PEOPLE MUST RULE—HARDING

ASHLAND, Ky., Sept. 29.—A federal government conducted under coordinated powers of the constitution and always taking the whole American people into its confidence, was pictured today by Senator Harding in a speech here as an ideal toward which the Republican party would work if returned to power.

MILLWOOD, West Virginia, Sept. 29.—Senator Harding's train narrowly escaped being seriously wrecked, when the trucks of the car in which the senator was riding broke down. The car was derailed. Although no one was injured Senator and Mrs. Harding were badly shaken-up.

WRONG INITIALS
Klamath Falls, Sept. 27th.
Editor Herald:
In your issue of September 3.d. in publishing the names of the board of directors of the Good Government League, one of the names appears "W. T. Elliot," when it should have been "E. L. Elliot." Mr. W. T. Elliot is very desirous that a correction should be made.
Respectfully yours,
R. A. EMMITT.

BANKER RETURNS TO FORMER PROFESSION

Fred A. Baker, who was a lawyer before he became a banker, has reversed the process by which he became a banker and returned to the law again. Mr. Baker was admitted to practice law in Oregon at Portland last week.
Mr. Baker quit his position in the First State & Savings Bank several weeks ago. Mr. Baker was formerly with the legal department of the department of the interior at Washington, D. C., and also served in the department of justice. He entered the legal profession in Illinois and practiced in that state before entering the government service.
Within a short time Mr. Baker intends to establish a legal practice here.

ENDORING REPUBLICAN PLATFORM
The people of New Hampshire have renominated Senator Moses by 12,000 majority.
In Wisconsin Senator Lenroot is renominated by 26,000 majority.
Georgia renominates Senator Watson in order that he may fight the Wilson League of Nations.
All of these senators, two Republicans and a Democrat, are being supported by the people of their several states because they hold the United States of America above the super-state proposed by President Wilson and candidate Cox.

DECLARES "VARIETY OF PRODUCTS" MEANS PROSPERITY FOR FARMER

PRINCE ALBERT SASK.—C.M. Hamilton, the new minister of agriculture of Saskatchewan, struck the keynote of western Canadian agricultural development, when he said recently: "I am convinced that the prosperity of the farmer depends on a variety of products on the farm."

Under the stimulus of this idea, western Canada gradually is merging from a past of bonanza wheat into a present of diversified farming. With dairying, beef cattle, horses, hogs, sheep and poultry to depend upon, the farmer no longer faces disaster if his wheat crop falls short. He has ceased to carry all his eggs to market in one basket.

Dairying has shown remarkable growth. This is due not only to governmental educational campaigns but to the establishment of creameries in scores of towns by co-operative farmers' societies with government financial aid. These creameries furnish ready markets for the farmers of every district. These convenient markets in turn have given an added impulse to the building up of first class dairy herds.

While this increased interest is apparent all over western Canada, yet it is developing with the greatest rapidity in that portion of the prairie provinces which is being most rapidly settled. That is the area contiguous to the transcontinental line of the Canadian National Railways. It is a well-watered, slightly rolling region with here and there a cluster of trees giving it the appearance of a great national park which is naturally adapted to diversified farming. There is scarcely a farmer in this stretch of territory who does not keep at least a few cows and market milk and butter. Among the new settlers, dairying and livestock raising are becoming increasingly important sources of income. Formerly western Canada imported vast quantities of butter. Now it makes all its own butter and exports almost as much as it once imported. Much of its export butter goes to the United States.
