WATERBURY WOUND UP
The scene of action is all set for a long weary journey to fatigue over the key board of a piano. The piano is in position. Nearby is a small stand upon which are placed numerous small bottles, wrist straps, bandages and eating utensils. Close at hand is a phonograph and at times when the pianist gets sleepy and groggy a record is played and the pianist plays with it. Such are the preparations made by J. M. Waterbury the marathon pianist who begins tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the show foolish and crazy to do such a thing," says Waterbury, "but you know it takes some nut to entertain the other nuts, and I draw salary for it, so why should I worry." To add to the interest of the stunt an electric range is placed in the window and for every hour played by Waterbury, the price of the range is reduced at the rate of two cents a minute.

"Every Knock is a Boost"

PAYS TO GET IT AT THE

Yom Kippur SALE

WE CAN SELL 50 OF THESE
AT $8.95 EACH.

This is a sort of sawed-off steamer trunk in appearance, and it looks as if it would last 100 years.

It is 20 inches long, 16 1/2 inches high and 9 inches thick, made of heavy, indestructible fiber with the lock and clasps and corner buffers of a trunk.

It will hold twice as much as the average suitcase, yet it isn't too big to take along as hand luggage on a railroad trip; and it will fit neatly on the tonneau floor of an automobile.

The lock and clasps and buffers and hinges alone look as if they were worth more than $8.95.

Yet you get the whole outfit for that price.

The reason is that the thing is really an army officer's field desk and filing cabinet—fully fitted up inside with filing devices.

But the demand for army officer's field equipment no longer exists.

So, you can get the case for $8.95—and dump out the filing devices—and you have a dandy little hand-trunk that you can travel clear around the world with.
