CLEMENCEAU HAT LATEST HEADGEAR

PARIS, Sept. 12.—(By Mail)—Little did the former Premier Clemenceau, when he journeyed to the front during the troubled days of 1918, think that the funny little slouch hat that he wore with evening clothes. The Clemenceau hat however seems destined to have a great future.

"Ever since the war men have been feeling the need of a special headgear," a prominent Paris hatter says. "The silk hat is too formal; the opera hat is too theatrical; the bowler locks provincial and soft grey hats and straw hats are out of place with evening dress. The Clemenceau hat which is black, light to wear, easily transportable and capable of being crushed into an overcoat pocket in case of need, will solve a long felt want that well dressed men feel especially since the war."

The Clemenceau hat occupies a prominent place at the L'epine exhibition in the Grand Palais.

FATE OF GERMAN FAMILIES REVEALED

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—(By Mail)—Revelations made by William Dittman concerning the fate of 70 families of German working men and 130 German industrial workers, who migrated from Germany to soviet Russia in the hope of finding a socialist Utopia, have stirred up a heated debate in the independent socialist party of which Dittman is leader. He is also a member of the Reichstag. The Freiheit, the party's organ has been a battleground ever since Dittman returned from Russia where he went as one of the four delegates sent by the independent socialist to the world's communist congress, the third internationale at Moscow. The issue fought in the columns of the Freiheit is whether German radicals, in view of Dittman's revelations, shall pool their interests with the Moscow regime.

Most of the Germans who migrated were formerly members of the independent socialist party and others were communists. Dittman found the 70 German families waiting in Petrograd for transfer to some industrial section of inner Russia. The industrial workers were in Kolomna, near Moscow. Dittman reported that the German emigrants were outspoken in their denunciation of the Russian immigration agents operating in Germany who had talked them into selling their homes and going to Russia. They strongly urged that steps be taken to head off any other German workers who might be on their way to Russia.

Most of the men, Dittman said were penniless, and declared there was no other country so expensive to live in as the Russia of today. They were cut off from communication with the outside world and not permitted to send letters home, Dittman reported. They told him they were inhospitably received by the Russian "comrades" who branded them as intruders who had "come to take the bread out of their mouths" and they also came into conflict with their hosts over the conditions under which they were to work.

The upshot was that the German rainbow chasers refused to work and demanded that they should be permitted to return to Germany.

MODERN WAYS TOO FAST FOR INDIAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—"Too fast, no like" were the only comments from Indian Dick, aged 72, when he recently left Folsom prison, which had been his home 36 years and saw, for the first time, an automobile and an airplane.

Thirty six years ago the Indian was given life sentence when he ambushed and shot dead six of seven Chinese who, he said, had jumped his mining claim in Placer County and killed his brother. Recently he was paroled and taken back to his N. Dorado reservation home.

On the way to the reservation he stopped here and was taken for an automobile ride. An airplane passed overhead and at a motion picture theatre he witnessed world events pictured on the screen.

"Much tired" he said at night. "Too fast, want to go home."

STARR PIANO CHOSEN

W. Waterbury the long distance pianist selected the Starr piano because of its ringing tone and easy, responsive touch.

Playing two or three days at a stretch also requires a piano that stands in tune well.

This Starr instrument was furnished by the Earl Shepherd Co.

OVERCOATS IN JULY NEEDED ON NEW ROAD

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 15.—Motorists seeking the unusual in travel will find it next summer wearing overcoats and furs on the night of the hottest day in July, crossing the continental divide while making the 5590-mile circle swing of the national park-to-park highway, the longest scenic motor way in the world.

That's what members of the official party now dedicating the highway, which traverses nine western states and connects 13 major national parks, have experienced since they left Denver August 26. The party will return in time for a convention of the national park-to-park highway association here November 11.

The wonder highway is like a scenic running moose, and by following the lariat, the motorist reaches the historic ruins of cliff dwellers in Mesa Verde park, on the "Top of the World" in Rocky Mountain park, in Colorado. Starting from Denver, the highway touches Rocky Mountain park before entering Wyoming, where it passes through Yellowstone. In Montana, its course reaches to the extreme northern boundary, touching Glacier park, then crosses through Idaho to reach Mounta Rainier park, in Washington. The highway continues through Oregon and California and completes the rough circle lariat by winding through Arizona, Northern Arizona and Colorado, getting back to Denver, the starting point.

In the course of the circle which the highway describes, the motorist visits the frozen ice fields in Glacier park, Montana; snow-capped Mount Rainier in Washington; an extinct volcano in Crater park, Oregon, and an active volcano in Lassen park, California. Giant redwood forests in Yosemite and Sequoia parks, in California and the Grand Canyon in Arizona, also are included in this park-connecting highway.

The National park-to-park highway association was formed to secure the improvement of the dozen transcontinental highways and connecting roads forming the park-to-park highway, including the Yellowstone-Glacier Bee Line, Roosevelt, national parks, Old Trails, Rainbow and Yellowstone trails. The association hopes eventually to secure federal aid in the sum of $100,000,000 for hard-surfacing this continuous highway. The only stretch of hard-surfaced road at present is 1000 miles of the Pacific highway, extending from Seattle to San Francisco.
