Letters From The People

ASK DECENT POLLING PLACE ACCOMMODATIONS

Mr. Editor: Through the medium of your paper and in the interests of 100 of our good citizens, men and women, who have been drafted to serve on the ten election precinct boards in this city, November 2nd, the attention of the county officials is respectfully called to the implied duty, at least, of procuring and providing comfortable quarters for polling places. It is an all-day and an all-night job in the interest of the body politic, at an extremely moderate wage, as wages go now-a-days: and in a great many instances citizens serving on the day boards will, owing to absences on the regular night boards, feel obligated to serve through the night. The writer's wife along with one or two other ladies and gentlemen served on one of the regular election boards in November 1918 in dilapidated and very cold quarters, without toilet conveniences through the day nearer than two blocks, and with none at all after 10 or 11 o'clock at night. One of the other ladies caught a very severe cold from which she did not recover for several weeks.

The writer understands something of the difficulty in obtaining, in all precincts, what might be termed ideal quarters, but an extra effort certainly should be put forth by the officials in charge of such matters to procure at least comfortable quarters for the several election boards with reasonably accessible toilet conveniences, even if it should entail extra expense to secure them.

It is not contemplated by the great commonwealth of Oregon that the health of its citizens is to be jeopardized in performance of such duties, or that they should be obliged to suffer while performing them. Let the matter be attended to far enough in advance of the election to insure better conditions than have been obtained in the past. The fact that it is common knowledge that Nov. 2nd at this altitude can be counted on as being sort-o-cold of nights should prompt a little extra effort in correcting the matters referred to.

A CITIZEN,
Who served and suffered last election.

SAYS SINNOTT SCRAPPED THE LEAGUE OF "NATIONS"

Klamath Falls, Ore., Oct. 3
Editor Evening Herald:

Dear sir: I heard "Nick" Sinnott speak here last night, as did many others, the subject matter of his address being in substance "Shall the U. S. Senate Ratify Woodrow Wilson's Peace Treaty, and League of Nations?" Well, all who heard the speech delivered are willing to bet he killed, treaty, league, Woodrow Wilson, and "all sitch" with one mighty wallop of a brick-bat borrowed for the occasion from the very foundation of our government's stability, namely Geo. Washington's solemn warning to all patriots, not to allow themselves to be hampered, in anyway, with any European political affairs. Furthermore, the numerous favorable comments, both during and after the delivery of his speech, are a merited tribute to "Nick's" common sense elucidation of the final outcome of such a league. His timely talk on the subject has made votes for Senator Harding, the republican party and for "Nick."

And now Mr. Editor, if it is possible for you so to do, I hope you will publish Sinnott's speech, in full, for the benefit of those of your reader's who from one cause and another, did not hear it delivered first hand. Knowing "Nick" as I do, from his early manhood to present man, never has he been found, "wanting" in any line that pertains to manhood, good fellowship, or good statesmanship. My acquaintance with him is of 30 years standing, therefore I know "whereof I speak" when I say, he is an unflinching friend to all liberty-loving men, women, and children.

Now, Mr. Editor, I have partially, relieved the political strain under which I am laboring, namely: the endeavor to get before all the American people, before November 2 of this year, the bald headed facts, of the rotten proposition called "the league of nations."

Mr. Editor, I do not ask, nor expect, you to publish this lengthy harangue but I could not speak my "piece" in shorter space.

With best wishes for the "Herald" I am respectfully yours,
L. WINANS,
524 High St., City.

Note: Mr. Sinnott's speech was published in full in Tuesday's and Wednesday's issues of the Herald, October 5 and 6.

THE HEALTH OFFICER

Communicable disease can be controlled. Public health is therefore purchasable. Have you paid the price? No! Klamath Falls has never had a health fund. See that she has next year.

There is one thing that is communicable and doesn't cost a cent; a friendly smile. A laugh doeth good like medicine.

Every physician is a guardian of public health and it will be necessary that physicians in the future take more and more interest in public health affairs.

The local physicians form the first line of defense against the ravages of disease and sickness. The efficiency of a health officer or a health program depends primarily on the willingness and alertness of doctors to co-operate. This was well illustrated in our last influenza epidemic wherein the health department could have done but little without the support of the doctors.

Every doctor is a health officer under Oregon law. He is empowered to place a quarantine himself whenever he finds a communicable disease. He can put up the placard and establish a quarantine; but only the health officer can remove it. It is the recognized duty of the physician to advise the family regarding proper measures of preventing disease.

The state health office of Oregon will furnish laboratory supplies for diagnosis and treatment to any physician in matters of health. Doctors are also health officers in collecting vital statistics and they are requested to report all births and to certify the cause of death. Next to the physician is the public health nurse, which about 15 counties of Oregon are supplied with one, and Klamath is high on the list for same. Of her work we will speak later. We will conclude with a thought or two:

Physicians mend or end us—
Secundum Artem; but although we sneer

In health—When ill we call them to attend us
Without the least propensity to jeer.

He maketh the earth cover all his faults
Health to the art, whose glory is to give

The crowning boon, that makes it life to live.

DOUGHNUT SHOP IS OPENED TODAY

While doughnuts are the outstanding edible and confer the name upon the new eating place, the "Doughnut Shop" which opened at 11 o'clock today in the Brett-Ward building, corner of Seventh and Main streets, does not confine its menu to this particular delicacy. Ham and eggs and other short orders will be served.

Coffee with real cream will be a feature of the Doughnut Shop, which is under the management of L. Vale. Mr. Vale claims the distinction of having opened the first doughnut ventry on the coast at the Bremerton navy yard. Associated with Mr. Vale are Hart brothers of Sacramento, whose chain of eating houses throughout California and Nevada are familiar to all travelers. The Hart brothers buy in quantities and their buying facilities are expected to enable the new shop to serve a high grade meal at a reasonable price. The first thing considered by the firm in its buying is quality.

Society

One of the biggest society events for the week was the card party given Thursday afternoon by St. Paul's Episcopal guild, at the White Pelican hotel. Tables for 150 guests were arranged in the main dining room of the hotel. Five hundred was played during the afternoon and punch was served by the committee in charge.

The reception given by the Methodist Episcopal church for the teachers of Klamath Falls and county last night was a decided success as well as a large attendance of teachers as well as towns people was noted.

Miss Clara Calkins, who studied music at the University of Oregon last year, sang two fine selections, Miss Constance Fisher played, as did Mrs. Fred Cofer, and Mrs. Melby sang. An address was given the teachers by Rev. S. J. Chaney and punch and wafers were served during the evening.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Steinmetz. The following officers were elected to serve for the coming year:

Mrs. C. L. Roberts, president; Mrs. James Watkins, first vice president; Mrs. Harry Peltz, second vice president; Mrs. Steinmetz, secretary; Mrs. Lawrence K. Phelps, treasurer, and Mrs. Belding, corresponding secretary.

Plans were formed for the making of mince meat to be on sale for Thanksgiving and the president was instructed to appoint a committee to plan for a Christmas sale. The meetings were changed to the fourth Thursday of each month. At the close of the business meeting the business served the 12 members who were present with a delicious luncheon. Mrs. E. M. Chilcote assisted by Mrs. Linfesty and Mrs. Belding will entertain at the next meeting.

The St. Paul's Episcopal guild will entertain with a dancing party at the White Pelican hotel, Friday, October 15. Buddie's orchestra, will furnish music for the occasion. Invitations for the party will be issued early in the week.

The library club meeting yesterday afternoon was attended by about 50 ladies of the city, who were anxious to have the measures coming up in the next election, explained to them. This was ably done by T. L. Stanley. Miss Julia Watters gave an interesting address on club work in its various phases. Tea was served during the social hour which followed the business meeting.

Madames Charles Martin and E. M. Igl were hostesses Tuesday afternoon at a card party honoring Miss Clara Hass, of Hood River, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Igl. The affair was held in the Lorenz, on North Sixth street. A dainty luncheon was served to the guests by the hostesses.

Those present were Madames Charles Moore, G. C. Lorenz, J. H. Carter, L. Terwilliger, R. E. Dewese, Joe Brett, J. H. Carnahan, H. D. Lloyd Stewart, J. H. Martin, J. Enders, Miss Hass and the hostesses.

The A. N. W. club was lavishly entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. George Chastain at the home of Mrs. W. C. Davenport. The lovely home was artistically arranged in a pink and white color scheme of sweet peas and roses. A number of small tables were placed in the living room, with center pieces of sweet peas and the massive table in the dining room with a large bowl of roses, around which were seated the guests and a lovely tea hour was enjoyed.

HONESTY THE ONLY POLICY IS HIS WORKING MAXIM

Honesty is the only policy, is the guiding policy of Eddie Hixson, son of Edward Hixson, who lives out Shipington way. Eddie was helping his father start his car at the Three R. garage the other night when he noticed a pocketbook lying on the pavement. He picked it up and found it contained money. When C. J. Smith, foreman of the Herald composing room, advertised for his lost currency he read the ad. Eddie made a bee line for the Herald office with the purse.
