AT THE THEATERS

"The sins ye do by two and two, ye shall pay for one by one." The Kipling couplet is peculiarly fitting as a motto for "The Tattlers," a new production starring Madeline Travers, which will appear at the Liberty theater tonight.
An Bea Rutherford, a beautiful wife, more sinned against than sinning, Miss Travers is reported to have a role worthy of her best efforts as an emotional actress of the first rank. It is said that this play is filled with thrills and high lights—moments which hold the audience spellbound.

"Molly and I," based on Frank R. Adams' novel "Molly and I and the Silver Ring," will be presented at the Liberty theater Thursday, with Miss Shirley Mason as the star. "Molly and I" is said to be a charming comedy, in which this delightful star finds abundant opportunity to demonstrate her right to the description "95 pounds of pep, personality, and prettiness." Albert Roscoe plays opposite Miss Mason, and the rest of the company is consistently good.

MIDINGS FROM MIDLAND

The Midland school started Tuesday morning. Mrs. Edna Flowers of Ady has been engaged as teacher. The Southern Pacific company has a force of ten men painting and renovating the company's property here. When done here they will be stationed at Klamath Falls for the same purpose.
The people of this vicinity, as well as the Worden neighborhood, are mighty glad the long promised bridge at Ady is finally under construction, and they hope it will not take many generations before the new road is built between the two villages. The road, when finished, will shorten the distance between Worden and Klamath Falls about seven miles, and between Worden and Midland twenty-four.
Herbert Tiffany, who is plowing with a Holt "caterpillar," on the tulle, had the misfortune of nearly burning up the machine. It will be necessary to have new parts sent up from the factory at Stockton. There are now about 800 acres plowed and a good many ready to be seeded to vye this fall.
George E. Furber has ordered a new outfit for his wireless station here. Mr. Furber is an old telegraph operator.

An Apology

To the Ladies of Klamath Falls and Vicinity:

We beg your kind indulgence for the delay, but we are forced to postpone the Grand Opening of our store until Saturday, September 25th.

Our mechanics worked energetically and with all possible speed yet the impossible could not be accomplished. Since it is the policy of the La Vogue stores to open only when we can display all our smart merchandise right, it is deemed the better plan to make the postponement.

You will be well repaid by waiting until Saturday. You will actually be surprised to know that you can purchase a suit, coat, dress, blouse, a fur coat or fur neck piece at such a moderate price. This merchandise is the season's newest and smartest, and we are offering it for less than it is being sold for in the large cities. Come and see for yourself and be convinced. Come early on Saturday.

STEADY, REPUBLICANS!
BY WILL H. HAYS,
Chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Steady, Republicans!
This, of all times, is the time to keep the ranks firm.
We are in the front trenches, posted on the firing-line, and our duty there is to keep our eyes—every second—on the opposition.
Don't let anything in the rear draw our gaze from the enemy's line!
This is the imperative call to the performance of an instant duty.
Steady!

Let not the certainty of Republican success, which means so much for the country's welfare, be lessened in even the slightest degree by any inability to order our own affairs.
Our day is already certain—the day of Republican victory—but we have got to remember—and we must remember NOW—that sure as the dawn is, and bright as the day will be—the moments before its arrival must not be allowed to be fraught with threatnings, for the daylight will be of small use to us in our task of making the most of it, if we blind ourselves before its coming.
Let us keep our feet on the ground—we must!
Let us keep our eyes ahead—it is our duty.
Let us keep our minds clear—if we don't, then our victory, certain as it is, decisive as it is bound to prove, will fall short of that benefit to the country as a whole which the next four years demand from the Republican party.
We have a national duty. We have got to pull this country out of the slough of despond and disorder, of extravagance, of a half-baked and false and evil idealism. We have got to set its feet firmly again on the solid highway of progress. We have got to start it—aye, and keep it—on the road of justice to all and from all, the road of prosperity, of those things that are best for every man, woman and child among its inhabitants. We have got to restore Americanism to America.

This is the gigantic task.
Gigantic—but we can do it.
It is up to us. There's no doubt about that, and we are going to do it thoroughly.
But we must be fit in every fiber NOW. We must perfect our training NOW.
Steady, Republicans!
Do you want your old winning the World War? Repeat the patriotism of 1917-1918.
Hold the boat steady. The winds may blow. We have reached the place where the cross-currents may run. But remember that the ripples do not show the direction of the main current, which flows surely and strongly underneath this eddy and that froth.
Here is the moment for little things. We have to perform a task worthy of our party strength, worthy of our party history; we have a patriotic work to do that is epoch-making, national. Upon our performance will depend the future of the country. The chronicler of centuries to come, the generations of Americans to be, will look backward at these now-approaching years as of the most tremendous import in the development of American policy—and it is the Republican party that is to direct that development.
Let us permit no distraction.
No scrimony among us. No petty bickerings. No this-goes-NOTHING must decrease the certainty of our doing well that which we are certainly about to be called upon to accomplish.
Let us stones be put into the snowballs!
Loyalty to country.
Loyalty to the party.
Loyalty to the party always that is to save the country.
