Encore! Encore!

Many a man is brim full of Music but has lacked the means of satisfying his musical longings.

The Gulbransen Player reads the notes without effort on your part and the little air muscle fingers do the playing with a sensitive human like touch.

The Gulbransen requires only about as much effort to play as is required to drive an automobile well.

The fact that you can put your own expression and feeling into any selection of music places the Gulbransen in a class by itself.

Silent and seldom used pianos are accepted in part payment.

PELICAN BAY SCHOOL NOTES

(Contributed)

We have entered upon our second month's work. All classes are working with a zeal. The sixth, seventh and eighth grades report 100 per cent attendance.

We are anxiously awaiting our promised basketball, when we will have a basketball team that will surprise the "natives."

The new Victrola that was furnished us through the efficient work of Miss Evelyn Applegate is greatly appreciated by teachers and pupils as well as patrons.

The children of this school certainly respond heartily to any appeal for the relief of any one in distress.

Here is an illustration of how they do things. On Tuesday morning the question of "Armenian relief" was the subject for opening exercises in the different rooms. On Wednesday morning the children came to school fairly loaded with clothing, and money! Yes, these little folks sacrificed their own savings that they might help to keep some little bit warm. Two little sisters, brought a dollar each, of their own money.

The room taught by Mrs. Lambert brought 49 garments and six pairs of shoes, besides $9.20, although money was not solicited from the children. The other rooms did nobly, yet not quite so well.

We now have 75 enrolled in our school. The lower grades are crowded, but with all grades represented, any other division cannot well be made.

With your ear to the ground you can hear already the sound and rumbling of a noise of a "new school building for Pelican bay." A more appreciative school district will be hard to find.

ATTORNEY DENIES HE TRIED TO STOP INQUIRY

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—State Attorney Hoynes, returning today from New York, said that Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox club, asked him to investigate last year's world series immediately after the conclusion of the games.

He said that at the time he found evidence satisfying him that the series was crooked but not enough to prove it.

Hoynes denied that he had attempted, to stop the present grand jury inquiry.
