AT THE THEATERS

Gladys Brockwell, in a story that has a tremendously strong human appeal—"Chasing Rainbows"—will be seen at the Liberty theatre tonight. This is the story of a waitress, Sadie, whose heart is well-nigh broken by a false lover and who, to get away from her troubles, goes to a town on the edge of Death Valley to work in a railroad restaurant.

Sadie does more good in that town than any minister that ever came that way. And she does it through love and a spirit that knows no fear. It is a fine emotional role for Miss Brockwell, and the star makes the most of it.

The largest translation bureau in the City to Mexico is owned and managed by a woman, Miss Erminia Godey.

After such a test you can be sure it will protect the plates and last as long as the battery.

Seeing Ourselves as Others See Us

I suppose we all know that we might benefit could we see ourselves as others see us, but I imagine most of us feel that the picture would be somewhat painful to our vanity. It is no secret to Americans, for example, that Europeans look upon us as swell-headed braggarts and greedy money-grabbers and we sometimes have an uneasy suspicion that there is too much truth in these accusations. The outrageous profiteering practiced in this country during the war and since the signing of the armistice, cannot be defended by any good American. The record will always stand as a discredit to this nation. We certainly appreciate the hearty co-operation we have had from the public since opening our store here and shall in the future try to deserve your patronage. We have a fairly good assortment of men's winter underwear, gloves and mittens. Call on us.

We buy for less; we sell for less.
