WOULD YOU, AS A PATRIOTIC CITIZEN OF OREGON, PLACE SUCH A SIGN ON THE BORDERS OF THE STATE?

That is exactly what you will help to do if you do nothing to prevent the passage of measure No. 314 and 315 on the November ballot, entitled, "Constitutional Amendment Fixing Legal rate of Interest in Oregon."

This measure proposes to limit the rate of interest in Oregon to 5 per cent. You can, by law, fix the rate of interest in Oregon, but you cannot, by law, force the loaning of money in this state, when a much higher rate can be secured elsewhere. The passage of this measure would force the withdrawal of the millions of foreign capital which is today loaned on factories, business and real estate in the state and send your local money owners outside of the state to better investments.

Passage of this measure would mean foreclosure of thousands of mortgages; would result in financial paralysis, and would mean widespread unemployment.

You, no doubt, understand the viciousness of this measure, but have you talked to your neighbors and friends about it? We urge you to do everything you can to defeat this measure. Oregon's reputation as a sound state for investments require that this measure be overwhelmingly defeated.

HOUSE CONTROL IS IMPORTANT SAYS LEADER

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 19.—Will the next house of representative be as strongly republican as the present house, where the republican majority is 46 votes? This question is now agitating the democratic campaign managers, who are striving in every state to elect men of their political belief to the next house. The republican managers are viewing the situation without alarm for they believe it is hardly possible for the democrats to overcome the present big republican house majority. As the republicans are confidently expecting a Harding and Coolidge landslide in November they feel sure the democrats will not be able to capture the next house and they expect to largely increase their present majority.

The present membership of the house includes 264 republicans, 190 democrats, 2 independent republicans, 1 independent, 1 prohibitionist, and there are seven vacancies—total 435.

It now seems probable to all impartial political observers here that the Cox-Roosevelt ticket will secure very few electoral votes outside of the 16 southern states, and if this happens the republican house majority may run over one hundred.

It cannot be denied by any but the blindest partisans that the 65th congress, which had a democratic majority in house and senate, and which was absolutely dominated by senators and representatives from the southern states, discriminated against the northern, mid-western states. That congress collected the bulk of the revenue needed to carry on the war against Germany from the three other sections of the country, but spent most of it in the "solid south. Most of the great government work plants, army camps and aviation fields were established in the south—largely paid for with taxes collected from the remainder of the country.

The minority south not only dominated congress, through the caucus system, but it collected immense sums from the other sections of the country and spent most of the money in the south.

One example of other discrimination practiced by the "southern ring" then in control of congress will suffice. That congress fixed a government price on what it refused to fix a price on cotton—purely a southern product.

While the northern, mid-western and western states supplied most of the soldiers that were needed to win the war with Germany, and also supplied the greater part of the revenue collected to pay the war expenses, the 16 southern states, dominating congress, secured most of the money spent in this country during the war.

When the elections came for the 66th congress the people of the country, excepting those in the south, having been informed of these unjust and discriminatory conditions, elected a republican house majority of forty-six and a senate majority of two.

If a democratic congress should be elected in November these conditions undoubtedly would be repeated. The southern congressmen, voting "en bloc" and dominating every democratic caucus, would again gain control of the revenues of the whole country, and tax the people for money that would be largely spent in public improvements in the South.

Do the people of the North, the Mid-West and the West desire a return to congressional conditions where one small section of the country, of sparse population, and paying comparatively a small part of the taxes, can dominate the whole Congress? That is the question the republican managers are now putting up to the electorate in this campaign. No doubt it will be answered by the election of a big republican majority in House and Senate in November.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 19.—Women in Missouri will not be required to cast their vote on special ballots in the November election. This is the substance of an opinion delivered to secretary of the state by Attorney General Frank W. McAllister.

The attorney general held that what is known as the "pink ballot law," passed by the last general assembly, is void and should be disregarded. The law requires that the ballots for women shall be printed on pink colored papers, hence the name of the law.

In his opinion the attorney general said that there was no necessity for the law; that the full franchise privilege has been granted for women by the 19th amendment to the federal constitution. The law apparently violates and secures of the ballot box in distinguishing between the color of the ballots for men and women, he said.
