.

WIRELESS IN THE POCKET

Small, Cheap Apparatus That is Really a Marvel of Ingenuity, Costs Only 95.

It is now possible to pick up a wireless message from any of the big stations within reasonable distance in this country with the aid of an ordinary umbrella, a patent pocketbook and a telephone.

The umbrella will act as the aerial, the pocketbook contains a miniature receiving set, and, of course, the telephone must be a high-resistance instrument.

It has even been possible, inventors of the pocket receiving set say, to use an ordinary bedstead as an aerial.

You must not expect with this simple installation to get in wireless touch with Paris, Berlin or Moscow, but if you want the mild excitement of picking up messages from a home station within reasonable distance you must follow these directions:

Take your umbrella with you and the pocketbook, select a nice lofty position, and having earthed one corner of the pocketbook—any to a water pipe or something equally damp and handy, hold your umbrella out at arm's length. There should also be a telephone handy, and it would be more convenient to use the headgear worn by telephone operators.

Having rigged yourself out as a human wireless station all you have to do is to listen. You will be as a rock in a wireless sea with invisible waves of understanding running down the stick of your umbrella.

It is claimed for this pocket receiving set that it is comparable in sensitivity with the most expensive and elaborate tuner on the market.

The cost of the pocketbook is about $5.—London News.
