DETOUR LENGTHENS MERRILL HIGHWAY

seemed to throw every obstacle in the way of Cheyne, Curtin, Mrs.

Healey and the others that it could, in the first place, because these people remonstrated against having their ranches ruined by the highway the county court cut off their water for over a month during the irrigation season; they would not give them a crossing for irrigation water, for their roads, or anything else until they were cited before the circuit court for contempt. Judge Bunnell is reported to have said to Bob Cheyne, when Cheyne asks him for a crossing over the highway: "You will take any damn thing I do not to give you." I think that such conduct on the part of a county judge is not to be tolerated in an American community. Just because a man is in official position does not warrant him in running rough-shod over the helpless citizens who support them with their tax money.

I trust that your readers will carefully study the map submitted herewith (the map is printed above) and become familiar with the highway. If they do they will probably feel as I do about this matter. I was on the highway as it was routed before the county court changed it.

Now I am left a mile and a half away and I do not consider it just.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) JOHN H. MATNEY.
I have read Mr. Matney's letter, believe that it sets forth facts and draws justifiable conclusions therefrom, and I am entirely in accord with Mr. Matney.
