DRINKS WOOD ALCOHOL, DIES IN HOSPITAL

OROVILLE, Oct. 11.—D. N. Owens, a switchman for the Western Pacific railroad, died in a Portola hospital as the result of drinking a concoction in which there was a great percentage of wood alcohol. Immediately after swallowing the first drink of the deadly fluid, Owens' eyes were said to have bulged from their sockets. The deceased was well known in Oroville, where he made his head-
