TOKIO, Sept. 15 .- (By Mail)-A belief prevailing in Japan that the United States and England may join hands in restraining Japan in her far eastern policy has been the basis of much comment in the press.

Japan's brilliant writer, lichiro Toorgan, the Kokumin, wrote a special article on American-English relations i nwhich he called the United States the "enfant torrible" of the world Mr. Tokutomi regards the prospect of coperation between England and America with some anxiety. The world will be obliged to agree with what they agree, he observes, but he consoles himself with the thought that such cooperation is unlikely owing to American suspicous of England and lack of world knowledge. After summing up his conclusions is to the position of England 1s arbi lies. ter of the world, Mr. Tokutomi says.

"But there comes England's competitor, whom England at least in her heart of hearts fears as a formidable power. America may be called an exposition of the world's different races. But the mainstay of the American people is the Anglo-Saxons, England and America are brother nations with the Atlantic between them. The destiny of the world is now entrusted to these brother nations.

"If they should cooperate in the work of solving the problems of the world, however unreasonable the results of such solution may be, the world will be obliged to agree." thinks Mr. Tokutomi, But he asks: 'Is America willing to act the role of younger brother and follow England's lead? Americans want to be obeying orders in the solution of the world problems and will be the observation of a blind man."

Mr. Tokutomi describes the Americans in this way: "In a word the American is a rustic person who does not know anything about the workd. He enjoys globe trotting and Europe is his pleasure ground "where he dumps his money. But on all occasions he carries his own country in his travelling bag. Consequently aside from satisfying his own desires SALES IN SAGHALIEN for pleasure he does not enlighten himself very much by his observations of the world.

In short, Mr. Tokutomi observes. the war has Americanized the world rather then influenced America, Mr. Wilson's advocacy of the democratisation of the world was in his opinion an illustration of how the American tries to measure the world with automi, the editor of the military the rule he applies to his own country. The American considers that it is his mission to force Americanism upon other nations.
